towns. Captured Italians complain bitterly both at the Germans and their OWN GOVERNMENT—which, they say, provided them with insufficient food and only scanty and obsolete weapons.

They say the Germans, following their tactics in Africa, are abandoning the Italians every time the situation becomes hopeless and are fleeing with all available transport.

MUSSOLINI is believed to have made an urgent appeal to Hitler (at their recent meeting) for more help.

Mussolini is on a hot spot. He has to have GERMAN support to protect him against HIS OWN people. And he knows Hitler will cut his throat at any moment when it serves Hitler's purposes to do so.

INFORMED sources in Switzerland doubt strongly if Germany will squander her reserves to protect a nation that is on the verge of cracking up internally, and military analysts in Washington think Hitler's best bet is to abandon Italy to defend the Brenner pass.

The fly in that ointment is that abandonment of Italy would open up the German flank and rear in the Balkans. (Look at your map at this point. It makes that situation crystal clear.)

From the airfields of northern Italy, our planes could hammer the German REAR disastrously in the event of an invasion by our forces up the Vardar and Stuma valleys.

THE rumors are flying thicker than usual in the Balkans. Istanbul (Constantinople) says Premier Antonescu has flatly refused German demands that Rumania join in the fighting this summer and says that hereafter Rumania will defend only her own borders.

Moscow says the Bulgarian parliament is meeting in extraordinary session, with all Bulgarian army leaves cancelled and Bulgarian soldiers already on leave ordered back to service immediately.

AS Churchill said the other day, the news is so good that it almost sears us to read it. We must keep reminding ourselves that we're fighting still at the extreme outposts of Hitler's European fortress. We must constantly remember the two years of bloody and bitter fighting that followed Gettysburg.

Otherwise, we're in danger of losing our perspective.

THE Russians are still attacking Orel, with the Germans stubbornly launching counterattacks constantly. As soon as one German attack is repulsed by the red army, the nazis reform their shattered tank and infantry units for ANOTHER.

The fighting has spread southward from Orel over a 150-mile front, reaching clear to Taganrog on the Sea of Azov.

Reverting again to our war between the states, we are reminded of Grant's bloody and determined march on Richmond, in which he took staggering losses in the knowledge that he could AFFORD it and Lee couldn't.

WE're hoping the Russians are fighting with that same knowledge.

THE Japs lose another cruiser and two destroyers out of a convoy of three cruisers, six destroyers and two transports with which they were attempting to run out air and sea blockade and get reinforcements and supplies to their beleaguered forces at Munda.

The Munda campaign is Guadalcanal over again, except that we're moving more swiftly and surely.

Again, however, we must keep reminding ourselves that in the Solomons we're striking only at the OUTSKIRTS of the Jap island empire.

WE ONLY SAID "OUCH!"

EDITORIAL

By Charles V. Stanton

FORMER GOVERNOR CHARLES A. SPRAGUE, in his most excellent newspaper, The Oregon Statesman, recently commented on our protest against wanton destruction of scenic resources by careless logging methods.

"Douglas county, which has been enjoying its new spot in the industrial sun, is commencing to complain over its 'sunburn,'" he said.

We could add that we are also having growing pains and headaches.

But we want you to understand, Governor, that we are not complaining. We only said "Ouch!"

One of our headaches results from the fact that we have suddenly found ourselves in the midst of big business—a business about which we know little, but we're learning fast.

Douglas county is the owner of more than 250,000 acres of timber lands. This is property acquired through failure of owners, during depression years, to pay taxes. During the past year the county has sold around 75,000 acres, but the total volume has not been materially reduced because of new foreclosures.

Much of this county-owned timber is being sought by logging and sawmill operators. On some tracts, sold during the beginning days of the current extension of the industry into the Umpqua valley, the county was most royally "skinned." The county court, however, has learned quickly and as a result of more careful management has been able for two successive tax periods to pay the county's operating expenses out of the income from the sale of the publicly-owned lands, levying taxes only for road purposes.

The court is now being urged by the Douglas County Taxpayers' league to call for competitive bids in making future sales. Heretofore private deals have been made with buyers on a stumpage value acceptable to both parties. The league urges that whenever application is made to buy a piece of county-owned timber land, the court advertise the tract for sale and dispose of it to the highest bidder, setting a minimum price as a means of assuring full value to the county.

The plan has much merit. With values rising and competition for merchantable timber increasing such policy would doubtless greatly increase the county's returns.

There are certain limitations, however, by which the county court should be governed, in our opinion.

Of first importance is the necessity of including, wherever possible, county-owned lands in sustained yield or selective cutting blocks. Sustained yield and selective cutting provide the only safeguard for a continuous lumbering industry. Many concerns will be interested only in slashing merchantable timber as quickly as possible and then moving on to other fields. There is an ample rate of timber growth in the Umpqua Valley to sustain a large industry in perpetuity if precautions are taken to keep the rate of cutting within the bounds of annual growth. Therefore, the more of our county timber we can put under sustained yield practice, the greater our assurance of a maintained income. The Pacific Northwest already has too many ghost towns, surrounded only by the weed-covered hills which once wore verdant blankets of towering firs. Scenes of desolation mark the path of the lumbering industry across the United States. Here in the Umpqua valley we have the opportunity to practice the policies of conservation needed to save the industry from its own destructive habits. The county can well afford a small immediate financial sacrifice to assure continuing usage of its great resource.

