DO YOU BELIEVE that the public should be protected from careless, financially irresponsible drivers unable to pay for the damage they may cause?

THEN YOU WILL WELCOME the new Oregon Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Law which becomes effective Wednesday, June 9.

No motorist who can establish financial responsibility in the amount of $11,000 has anything to fear from this new law.

You can establish financial responsibility in any one of three ways:

- 1) Post cash or securities in the required amount
- 2) Provide a surety bond
- 3) Carry an automobile insurance policy (standard limits)

If you already have a standard limits automobile insurance policy, you automatically fulfill the requirements of the law.

If it is not convenient for you to put up $11,000 in cash or to provide a surety bond, then be sure you do have automobile insurance.

Otherwise... if you are involved in an accident... whether at fault or not, your driver's license and your car license will be suspended until proof of financial responsibility is established.

This law protects YOU, Mr. or Mrs. Motorist. Be sure you take proper steps to protect yourself.
