FOREST PRESERVATION

EDITORIAL

By Charles V. Stanton

WE had an opportunity this week to view the destruction which careless logging operations can cause to scenic and recreational resources. Smith Springs, once one of the most beautiful picnic spots along the North Umpqua river, today is a hideous mess of down timber, brush, torn and mangled shrubbery and scarred earth. No attempt was made to preserve the beauty of the spot. In fact, it would appear that the operators went out of their way to destroy as much of the recreational facilities of the location as possible. The river bank and roadway offer a picture of desolation and desecration.

We must anticipate the loss of much of the scenic and recreational resource of the county as logging and lumbering are expanded. We cannot enjoy the benefits of the logging industry without suffering the destruction of forests.

There are many places, however, where, with a minimum of care, scenery and recreation can be preserved. Through purchase, exchange, and even by talks with operators, strips bordering streams and highways can be left comparatively untouched. Efforts should be made by proper authorities to see that cutover lands, particularly those adjacent to recreational areas, are left clean and not strewn with a tangled mass of logs, brush, broken machinery, frayed cables, grease drums, etc. These scars can and should be removed and the land left in usable condition.

A man whom we will not name, but who has a first-hand knowledge of conditions connected with the lumber industry, has offered a suggestion which we believe to be a good one and upon which action should be secured at the earliest possible date.

He urges that the county court employ a qualified man as county forester. This employee should be a practical man—one who understands the technical details of road building, lumbering, and forestry. It would be his duty to cooperate with logging concerns, helping them with problems of road location, maintaining routes for hauling logs, and coordinating the county's road program with the needs of the logging industry. At the same time he would endeavor to protect the county's interest in scenic and recreational areas, forestall damage to county roads and bridges and otherwise safeguard the public interest.

The employee need not necessarily be a graduate engineer. In fact, a practical man with a background of woods experience would be the type of representative most acceptable. At the same time he should be a person who is thoroughly versed in the logging technique, so that he would help, rather than hinder, the industrial program.

As the industry expands in Douglas county, such a representative, devoting his full time to the task of maintaining liaison between the county court and the various logging operations, could be of great value to both the county and the operators.

We believe the suggestion is worthy of most careful consideration.

MUSIC 80-piece all blue-jacket band. Another special for Saturday is Chicago Theatre of the Air's production of "Peer Gynt" at 6 o'clock. One other note—Betty Rhodes is going to sing "I Had to Be You" and "Boulevard of Broken Dreams" on This is the Hour (5:00). And tonight please don't forget your Date at Eight—or you'll be so-o-o-orry!

Taxpayers League of Douglas County to Meet

H. P. Rice, president of the Douglas County Taxpayers league, has called a meeting of the board of directors to be held at 2 p. m. Saturday, July 17, at the Civic room of the Umpqua hotel. The directors will consider the 1943 county budget and will make arrangements for the annual meeting of the league, to be held Wednesday, July 21, in connection with the budget hearing. All parties having matters to be taken up at the annual meeting are requested to present them to the directors at the Saturday meeting in order that reports may be formulated for presentation at the gathering on the 21st, Mr. Rice states.

More than 500 pounds of tin have been recovered from toothpaste and shaving cream tubes collected on Canadian railway sleeping cars.

 ing than we have yet encountered, as the way lies through rugged mountains. That's where the hardest fighting is likely to come.

ONE more word here as to planning. You've probably noted in the dispatches the statement that dock facilities at the ports of Syracuse and Augusta (already taken by us) are undamaged. Why? Well, we probably PLANNED it that way, leaving them un-bombed so that we can USE them. It's careful planning such as this that wins wars.

THE fighting in Russia has taken an interesting turn. The Germans, definitely stopped at Orel, shift their weight to Belgorod in a mighty effort to BREAK THROUGH. The Russians are reported to have STOPPED them and then to have TAKEN THE OFFENSIVE. Keep your eye on this situation. It might become interesting.

HERE'S a guess: The invasion of Sicily ISN'T a second front, in the way the Russians regard second fronts. More likely it is designed to remove the Sicilian menace to the Mediterranean sea route and as a THREAT TO ITALY. Italy MIGHT crack under the threat. The Germans might elect to shorten their lines by abandoning Italy without an all-out fight. Lots of things might happen.

The next few weeks will be extremely interesting.

THE Kula gulf naval fighting has ended the Japs' hope of reinforcing Munda. Our remaining job there is starving out and mopping up the Japs left on New Georgia island the same process as at Guadalcanal.

THE Vichy French government at Martinique (in the Caribbean) comes over to our side, placing its ships and resources at our disposal. That is significant as German-dominated Vichy's admission that the jig is up and it's no use to try longer to hang on to Martinique as a possible thorn in our side.

Included in Martinique's resources is the sum of $300,000, 000 in gold, which the new French government can use to good advantage in getting onto its financial feet.

DIAL LOG

By SUSAN
 We lost a day sometime this week—but somehow we thought if we told you tonight who would be on the discussion panel for Thursday's forum it would be plenty of time and just woke up to the fact that the forum would be all over. We promise faithfully to do better on the next one. We also told you you'd hear East Rathbone on "Soldiers With Wings" on Wednesday, but it seems that even a mastermind like Sherlock Holmes can't be in two places at once, and as Rathbone was on location with a movie company, he had to postpone his appearance on the soldier program until a later date.

Now for some news of Saturday's shows. Navy Bulletin Board (2:00) will have an anniversary party. Be sure to mark this well because it's going to be a star-studded hour, with Glen Gray, Orrin Tucker, Dick Stabile, Art Jarrett and their respective musical ensembles, the U. S. Marine Corps base band, the WAVES Glee club and orchestra and the U. S. Navy School of
