There were intervals in between the attacks.

Our losses on Monday night were heavy. Naturally we are wondering if they were heavier than can be afforded. If they were, there will be fewer attacks on an all-out scale.

If they were NOT, there will be OTHER attacks—continued on the Hamburg pattern until the German capital is destroyed.

Will there BE a second LAND front this fall?

Obviously, we can only ask the question. We can't answer it.

But we can speculate as to the probability that our purpose is to knock Germany out from the air instead of paying the heavy price of a land attack.

LET'S not underestimate these mighty bombings that destroy whole cities.

Suppose the Japs destroyed (in spite of all we could do to prevent it) first Los Angeles and then San Francisco and then Seattle and Portland. We'd be getting pretty panicky if that happened.

It's quite reasonable to assume that Germany is getting panicky.

BECAUSE of the question of cost, we're watching with the keenest interest for the next big raid on Berlin. If it comes within a reasonable length of time, we'll be safe in assuming that these staggering, whole-city-destroying air blows are no more costly than can be afforded.

We can be reasonably sure by this time that if they can be continued, Germany can be defeated from the air.

LORD Mountbatten's appointment as supreme allied commander in Southeast Asia is unexpected enough to arouse considerable speculation. The general drift of the speculation is that it forecasts action in Burma.

The end of the monsoon rains is approaching (probably around the latter part of September or early in October). The end of the monsoons will be followed by fighting weather. And the Burma road NEEDS to be opened.

The spotlight may shift to India soon.

Rotary Hears Talks On Magazine, County Data

Rotary club heard Clyde Beard, senior high school principal, give a very interesting talk at the luncheon meeting yesterday at the Umpqua hotel on the subject, "Value of information obtained from reading the Rotary magazine regularly." The remainder of the program hour was given over to Charles Emery, who discussed the number of businesses, farms, population and products of this county for the purpose of educating the Rotarians on facts and figures, so that they would be able to inform newcomers in the community regarding that matter.

THE WORLD OF TOMORROW

EDITORIAL

By Charles V. Stanton

RATIONING is an essential accompaniment to wartimes. It is democratic to establish safeguards to assure everyone, regardless of position, a fair share of those commodities and services in which shortages exist. There can be little criticism of the principle but there is wide latitude for disagreement with the methods of operation.

We have long believed a more effective, less annoying and far more economical system of rationing could be evolved through utilization of existing facilities. We believe the nation could be spared a great many of the officious bureaus and could transfer thousands of the men and women now serving in various federal departments to military or production forces if rationing could be placed in hands of existing organizations.

The grocers, for instance, have a National Retail Grocers association. Distribution and rationing of foodstuffs, we believe, could be handled far more efficiently by this organization, made up of men experienced in the trade, than by a bureau of laws, schoolteachers and politicians. There is a National Association of Manufacturers, which could serve in the production and manufacturing field. Food production problems, we believe, could be more effectively handled than at present, if left to a combined organization of the Grange and the Farmer's Union. The petroleum industry would be equipped to handle distribution and rationing of gasoline and fuel oils. The National Retail Merchants association and similar groups in other trade fields could likewise be utilized. Federal supervision by a coordinating board would be the only necessary executive participation.

The competitive spirit between the individual firms in the retail trades would provide ample inspection service.

A sample of how self-imposed rationing operates was told here today by Larry F. Clemenson, district passenger agent of the Pacific Greyhound Lines. A few weeks ago through bus travel reached such proportions, local depots were forced to halt the selling of tickets.

"The local service is essential to our business," Clemenson said. "We feel it our responsibility to see that people travelling to and from jobs have the necessary transportation facilities, even though the through traffic might be more profitable."

Because of this sense of responsibility, the Greyhound Lines operating through Oregon has limited the number of interstate tickets sold. At the Portland office, for instance, only a certain number of tickets will be sold to passengers desiring transportation to California points. Enough accommodations thereby are left, albeit crowded, to take care of intrastate travel.

The Greyhound lines today are carrying an average of 120 persons on each schedule, where pre-war average was 35. They are operating five schedules in place of one. The company is handicapped by lack of equipment, lack of manpower and slower travel rules.

Because of a sense of responsibility, profits have been sacrificed to give service, and rationing has been self-imposed to make such service equitable.

We believe all business and industry is equally fair minded and could handle the entire rationing set-up far more efficiently if given the opportunity, and millions of dollars could be saved the taxpayers.

Civilian Lamb Slaughter Quota For Oregon Upped

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26 (AP)—The Food Distribution Administration said today the civilian lamb slaughter quota for September in Oregon, Washington and California had been increased to total approximately 100 per cent of the basic slaughter of September of 1941.

The announcement followed word from Washington that normally the quota for September was boosted to about 90 per cent of the base. Until today's authorization, the figure was about 80.

Nationally, a 3 per cent increase was authorized for this entire quarter (July-September) but all was made applicable to the single month of September. Another 3 per cent was authorized for the three Pacific coast states individually, under the same plan.

