DEFENSE WORKERS NEEDED

EDITORIAL

By Charles V. Stanton

A NEW APPEAL is being made for Roseburg residents to volunteer for civilian defense work. The appeal does not necessarily apply to Roseburg alone, for workers are needed all over the county, particularly by the Aircraft Warning Service. Men and women are wanted in Roseburg to serve as air raid wardens. Recruits also are needed for other departments. The filter center desires more women in that service. There are plenty of places for people with a spark of patriotism to do something essential to the war effort. But there are many people who would gladly seize a gun and forfeit their lives in repelling an enemy attack, yet are not willing to devote a few hours of their time to a job just as important as pulling the trigger on a machine gun.

The need for civilian defense recruits is imperative. There have been some losses through removals. The vacation season is approaching when there will be temporary absences. Some workers have dropped out because of lack of interest.

It is hard to maintain interest in an organization which has no immediate prospect of action. We imagine an enemy thrust against the Pacific coast would bring out volunteers by the hundreds. Americans are few who would not want to shoulder a part of the civilian defense job in a time of visible emergency. But an organization to meet such conditions cannot be built in a space of a few hours. Recruits must be trained for their respective tasks. The army and navy are giving soldiers and sailors many months of training before the men are permitted to see actual combat. We would have a very ineffective military force if we simply sent out an unorganized armed mob to fight the foe. Similarly, it takes organization and training to do an effective job of civilian defense or to maintain an efficient aircraft warning service.

The effort to organize the wartime civilian services has uncovered a great deal of personal selfishness along with a far greater amount of willing patriotic endeavor. While a great many people are glad to do any job that may be assigned them and seek places in which they may be of service, hundreds of others are unwilling to sacrifice any of their time to the simple tasks in which they are so badly needed.

This is an appeal for those persons who are not now active in any civilian defense capacity to volunteer. If you can't be a soldier, you can be an air raid warden. You may not be able to join the WAACs, but you can take your hitch on the filter center plotting board. If every citizen capable of taking his or her place in the organization would respond to this appeal, there would be a division of work which would eliminate all hardship on those now in service.

There are many newcomers in Roseburg. Obviously, not being well known in the community, they cannot be immediately contacted personally. But every new resident is welcome to enter into the civilian defense program. There is no quicker way of making friends and acquaintances and no better way to win the regard of neighbors.

If it is within your power to take a civilian defense job, go to the chamber of commerce office and sign up now, if you are a resident of Roseburg. If you live in a rural area, your chief observer would welcome you as an aircraft warning service observer. Don't make some other person work twice as hard because of your shirking. If twice as many persons volunteer as are now serving, the volume of work will be halved. Is someone carrying your share of the load? Then don't let that condition continue.

Farm WAR NEWS

THE BROILER SITUATION

The War Food Administration's request for stabilization of broiler production is aimed principally at heading off over-expansion of commercial broiler production. The 1943 national goal calls for 4 billion pounds of chicken meat, one billion more than last year. Farmers are expected to produce three billion pounds of the total, including 375 million pounds from off-season broods raised during the fall and winter when brooding facilities are normally idle.

PRESSURE COOKER PRICES

Douglas county residents who are allocated a new victory model pressure cooker by the County Farm Rationing committee are advised by Leo Sparks, committee chairman, not to pay more than the following OPA ceiling prices: National cookers, $14.50. Wisconsin cookers, $13.50. Bureau cookers, $16.50.

FORAGE SEED PAYMENT

To encourage harvesting of grasses and legumes for seed, the AAA has increased from six to fifteen acres the amount of land on which the practice payment of $3.50 an acre may be earned.

SUGAR OUTLOOK STEADY

Estimates of 1943 sugar supplies indicate that present levels of consumption can be maintained, the War Food Administration.

reports. Of the prospective total supply of 5,753,000 tons, about 2,658,000 tons will come from domestic production and existing supplies will be shared: 1,153,000 tons for the armed forces and lend-lease, 2,258,000 tons for household use and home canning, and 2,342,000 for industrial and institutional users.

