Picnic Dated By Warning Service Staff of Elkhead

YONCALLA, Ore., July 31—Volunteers serving the Elkhead observatio npost of the Aircraft Warning Service, together with members of their respective families, will meet for a picnic Sunday, Aug. 1, at the grove on the Coates place on Elk creek.

The Elkhead observatio npost, which is holding the picnic in celebration of Aircraft Warning Service Week, from Aug. 1 to 7, is organized by approximately 50 volunteers.

Three volunteers are especially honored by the group of observers for having answered every tour of duty since accepting pieces as observers. They are George Langdon, Joe Pringle and Ida Pinkston.

Five hundred hour awards are to be made Sunday by Mrs. Howard to Mrs. Akerblade, Mrs. Edith Record and Mrs. Ida Pinkston.

Union Services Set By Three Churches

Union Sunday evening services have been arranged by the Christian, Methodist and Presbyterian churches for three Sunday nights in August.

On August 8, the service will be held at the Presbyterian church. Mrs. R. A. Feentra will preach the sermon and the Christian church will be in charge of the music.

August 15, the service will be in the Christian church. Dr. M. H. Rouch will preach the sermon and the Methodist church will have charge of the music.

On August 22, the service will be in the Methodist church. Rev. L. B. Fishback will preach the sermon and the music will be in charge of the Presbyterian church.

These services will be at 8 p. m.

Bridge Guard Held in Shooting at Portland

PORTLAND, July 30—(AP)—James Rickles, 21, of Steele, Ala., lately a worker at Pasco, Wash., was seriously wounded early today by a bullet from the gun of a special state officer designated as a bridge guard.

The detective said the special officer, Benjamin Watson, 64, Portland, was held on a disorderly conduct charge while a more complete investigation was being made.

The detective stated that Rickles and Watson apparently became involved in a quarrel while Rickles was waiting for a bus. Watson told the detective that Rickles struck him with a bottle.

The bullet struck Rickles in the chest just above the heart and emerged near the shoulder blade.

AMBUSH FOR THE G. O. P.

EDITORIAL

By Charles V. Stanton

THE political war is just over the horizon. Already advance patrols have met in minor skirmishes. The little guns are sounding off and occasionally a big gun roars, while the rattle of musketry resounds in the background.

The republicans, in our opinion, are advancing into a flanking ambush, one of the favored tactics of modern warfare, but apparently have diagnosed the diversionary feint engineered by the New Deal. However, a lot of effective strength is being wasted in treating the feint as a major movement.

Ralph Cake, Oregon national committeeman, is credited with the statement that "our European allies will do everything to keep Roosevelt in the White House; he is the best president England, Canada, Australia and Russia ever had."

Francis efforts are being made to repair the damage and to organize the federal bureaucracies for an all-out campaign. Department heads are being replaced. Rationing restrictions are being lessened. The east coast, where lies the bulk of the votes, is being given more gasoline.

Senator Nye, we believe, exposed the New Deal's diversionary tactics when, in answer to Vice-President Wallace, he said: "It isn't going to help their cause merely to recite how the peons of South America love Roosevelt for what he has done for them with American dollars."

New deal leaders show a determined effort to draw the republicans away from an attack on the home front and into an engagement on foreign policy, where the administration is firmly entrenched in slit trenches and fox holes.

But despite the opportunities for criticizing New Deal failures, the republicans must develop a far more dynamic campaign than has been in evidence so far. There must be a recognition of changes in conditions and an adaptation of party policies and campaign methods to national needs.

The party must present a candidate in whom the people have confidence—a candidate who will be accepted as a leader. The candidate must be one who will proclaim and adhere to a platform of true statesmanship—one who has the courage and capacity to face conditions both at home and abroad without thought of political expediency.

That seems to be asking for a good deal. Whether the republicans can bring forth such an "angel" remains to be seen. But in these early days of the campaign, the G. O. P. can strengthen its strategic position if it casts off frock-coated, antiquated leadership and adopts a program of aggressive frontal action on its own behalf, rather than a sniping, delaying and harrassing policy.

He poured them together before he drank and explained, one day, to a bystander: "I'm used to six per cent beer."

THIS BAZOOKA TOOTS WAR ECONOMY MUSIC. WITH U. S. ARMY SOMEWHERE IN SOUTHERN ENGLAND—(AP)—The "Bazooka" is the new army weapon that looks like a piece of doped-up rain-suit suitable for kids to play soldier with—its often called one of the army's best morale-booster weapons. Almost every soldier who has fired the rocket gun that has demonstrated extraordinary armor-piercing ability (the exact capabilities are secret) has felt himself a match for any German tank. The Bazooka, just a tube for projecting a TNT-charged rocket which explodes on contact with the target, costs about $8 to manufacture and its ability to inflict damage is comparable to a 37 mm. anti-tank rifle that costs in the neighborhood of $1,750.

