Tiny Star Holds Circus Spotlight

Strength and endurance are combined with dainty grace by Miss Aerialgitta in Russell Bros' circus.

Tops in the thrills promised by Russell Bros' Great 3-Ring circus coming to Roseburg one night only, Friday July 9, with no matinee, will be provided by a group of intrepid aerial performers who defy the laws of gravity in daring exploits high in the dome of the big top. Occupying top billing among the solo stars is a tiny slip of a girl using the altogether appropriate professional name of Miss Aerialgitta. Regarded as America's foremost feminine aerial gymnast, she offers a remarkable exhibition of strength and endurance on the high trapeze. Miss Aerialgitta climaxes her reckless feats with a sensational standing ankle drop, knee plunge, and somersault into mid-air from the flying trapeze to a perpendicular rope. Furthermore, she does it all without the protection of a safety net, and with a display of dainty feminine grace that is captivating. These features are among scores of innovations in the all-new program offered by Russell Bros. this year, combining the cream of aerial, acrobatic, and aerial talent with amazing trained animal exhibitions. Doors to the circus menagerie and horse fair open at 7 p. m. with the big show performance starting at 8 o'clock, show grounds at Bellows field, West Roseburg.

Jones Hits Back At Wallace; Feud Up To Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, July 6—(AP)—Six-foot-two Jesse Jones, the administration's banker, and Vice President Henry Wallace, who outwrestles soldiers at the stage door canteen, apparently were only warming up in their week-long verbal slugging match. Today, their appraisals of each other had hit a new high in re-creation.

The latest explosion—over the policies of Wallace's Board of Economic Warfare and Jones' Reconstruction Finance corporation—widened the rift so far that perhaps only the firm and personal touch of President Roosevelt can heal it. His trouble-shooter, James F. Byrnes, failed when he made an initial attempt.

Jones, accused by Wallace of holding up BEW's purchases of strategic war materials, opened up both barrels last night. He used 7,500 words to tell what he thinks about Wallace—none of it complimentary. In Wallace's absence, his second, Milo Perkins of BEW, took up the cudgels and shot back that Jones and his RFC had acted like the fabled sleeper, Rip Van Winkle.

Jones addressed his remarks to the senate appropriations committee. Perkins replied in a letter to the same group.

There was prompt reaction in the senate. Senator Bridges declared he was renewing his demand for an investigation of the exchanges, to be handled by the military affairs committee. "Congress ought to find out who is right," he said.

Bridges' resolution for an inquiry lies in the banking committee which has indicated little desire to get into the ruckus.

The senate committee on post-war planning may make an exhaustive investigation of the BEW's operations, Senator George (D-Ga.) disclosed, however.

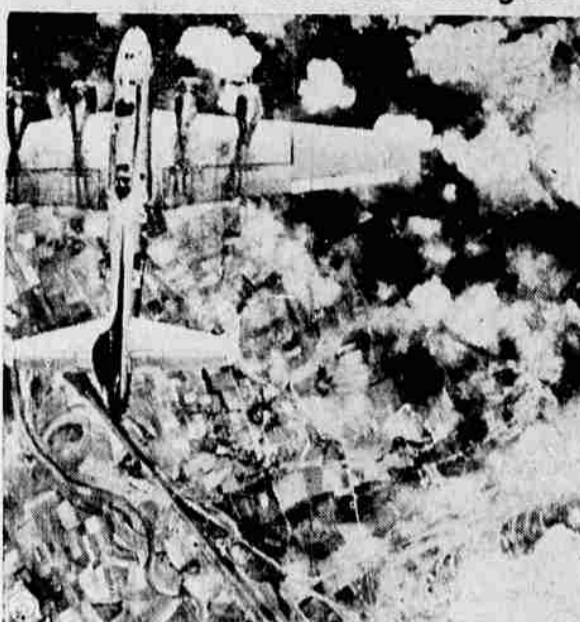

Jones spoke in this vein: "His (Wallace's) tirade is so filled with malice, innuendo, half-truths, and no truths at all, that considerations of self-respect and of common justice to my associates force me to expose his unscrupulous tactics."

He took up one by one the vice president's complaints that RFC had held up BEW purchases of beryllium, cobalt, corundum, tantalum, zirconium and quartz crystal and he denied them all. RFC, in fact, is purchasing 37 different metals and the 29 not mentioned by Wallace account for 97 per cent of its dollar commitments and 99 per cent by weight, said Jones.

Stacked against these contentions was a letter by Perkins of BEW to the same senate committee which accused Jones of throwing up a smoke screen.

"He has not proved and cannot prove that he bought what the vice president charged him with not buying," wrote Perkins.

Fortresses Hit Ruhr Factories Again

The Germans are now feeling the weight of American and British bombs on their synthetic war supplies factories. After blows at the Nazi synthetic fuel plants, a U. S. Flying Fortress is shown on a bombing mission over Huis, in the Ruhr area, where ersatz rubber plants were raided on June 21.

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

Every thoughtful person must answer the question: What shall I do with my life? Jesus never for a moment doubted as to the purpose of His life. At the early age of 12 He became conscious of His mission. "Know ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" was the answer He gave to His father and mother when they came in search of Him. He said, "I am the way, the truth and the life." His one great aim was to bear witness to the truth. It is not only that Christ became man, but the kind of a man He became is the point that is vitally important. The end for which Jesus came was our redemption to bring us back to God, to save man from the power and penalty of Sin. Our Christ brings us the hope of a happier, more peaceful world, a better world in which to live, and if we are to live a life like His, we must bear witness to the truth. The aim of the Christian life is to reflect the mind of God, to reveal to others God's goodness, truth and love. We may make a miserable failure in our effort, but God looks upon the heart, and gives us strength to do His will. When Jesus was standing before Pilate He said "To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world." Is He directing our lives, or are we drifting. Amen.
