Launched with Pop; Should Hit With Bang

PORTLAND, Aug. 2.—(AP)—What with Portland's rapid-fire shippings and the sorry state of the wine supply, there could be but one eventual result:

Of three ships launched here in one day, a navy tug and a Liberty freighter were christened with champagne, the third, an invasion barge, with a bottle of pop.

Frog Whips Watersnake In Fight Fatal to Both

SEATTLE, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The bullfrog said to the watersnake "you can't eat me," and made it stick—even though it cost him his life.

The strange death struggle was discovered on the farm of Mrs. Eleanor Erickson at Hall lake on the outskirts of Seattle, where a 26 inch watersnake had attempted to dine on a bullfrog. The frog protested with such vigor he kicked a hole right through the side of the snake which had partially gulped his projected meal down, hind, or kicking side first. The snake died and so did the frog before it was able to extricate himself.

THE AIRCRAFT WARNING SERVICE IS AN ESSENTIAL PART OF THE U. S. ARMY AIR FORCES

This winged emblem is the official insignia of the Aircraft Warning Service. You will notice that it has the words "U. S. Army Air Forces" lettered on it. Civilians who display it are a real part of our Air Forces.

150,000 loyal civilians know that Posts of the AWS must be filled. The job must be done by either civilians or by fliers or soldiers badly needed at our battle fronts. AWS volunteers release men and equipment for fighting duty.

The AWS volunteer is correct in assuming that he releases many planes to the fighting front. If it weren't for the AWS we would need far more fighter planes on the Pacific Coast than we now have, in order to do the same job.

"These men and women of the AWS are an essential part of the U. S. Army Air Forces," says General Edward M. Morris. Here's a letter written to all members of the Aircraft Warning Service to emphasize that statement.

HEADQUARTERS IV FIGHTER COMMAND Office of the Commanding General Oakland, California

To members of the Aircraft Warning Service: You civilian volunteers who stand watch on our Observation Posts and work in the Filter and Information Centers are performing a valuable service to our country. You are members of the Aircraft Warning Service which is an essential part of the U. S. Army Air Forces, and take an active part in the defense of this coast against enemy air attack.

Your work as members of the Ground Observer Corps and Aircraft Warning Corps has relieved many pilots and planes from constant patrol duty along the Pacific Coast. Your constant 24 hour vigilance has allowed our military forces to send these extra pilots and planes to the fighting front because your alertness reduced the amount of aircraft protection needed to protect this coast. Families have slept peacefully at night, workers have continued to build planes, ships, make ammunition and grow food with which to win this war. You have guided lost fliers to their home bases, and there has been a keen spirit and will to win generated by your faithfulness to duty.

As members of my Command, I am proud of every one of you fine soldiers who volunteer your services to the Aircraft Warning Service of the U. S. Army Air Forces. Your services on the Observation Posts and in the Filter and Information Centers are essential to our successful prosecution of the war effort. We must continue to maintain an everlast-ing alertness against sneak enemy attacks and I know that you will all serve until this Command tells you it is no longer necessary.
