KNOW YOUR AIRPLANES

EDITORIAL

By Charles V. Stanton

A FEW days ago a group of men was standing on a street corner watching an airplane circling overhead. It was a combat ship with army markings and an argument immediately arose regarding its identification. A boy, about 10 years old, piped up, giving the military designation, the nickname, horsepower, speed rating and fire power. We men looked at one another sheepishly and quickly switched the subject to the weather, while the youngster strolled off whistling.

That we are not the only ones ignorant on the subject of airplane recognition is shown by a letter we recently received from a manufacturer. He was objecting to the fact that news dispatches too frequently refer to all four-motored bombers as "Flying Fortresses." He pointed out that the Flying Fortress is a Boeing plane, and that numerous other types of four-motored bombers are in use on the combat fronts, but that invariably news reports of bombing missions credit the Flying Fortresses with the exploit. He wanted his own type of plane mentioned and we can't blame him for that.

If our war correspondents had some 10 or 12-year-old American boys traveling along as aides, they would have little trouble in getting their identifications straight.

On the Pacific coast, however, the kids are going to lose some of their prestige in the matter of aircraft recognition. The Aircraft Warning service is engaging in a very extensive campaign to teach all ground observers to identify the service planes which fly over their posts. At a school held in Eugene, one or more selected observers from each southern Oregon district was given a course identical with that provided for pilots, ground crews, intelligence officers and other military personnel. Through a teaching method employing stories, pictures and games, those attending the schools were taught to instantly recognize a total of 55 planes, both friendly and enemy.

They also were trained as instructors and in their own communities are now starting the task of teaching fellow observers. It is a great compliment to the men and women who compose the Aircraft Warning service that the efficiency of their work has been such the army has found them ready to absorb a technical training course of such importance.

When the war first began and volunteers were asked to serve on the observation post, many people questioned the importance of the work, and some were derisive. But the small band of loyal patriots continued their trek to the OP and today they have real evidence of their importance.

The ground observation and filter center corps form an active part of the defense against air attack. Not only that, the service has proved of the greatest importance in protection of the lives of our own pilots. The fact that the army deems it necessary to have observers learn aircraft recognition should, in itself, stimulate greater desire to serve with that indispensable organization.

Identification Of Aircraft To Be Douglas Course

Arrangements have been made for several aircraft identification schools to be started immediately in Douglas county, Lieutenant Paul C. Grotzbaek, ground observation and filter area officer of the IV Fighter command, announced today.

A school already is in progress for observers in the Oakland area. Classes are starting tonight at the Garden valley schoolhouse at 8 o'clock and will be continued for three successive evenings. F. G. Ewens, chief observer, is urging the attendance of all persons engaged in manning the Garden valley post to be in attendance.

Observers in the Riddle district are urged by Magdalene Nichols, post instructor, to attend the classes scheduled to start there Tuesday, July 13, and to be held each Tuesday and Friday evening until further notice.

The school for observers at the Dixonville post will start Friday, July 9 at 8:30 p. m.

Other schools will be organized at a later date. Instructors are observers who recently attended the army's airplane recognition school at Eugene. It is planned to train all observers so they can report the types of planes, both friendly and enemy, observed in the post area.

Cong. Ellsworth to Be Heard in Broadcast

Congressman Harris Ellsworth will be heard at 8 p. m. Thursday over Radio Station KRNR in another of his interesting transcribed messages from Washington, D. C., Marshall Pengra, station manager, announced today. Earl Godwin, news commentator on the Blue network, quoted Congressman Ellsworth at length last night in a discussion of the food situation.

Rudolph Forster, Aide To U. S. Presidents, Dies

WASHINGTON, July 7 (AP)—Rudolph Forster, one-time executive clerk at the White House and an assistant to many presidents, was found dead in bed today at his apartment. The house physician said Forster, 70 years old, apparently suffered a heart attack in his sleep. A son, Warren R. Forster, Washington banker, survives. Forster was a government stenographer when he was called to the White House in President William McKinley's administration "to help out for a few days." That was March 5, 1897, and those "few days" stretched out for 46 years.

Diaper Shortage Faced, House Told

WASHINGTON, July 7 (AP)—A shortage of diapers and safety pins was pictured for the house today by Rep. Francis P. Bolton, mother of three adult sons.

"What do the New Dealers expect us to do with our babies without diapers and pins with which to fasten same?" asked Mrs. Bolton (R-Ohio). "We can do without a lot of things but how can a baby do without diapers?" Mrs. Bolton said the army anticipates a bumper crop of at least 300,000 babies with service-connected fathers or mothers, "and this creates a major problem in strange fields still not solved by OPA."

Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.) remarked that Mrs. Bolton had advocated that a large number of women join the WAACS, WAVES, SPARS and marines. He insisted "there aren't going to be as many" women at home to have babies.

Mrs. Dora L. Dean of Days Creek Passes

Dora L. Dean, 68, a well known resident of Days Creek died at her home Tuesday. Born July 4, 1875, at Loraine, Ohio, she had spent the greater part of her life as a resident of Douglas county. Surviving are a son, Raymond Dean, and a brother, Gus Lapp, Days Creek.

Martinique Populace Rallies Against Vichy

ALGIERS, July 7 (AP)—The French commissariat of information announced today that a deputy agent of Martinique had sent a message asserting that the island had "rallied enthusiastically to the French Committee of National Liberation and demanded the immediate designation of new authorities." The committee announced last week it was sending a delegate

Table compares new deductions with Victory Tax taken out during first half of 1943, but now included in this tax. Employers may deduct an exact 20 per cent of employee's pay in excess of personal exemptions instead of following this table, but any adjustments necessary will be made at end of year when employee fills out his tax return.

Beverage Sale To Be Boosted By Newspaper Ads

Bottlers of Coca-Cola are using a total of 1612 newspapers in 1379 cities for a new advertising campaign launched this week, according to the Coca Cola Bottling company of Roseburg.

Mr. Ernest Unrath emphasized the universal coverage that is provided by newspapers and stated that more than 900 Coca-Cola bottling plants throughout the country are represented in this nationwide use of this medium of advertising.

"The part played by Coca-Cola in the daily life of American soldiers and sailors around the world and the fact that 'Coke' is the recognized abbreviation only for Coca-Cola, form the theme of this new program," said Mr. Unrath. "Our armed forces have found Coca-Cola being bottled at many points throughout the Allied Nations. They look upon 'Coke' as one of those little things that remind them of home."

In pointing out that the new advertising features "Coke", the friendly abbreviation of Coca-Cola, Mr. Unrath recalled the famous decision written by the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, of the United States supreme court, to the effect that "Coke" means Coca-Cola.

Following the introduction of the campaign in the nation's press, the theme will be featured in magazines, radio scripts, posters and other media in an extensive advertising schedule.

Roseburg Guard Company to Picnic

Company A, 17th battalion, Oregon State Guard, will hold a picnic Thursday evening instead of the usual drill period, Captain Samuel C. Dunn, commanding officer, announced today. The picnic is the first social affair to be held by the Roseburg company since it was organized one year ago and the event is planned as an anniversary celebration.

Members are invited to bring their families. Members will report in uniform but without firearms. Roll call formation will be held at the usual time in the armory, after which the picnic will proceed at the home of Mess Sergeant Wegner, a mile north of town.

Sergeant Wegner is furnishing the coffee, lemonade and ice cream and requests that members bring any other food they wish, as well as utensils.

The local company is in need of recruits, Captain Dunn reports, as a number of vacancies have resulted from removals. Persons interested in joining the company as well as visiting guardsmen from other state units are welcome to attend the picnic, Captain Dunn reports.

NOT BY SUSAN

There's a persistent rumor runnin' 'round the office that Bing Crosby will be on the Soldier's With Wings broadcast tonight (6:30). Can't get authentic check, but if he ain't there, the rumor was false. New Juvenile strip started this week—The Black Hood (each night at 5:30) replacing Highway Patrol. Couple of other Wednesday night notes: Sherlock Holmes, which is a honey of a show (8:30), Take a Card, sticky quiz show with WAACS, WAVES, SPARS, MARINES (female) and Gary Moore, a comedian. Cal Tinney at 9:15.

For Thursday: Present Plans on Let's Talk It Over call for the Roseburg School board in a body to make up the panel. We've heard considerable talk about "Let's Talk It Over". Some of the programs have been exceedingly good, some mediocre—these are listeners' reactions. Whatever your reaction may be, the program is designed to do more than just entertain. It's an instrument of community public relations as well as a spot for airing and discussing questions of community and national import. Naturally it isn't going to have the final polish that the network forums have—it couldn't under the format around which it's built. No preparation is required for Let's Talk It Over—busy as our local men and women are, preparation of an extensive nature, research and study are out of the question. Opinions and ideas are the aim. Tune Let's Talk It Over Thursday nights at 8:30—this week, we hope, the School board will discuss the same subject as last week: What's happening to our schools in wartime. Thursday notes: Rose Room 11:45, Johnson Family 3:15, Gardeners' Friend 10:15 a. m.