Chas. S. Heinline Funeral Services Held in Portland

Funeral services for Charles S. Heinline, former Roseburg postmaster, who died Sunday at the Memorial hospital in Cheyenne, Wyo., as a result of heart ailment, were held Thursday at the Mount Tabor Methodist church in Portland, where Mrs. Heinline's father was pastor at the time of his death.

The body was brought to Portland by the widow, accompanied by Miss Martha Yeo, who has made her home with the Heinlines for many years, and by a life-long friend of the family, Mrs. James Miller, of Washington, D. C.

Mr. Heinline was born at Philadelphia and was employed in Washington, D. C., later moving to Roseburg, where he served as postmaster for 12 years. He moved with his wife to Cheyenne six years ago, where he took a position in the office of the post engineer at Fort Warren. He was a member of the Methodist church and was an official of the church board in Cheyenne.

He was a past master of the Masonic lodge at Washington, D. C., and served as exalted ruler of the Kiwanis club, past patron of the O. E. S., in Roseburg, and was a member of the Royal Arch and Knight Templar chapters of the Masonic order. He is survived by his widow, who conducts a music studio in Cheyenne, a foster daughter, Martha Yeo, of that city, and a brother, L. G. Heinline, of Seattle.

Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Bubar, of this city, went to Portland Thursday to attend the funeral service.

Pastor Breaks Fast Begun to Join His Wife

SAUGATUCK, Mich., July 30—(AP)—The Rev. Charles H. Horswell, 85-year-old retired minister, took the long slow road toward recovery today after breaking a self-imposed 45-day fast. For nearly seven weeks the former Chicago pastor ignored the pleadings of his children and friends to discontinue the fast he began June 15, the day of his wife's burial, in the hope of "being with mother again."

Until late yesterday, the aged Biblical scholar had taken no sustenance except liquids. The announcement that the Rev. Mr. Horswell had broken his fast came from the family. It said that he "is now able to enjoy food in amounts sufficient to permit his slow recovery."

Joe Kahut Decisions Berger in Ten Rounder

SALEM, Ore., July 31.—(AP)—Joe Kahut, Woodburn lightweight, slugged out a decision over Bobby Berger, Chicago, in the closing rounds of a ten-round bout here last night. Other results: Mel Roberts, Portland, decisioned Don Crowe, Portland; George Ketchell, Tacoma, knocked out Gabby Cornell, Portland; Joe Bond, Woodburn, knocked out Jack Long, Vancouver, Wash.; Bobby Brock, Woodburn, knocked out Bobby Roberts, Tampa, Fla.

DIAL LOG. We have something new listed for Sunday afternoon in place of This Is Our Enemy—but, the publicity has been a little indefinite, so perchance, come 2:30, you'll hear the usual show. However, we hope to have "Foreign Assignment" which will tell the stories behind the stories of the correspondents. You'll notice that we're not getting clear out on the limb this time—we've been out there too often of late. There's also a one-time-only feature at 3:30—a story of Belgian Congo at War. Don't forget the two news commentators on Sunday—Gabe Heatter at 5:45 and John B. Hughes at 7:00 o'clock—which reminds us no sooner do we announce to the world that we like Cal Tinney then he promptly leaves the net and we don't get him any more. Some mighty good listening spots can't be crowded in to Best Bets on Sundays. For instance, Organ Chimes (9:30 a. m.), Romance of the Highways (10:15), Pucker Up (10:30), Answering You (2:00), Hancock Ensemble (8:00) and, of course, the two Newspapers of the Air at 10 in the morning and 9 in the evening. We'd like to mention, too, that Monday a. m. schedules are a swell antidote for wash day blues. There's Shady Valley Folks (8:00), Merry Go-Round (8:30) and our very favorite perker-upper, Luncheon With Lopez and Rose Room. And all day there's good news coverage, including our state and local events, which comes to you three times a day.

ODDITIES. (By the Associated Press). CASH CROP. BISHOP, Calif.—Mrs. Patrick Kane's carrot crop was quite a success, she acknowledges with a modest smile. While digging it up, her shovel struck a tin can. It held a mildewed money belt, containing $450.

IRON INVALID. CHENEY, Wash.—Dr. J. P. Caldwell answered another night call—and helped to pull a Northern Pacific limited through... The train reached Cheney with an iron bar stuck in its coal stoker, so an extra fireman was needed. Station agent Robert Horn spotted Dr. Caldwell in the depot. The physician fed the firebox for 130 miles from Cheney to Pasco.

THE DAY'S SLIPS. LOS ANGELES—Mrs. Dolly Biggs told police she pinned $4,500 in cash to her slip and laid it on a chair while she bathed. Slip and $4,500 were gone when she returned. Grocer B. A. Dinsmore, in Hollywood, placed a bright half-dollar in his cash register as a decoy—then his $235 beneath packages on his shelves. Thieves took the $235—but left the decoy.