The FDA said the added increase on the coast was made possible by the large number of commercial and utility grade lambs in this area. To obtain the extra 3 per cent, commercial slaughterers with an annual quota above 2,000,000 pounds (which includes virtually all slaughterers with the exception of farm and local butcher shops) must use only commercial and utility grade lambs in their extra quotas, purchased from designated areas in western Oregon and northern California.

Applications of such slaughterers (class 1 and 2A) must be filed with the War Food Administration here.

The special increase for the coast does not affect, and is in addition to, the added 20,000 head granted last week for Oregon lambs.

Salary Boost Granted Portland's Teachers

Aleutian Islands Topic Of Address to Lions

Leslie E. Roberts, member of the Umpqua Mineral club, entertained the Roseburg Lions club at its regular meeting last night at the Hotel Umpqua, with a discussion of the Aleutian Islands. Mr. Roberts explained the formation and location of the islands and discussed in detail the volcanic action and its effect on the land which has recently been playing such an important part in the war news in connection with Japan.

During the meeting it was reported that Lieutenant James E. Campbell and Charles Thomas, club members, had recently stopped in Roseburg on their way to some undisclosed destination, in the war zone. Thomas recently returned from duty in the South Pacific and Campbell has, until recently, been on duty in Seattle. Both are in the navy.

Skilled Workers for SEABEES Are Sought

If you are a skilled American construction worker, you can help win the war now by joining the navy's building-fighting SEABEES. Thousands more of such men are needed at once.

Such is the message carried in current Greyhound advertisements appearing in more than 500 newspapers of California, Oregon, Nevada, Arizona, Utah, New Mexico and parts of Texas. This wide newspaper coverage in the west was decided upon due to the urgency of the situation and to the fact that, with the axis reeling under repeated allied blows, the time to strike is when the iron is hot. And the SEABEES, it was pointed out, can help deliver the "Sunday punch."

Cigarette Blamed for Portland Fuel Blaze

PORTLAND, Aug. 26 (AP)—A spectacular fire in the Holman Fuel company yard last night caused little damage but Fireman T. B. Ramsey suffered first and second degree burns on his face and right arm.

The blaze, apparently started by a cigarette tossed from a passing automobile, was confined to sawdust, chips and planking.

Shipyard Worker's Death Held Accidental

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 26 (AP)—City police said today that the death Monday night of Stephen Billings, Salem shipyard worker whose body was found on the porch of his mother's home here Monday night, was accidental.

Billings died from the combined effects of a skull fracture, sustained in a fall, and pneumonia.

DIAL LOG
 NOT BY SUSAN

You early morning news listeners will be glad to learn that effective this Saturday (tomorrow), the 7 a. m. news will be expanded to a full 15 minutes. We are glad, even though we do hate to see the Rainbow House cut down to a quarter hour. That's really a nice show in our opinion. The Treasury Star Parade for 9 a. m. this Saturday looks interesting. It features Humphrey Davis in "A Letter From Lincoln," "Hello Mom," the new show which seems to be clicking so well, will take the air tomorrow at 9:30. Flash! Just heard hot over the Hollywood wire that this week's "Hello Mom" show will feature a drama written by an army private. The story is that of an army aviation cadet, son of a famous ace of the first World War, who is about to ruin his flying career but is taken in hand by his widowed mother at the last minute and of course everything ends hunky-dorey. Some good music lined up for the show, too. Stop, Look and Listen is scheduled as usual at 10:30, and of course, you know it is the official program of the Aircraft Warning service, featuring news chatter and songs by Johnny Carpenter. How do you like the Navy Bulletin Board at 2 on Saturdays? We think it's pretty much tops and features Glen Gray and the famous Casa Loma Orch. The Chicago Theater of the Air this Saturday at 6 will feature Marion Claire and Attilio Baggione in "Their Shadows Before Them."

Father Drafting Barrier Forecast

SEATTLE, Aug. 26 (AP)—The army very probably will delay the induction of fathers with bona fide dependents until the house and senate have had an opportunity to consider the matter and reach a decision, Rep. Warren C. Magnuson (D-Wash.) asserted here today.

Congress undoubtedly will take immediate action to delay such inductions, he said. The house already has passed the Kilday bill and Magnuson said he believes the senate will either pass the same bill or join with the house in drafting a similar one.

"The army hasn't yet shown congress the need for a bigger army," Magnuson said. "Indeed, there are two schools of thought on this subject within the army itself."

One action, representing the old army psychology, favors a huge force, he said, while the other, representing the opinion of younger officers, favors a smaller, highly trained force.

Indian Commissioner Collier Again Wedded

RENO, Nev., Aug. 26 (AP)—John Collier, United States Indian commissioner, and Miss Laura Thompson of Chicago were married at the Stewart Indian agency, 35 miles south of here, yesterday. Collier gave his age as 59. His bride listed her's as "over 21."

Miss Thompson obtained a Reno divorce in 1937 from Bernhard Johann Tuetting of Berlin, Germany. She retained her maiden name. Collier and his former wife, Lucy Wood Collier of Philadelphia, were divorced here last Monday. They were married in 1906.