Also of importance is the need to protect the small operator. Already we have records of mill owners buying small tracts of timber, expending money for mills, and roads, only to find further expansion blocked by wealthy concerns buying all the timber around them, so that they are unable to continue after their original purchase of land has been exhausted.

If the policy of selling on competitive bids is adopted, care should be taken that small operators do not become victims of the "freeze-out" game, which has been standard practice in many logging areas.

plies to their beleaguered forces at Munda.

The Munda campaign is Guadalcanal over again, except that we're moving more swiftly and surely.

Again, however, we must keep reminding ourselves that in the Solomons we're striking only at the OUTSKIRTS of the Jap island empire.

Trademark Case Won by Bellingham Paper Mill

The Pacific Coast Paper mills of Bellingham, Wash., have established right to full use of the well-known "ALD" trademark on products.

The Federal Trade commission notified Walter B. Whitcomb, attorney for the paper mill, from Washington, D. C. Monday it had dismissed a complaint with respect to the use of the trademark by the Bellingham company.

"It is a complete victory for the Pacific Coast Paper Mills," Attorney Whitcomb said.

Aviation Cadet Recruiters Date Visit to Roseburg

An important army air corps program to recruit more men for the aviation cadet training program was given the official backing of Gov. Snell in a conference with Major Eric K. Shilling, who is on a special mission in Oregon to stimulate cadet recruiting.

Major Shilling will head an aviation cadet examining board that will visit Roseburg on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, August 3, 4 and 5.

Gov. Snell urged that Oregonians give their utmost cooperation in insuring the success of this program.

There is an urgent need for young men between the ages of 17 and 26 years to apply for enlistment in the army air corps. It was emphasized by Major Shilling. The heavy production of airplanes and the increased role of air power in our offensive warfare have brought on this new demand for more aviators, revealed Major Shilling.

Choice of Two Groups This unusual opportunity to sign for air crew training is offered to two groups. Qualified 17-year-olds may enlist in the army air corps enlisted reserve. Upon their enrollment they will be presented with official clothes to indicate that they are future flying soldiers. These men will not be called until after their 18th birthday. They may continue with their civilian employment or education until such time as they are called for training.

Men from 18 to 26, inclusive, who are of draft age, may take the cadet examinations and if found qualified will be authorized to volunteer for induction into the air corps. To be eligible for this program, the applicant must not have received his orders to report for induction from his selective service board.

Those interested in obtaining more complete information on the aviation cadet program and the forthcoming visit of the traveling board should contact Chief of Police Erwin Short, local aviation cadet procurement chairman.

We're not just sure whether we were a week ahead or the pieces that are a week behind on the American Forum. Eyes Aloit publicity. Any way you'll know by now that we were off the beam—the big change will come next week—at least, we hope, that we're right this time. How many of you realize that you have three spots each day devoted exclusively to news of Roseburg, Douglas county and Oregon. It's a grand chance for all of you to pick up the latest news of local interest—and you may hear it at 7:30 a. m., 12:45 and 7:15 p. m. Of course there are a number of times every day when you get the national and international news and comments on the doings here and abroad.

Here's some tips on Saturday's shows. You'll hear California Melodies at 5:00. This is the hour is taking a two weeks vacation. Chicago Theatre of the Air brings you Midsummer Night's Dream at 6:00—a combination of Shakespeare's drama and Mendelssohn's music—certainly a dream of a combination. Also five good dance bands are listed for you on Saturday evening. Just one more note—don't forget your Date at Eight tonight. Annalors will play and sing "Indian Love Call" and "We Mustn't Say Good-Bye" and also plays "Night and Day," so it's 1920 tonight for good listening.

Sunday Churches at the Churches

DAILY DEVOTIONS DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

In a preliminary survey just completed in New York City, among 140 Christian laymen, the majority admit that they derive more spiritual guidance and help from the Bible, devotional literature and prayer, than by listening to sermons or participating in worship service. The survey currently being conducted by the Laymen's Movement for a Christian World, 68 of the 140 laymen revealed that the source of their greatest spiritual help was Bible reading and the Study of Devotional Literature. Only 11 gave priority to spiritual aid received in church services or group worship, 19 listed sermons as their main source of spiritual guidance. Personal contact with a minister was least frequently listed as the main source of the spiritual assistance receiving just one vote. Other sources listed were prayer, 48; fellowship with Christian men, 37; meditation, 27; church work, 16; nature, 8; communion, 5; and church school, 3. The significant thing about the answers to these questions is the emphasis upon first-hand inquiry and study. Reading the Bible and devotional books, prayer, meditation upon Christian truths, these are the activities emphasized in the answers. These men are groping for religious truths and they are going back to first sources especially the Bible. "Thy word have I hid in my heart." Amen.
