More Gasoline To Be Asked For Oregon Hunters

PORTLAND, June 8.—(AP)—The state game commission is going to appeal for more gasoline and ammunition for Oregon hunters this fall.

Frank B. Wire, state game supervisor, said the commission would address the appeal to federal officials in the annual meeting here Friday and Saturday, when dates are to be set for fall hunting seasons.

Other western states will join, pointing out that wildlife offers another source of meat, hides and furs.

Wire also said the open season on deer, confined to Grant county last year, probably would be extended to other areas this fall.

He said season dates would be changed little. Last year the deer season was from September 25 to October 31 and the elk season from October 28 to November 30.

Men Skilled In Construction are Needed by Army

Announcement has been made by Lieutenant Clayton C. Morse, resident engineer, U. S. army engineer office, Camp White, Medford, that the corps is seeking men in various special trade classifications who may proceed by means of a voluntary induction plan into construction units. Nine thousand enlisted specialists per month are needed to make up construction regiments, he advised. The army is not seeking the services of men at present engaged in essential war work, but it does want to properly classify men who are skilled construction workers into a branch of the service wherein their experience can be put to best use.

Among those needed are automobile mechanics, blastmen or powdermen, bridge builders, construction carpenters, construction foremen, power shovel operators, electricians, operating engineers, water supply filter operators, machine shop foremen, utility repairmen, riggers, tractor drivers, tractor machinists, quarrymen, jackhammer operators, heavy construction equipment operators, railway section foremen, well drillers, motorboat operators, lumberjacks, sawyers, lumber graders, sawmill millwrights, timber cruisers, etc.

Interested men are requested to contact the resident engineer, P. O. box 832, Medford.

WE NEED MORE LUMBER!

LOGGERS! The shout for "more lumber"—and for more plywood and pulp products—comes from our forces in Africa... in Attu... in the South Pacific... and from millions of troops in England poised ready to strike at the heart of Nazidom!

They need more invasion barges—more deadly Mosquito bombers—more sub chasers—more ammunition cases—more ponton bridges! WOOD, and MORE wood is needed desperately! But there is a real shortage of saw logs now!

That is why the War Manpower Commission wants every available logger on the job right now. This government agency is urging loggers to quit shippards and other war industries and to FIGHT IN THE WOODS. If you have a friend who's an experienced logger, but who is not now working at the trade, urge him to get on the job. He can obtain a Certificate of Availability from his present employer on instant notice. Ask him to then inquire at the nearest U. S. Employment Office for assignment to the location where he is most desperately needed. ACT NOW! Your promptness can help win this war!

See "Wood Goes to War" M-G-M Technicolor film soon at your local theater. Don't miss it!
