WELCOME, OREGON LIONS

EDITORIAL By Charles V. Stanton

THE Umpqua valley is proud today to be host to the war problems conference of Lions clubs of Oregon...

To those residents of the Umpqua valley who are not intimately acquainted with the International Association of Lions Clubs...

The history of Lionism dates back to the year 1914, when the idea was conceived and independent clubs were formed...

The name was chosen because of the attributes of the animal selected as a symbol—courage, strength and fidelity...

The objectives of the organization are six in number, but they cover a wide field of social relations:

- 1. To create and foster a spirit of generous consideration among the peoples of the world... 2. To promote the theory and practice of the principles of good government and good citizenship...

Men who accept seriously such standards in their business and professional lives are indeed welcome guests.

That these goals are truly accepted is evidenced in the achievements of our own Roseburg club.

One of its first projects was that of providing wheel chairs for invalids. A struggling club, with little financial support...

The Roseburg Lions recognized the fact that many high school students were handicapped because of lack of funds to buy needed textbooks and materials.

The club, particularly in depression days, found many children in needy families suffering eye strain from lack of glasses.

The Roseburg club is probably no better than the average but multiply these deeds by 4200 clubs scattered throughout many lands...

We join with him today in pride of organization and hope that he will enjoy our valley as we relish his presence with us.

EUGENE, June 21 (AP)—The Aros E. Voorhies award for editorial leadership in Oregon is the property of the Oregon Statesman at Salem for the coming year.

It was presented to Publisher Charles A. Sprague here Saturday at the close of the annual convention of the Oregon Newspaper Publishers association.

Talks by three federal officials featured the closing sessions.

James Forrestal, under-secretary of the navy, gave inside information on the fleet in an off-the-record speech.

Rep. Harris Ellsworth told delegates, "The OPA is taking a terrible beating from congress. It beats me how they have placed themselves in a position to invite still more criticism."

Bruce Smith, assistant in the War Manpower Commission, said the principal future supply of labor for the war effort is among the women. The WMC, he said, is urging women to volunteer for jobs.

Coyotes Taking Costly Lamb Toll in Eastern Oregon

PORTLAND, June 21 (AP)—Oregon sheepmen warned today of coyote depredations that are cutting into the nation's potential meat supply.

The federal wild life service reported coyotes increasing in numbers and eastern Oregon ranchers said the varmints are killing up to three per cent of this year's lamb crop.

Mac Hole of Pendleton, president of the Oregon Wool Growers' association, estimated Umatilla county losses at 2000 lambs. In Baker county the loss was estimated at 3000.

The trouble is blamed principally on the loss of trappers and professional hunters to the armed services and high-paying war industries.

The only solution advanced so far is by the grange and stockmen's organizations to increase bounties on coyotes to attract trappers and hunters back to the field.

Weak Spots Found in Response to Blackout in S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21 (AP)—The San Francisco bay area underwent a 40-minute blackout over the weekend, the first one in more than a year.

The sirens sounded at 1:07 a. m. yesterday and the all clear came at 1:47 a. m. The western defense command announced only that the alarm came as the result of an unidentified target approaching the area. They later were identified as friendly.

Acting Civilian Defense Director John McKown said, "There undoubtedly were signs of weakness in the response."

Reports turned into the police department said lights burned from 10 to 20 minutes after the alarm was given at Fort Mason, the Presidio, and the shipyards at Richmond, across the bay.

Harry Hennig, 25, a civilian workman at Hunter's point naval drydock was struck by a stray bullet when the navy said, guards fired at an exposed light. The navy said his condition was not serious.

A yellow, preliminary, alert was ordered in the Los Angeles area at 10:28 p. m. Saturday. It lasted 19 minutes and there was no radio silence or blackout. The army said an unidentified target, later found to be friendly, was the cause.

Lions Club Prizes Await Winners in 4-H Garden Vying

Two 4-H boys of Douglas county who attended the annual summer school at Corvallis have been awarded ribbons in the livestock and poultry judging contest. Bob Hatcher of Meirrose tied with several others for fifth place in the livestock judging contest. This was a very close contest, more than 500 boys participating.

Keith Henson of Green tied with four others in the poultry judging contest. These five boys had a score of 510 of a possible 600.

According to County Club Agent E. A. Britton, a schedule is being made up and mailed to each of the 101 garden club members so that they will know when he and the committee from the Lions club will call to score each garden project. The scoring will begin on the week of June 28.

The Roseburg Lions club is getting into condition for hard work by entertaining Lions of the entire state during this week. Members of the club are planning to visit 4-H club members who are enrolled in the production contest. In this contest are 156 livestock members, 55 poultry members, 52 enrolled in canning and 101 in victory gardens.

The Lions club, in conjunction with the chamber of commerce, as sponsors to this 4-H production contest, are awarding $150 in special prizes to garden club members, $400 to livestock club members, $50 to those in poultry work and $100 to those who do good work in canning. Each of these will be divided into 10 place premiums.

When the committee calls to score garden projects, they will take into consideration the size of the garden, the kind of vegetables grown, the crop growth and yield, the plan of the garden in relation to the continuous supply of garden foods, neatness and state of cultivation (freedom from weeds) and a good soil mulch, freedom from insect injury, disease and rodents; efficient use of water if the garden is irrigated, neatness and accuracy of record book and daily harvest record sheet; and, last, the members' knowledge of gardening.

It can't be Blue Monday for all you folks if you'll just turn the dial to 1490 on Monday and leave it there all day—because Monday is an especially good day, from start to finish. For one thing, we're always glad to have Lunch-eon With Lopez and the Rose Room back again after the weekend. Then there's the evening shows, including Bulldog Drummond and Double or Nothing. Captain Drummond's thriller this week is entitled "Adventure of the Mysterious Coffin" and tells the tale of a black market hidden by a hospital front. Practi-