FEED WHEAT "LASTED QUICK"

The 100,000,000 bushels of wheat which congress authorized Commodity Credit to sell for livestock and poultry feed lasted only two months. This indicates that wheat is being used for feed at approximately five times the prewar rate, and emphasizes the need for careful management of feed supplies.

Refusal of the internal revenue department to recognize the elective feature of the new Oregon community property law, plus the confusion arising from changes in the federal income tax structure, leave many Oregonians justifiably in doubt as to whether or not it would be advantageous to apply for a community property status. Many lawyers are advising their clients to "go slow." Application of the Oregon gift law to the property divided with a wife also requires clarification. No one should leap into the community property system without careful study, although potential savings in federal taxes are large in some cases.

Taxes, Wine Traffic Control, Motor Vehicle Driving Responsibility Top Subjects of New Laws in Oregon

(Portland Oregonian) The 350 new Oregon laws which went into effect Wednesday will cause no profound disturbance in the living habits of the people, yet the cumulative effect will be important.

There is still popular misunderstanding about the tax program approved by the legislature. The bill for a 3 per cent sales tax does not go into effect now. The legislature offered it to a vote of the people, who have defeated sales taxes three times and a transactions tax once. Unless there is a special session of the legislature and that session provides for a special election, the sales tax will not be voted upon until November, 1944.

The legislature's refusal to refund and reduce this year's income and excise taxes—which are returning far more money than the state needs or can legally use—is of no comfort to the average citizen who is hard pressed to meet his federal tax and war bond obligations. The program for next year, however, will virtually wipe out state income and excise payments. The reduction certainly will reach 80 per cent, probably will be 90 per cent, possibly 100 per cent.

The state will kick back to the school districts, after July, $5,000,000 in income-excise surplus, which will provide a substantial reduction in the levy against real property for school purposes. The legislature set up the annual fund, approved by the voters because it looked so attractive on the ballot. At the same time the assembly gave Governor Earl Snell his $5,000,000 "cushion" to be applied to property tax relief after the surplus for schools disappears.

Poling, assistant Dean of Men at Oregon State College, was guest speaker and chose for his subject, "What is my job?" Ovid Rogers was valedictorian of the class and Marian Morgan salutatorian. The professional march, "Pomp and Circumstance" was played by Helen Saar. The invocation and benediction were given by Rev. H. P. Scence of Roseburg. The high school choral group sang two numbers, "The Desert Song" and "When day is done." Presentation of the eighth grade diplomas was made by the grade school principal, Mrs. Alberta Davenhill, and the high school diplomas were presented by Ernest Voorhies, chairman of the board of directors.

DIAL LOG
By SUSAN
Thursday night—and of course the hottest thing on the dial is 1490 at 8:30—it's the local forum. Let's Talk It Over. This week's subject should be a honey—trying to settle the question of who (men or women) is contributing the most to the war effort. The panel is split—two men and two women—the moderator is equipped with shin guards and mask—and at 8:30 tonight they square off. The feminine contingent consists of Laura Iles and Sue Parkinson, and trying to hold the line for the men will be Jack Chapman and Pete Motschenbacher. Also, don't forget Your Date With Fort Lewis (7:30) and the new Harmony Hall (6:30) half-hour of music that features music by Gershwin with this week.

Now for Friday: the third big fight is scheduled this week—this time it's Henry Armstrong who has held all kinds of titles, matched, with Sammy Angott. This bout is a ten rounder and is being fought in New York—an out door affair again. Both boys are former holders of the world light weight title and both are starting out on the comeback trail, but the guy that loses this match is probably derailed permanently as far as a championship is concerned. So the chances are that they'll both be right in there slugging it out. Anyway 1490 at 7:00 o'clock will bring you the story.
