One Down, Two to Go

WHEN General Eisenhower was seeking some code expression for the command to attack—something which every American would recognize instinctively, but which would mean little to others, he decided happily upon the phrase with which every baseball game is started: "Play ball!"

Before this was known to the American public, Benito Mussolini, who stabbed France in the back on June 10, 1940, disappeared mysteriously from the international scene. And spontaneously, all over the United States, men and women found ready-made another expression borrowed from the national pastime: "One down, two to go."

Now the "one down" has become a fact. Not merely pompous, loud-mouthed, yellow-livered Mussolini is down, but the nation of decent people that he betrayed has collapsed as a belligerent—has thrown in the sponge, surrendered unconditionally.

One down. That makes us very happy. Truly, we have passed the end of the beginning and have arrived at the beginning of the end.

But—two to go. The guy who has been tucked away was at the bottom of the batting order, where the pitcher usually is, although Mussolini and his reluctant Italy have done no pitching since little Greece forced Mussolini to call in a relief hurler. The men now coming up are at the top of the batting order. We can get them out. But there's no use kidding ourselves that we can sneak any flunkies past them the way we did with the Italians, who never wanted to play ball anyway, but who would much rather have sat under their olive trees with some bottles of chianti and sung sweet love songs to their girl friends.

The Germans and the Japanese are tough babies. They are tough because they love this game of war, because they have been long and well trained in it, because they got the jump on us, and not least because they realize that when they are whipped they are not going to get off as easily as the Italians will.

By all means let us rejoice at the victory over Mussolini and the Italians. But let's forget this out-of-the-trenches-before-Christmas boom. It's not only silly. It's dangerous. We've got to whip the Nazis and the Japs until they're paralyzed. So now that we've given three rousing cheers for ourselves, let's get on with the job.

Buy Now for Homes

THE War Bonds being purchased by millions of American families can mean homes of their own some time in the not too distant future. For each $50 invested now, $100 will be available for payment on a home when the War Bonds mature. Everything points to an era of home building after the war. The restrictions on the use of critical materials have kept thousands of families from building during the war. There already was a huge backlog of housing need as a result of the depression.

New architectural designs and new building methods should provide a better home at a more reasonable price in the post-war period. Out of the research laboratories of the manufacturers in recent years have come new materials and new processes of utilizing and applying older materials. From housing erected under the pressure of war needs, new techniques are being evolved. And all resources of industry and the government will be used to provide homes within the means of people of low and moderate income.

The higher incomes which have resulted from the war, if diverted in good measure into War Bonds, should contribute greatly to a sound economy in the post-war period. They not only should provide homes for millions of Americans but help to stimulate industry and provide jobs for returning service men.

awaited channel invasion?

ON the Russian front, Bryansk falls.

Get out your map and take a look at the railroads radiating from Bryansk and you'll get an idea of its importance. In war, men, guns and supplies HAVE TO BE MOVED, and in Russia (especially when it rains) it takes railroads to do it efficiently.

Bryansk is on the Desna river, which runs southwest to a junction with the Dnieper at Kiev. Rivers are and always have been important defense lines in flat western Russia.

The Russians are now on the West bank of the Desna.

YOUR map (if a good one) will tell you that between Kiev and Dnepropetrovsk there are only THREE bridges over the wide Dnieper. There MIGHT be a jam when the retreating Germans start to cross over.

SUPPOSE the Germans get safely to and across the Dnieper, stand fast there and the Russians can't dislodge them?

How will our side GET BEHIND the Dnieper line?

Your map will tell you that TURKEY is the obvious answer.

THE Alger radio (not always reliable, even if it is ours) says the Germans are proclaiming the rebirth of fascism under Mussolini's personal command and are predicting that he'll cancel the Italian surrender, reorganize the Italian army and end the house of Savoy (King Victor Emmanuel).

THE radio at Algiers says there is bitter street fighting in Rome and adds that determined opposition to the Germans is spreading over all of Italy.

Lifting whether accurately or not the curtain of silence that has hung for several days between us and the Balkans, it says there is fierce fighting in Belgrade (Yugoslavia), that 2,000 Italian soldiers are fighting Germans in the mountains of Montenegro and that the Balkans are seething with unrest and fighting.

(A LOT of people think the Germans will fight in Italy and elsewhere until licked but will surrender before the fighting gets to Germany. That, of course, is pure opinion.)

IN New Guinea, the Japs ABANDON Salamaua and RUN FOR IT instead of dying on their feet in accordance with their Samurai code. They've been doing that fairly often lately. MacArthur's headquarters describes the Jap boys retreating from Salamaua as "disintegrating troops."

They're trying to get to Lae, 18 miles away to the north, but we have Lae surrounded also.

OUR navy confirms the Jap announcement of another bomb hit on our planes against Jap bases in the Kuriles. We lost four planes shot down and six more failed to return.

We lost a Jap transport and left it sinking, damaged another and scored hits on three cargo ships, one of which blew up.

Our planes are supposed to have come from the Aleutians, and if so this is the first dividend on our capture of Attu and Kiska.

John Adams, second U. S. president, was the only president to attain the age of 90.

DIAL LOG

We ask you—how can we concentrate on Friday's publicity when Esther is sitting in there at the piano making all kinds of swell music? Guess she's probably practicing for Welcome Inn so be sure to listen in so you'll hear it, too. It's on every day Monday through Friday at 2:15 you know. Well, let's see—we note that Cedric Foster is back with us again, although in an evening spot instead of the 11 a. m. slot he used to occupy, which suits us much better. He is one of our favorite news commentators and we're mighty glad to welcome him back to 1490 again. He's on at 7 p. m. Friday. There's a new children's program starting this Friday at 5, which makes Friday afternoon another good listening spot for the small fry. From 5 until 5:45, when Norman Nesbitt brings you the news, the programs are all for the juniors. We think it's a grand idea to have the programs during this hour saves wear and tear on the parent's vocal chords come dinner time because Junior is sure to be right there with an ear glued to the radio listening to Superman and Chick Carter.

We haven't any advance publicity on "Bible Adventures," which is the title of the new program at 5—we just missed Dr. Roach—so you'll have to listen in and see what the program is to be. Friday night also brings you "What's the Name of That Song?" (8:30) which we like very much. Good music with George Wright at the organ and a lot of fun mixed in with it. Here are your reminders for tonight (Thursday): Music You Remember 6:30, Your Date With Fort Lewis 7:30, and American Forum of the Air, 8:00; also, Faces and Places in their new spot at 9:30. Guess that buttons things up for today—so for now—By.

Yoncalla

YONCALLA, Sept. 16—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lee, Lyle Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bigelow and daughter and Mrs. Martha Noel and two children motored to Bend, Ore., last week, where they visited Edson Lee, who is in the U. S. army. While there they attended the graduation exercises, in which Edson Lee received a certificate for automotive maintenance. He will now attend school for advanced work.

Mr. and Mrs. Avery Lasswell and two children and Mrs. Jennie Lasswell left Thursday for a 10 days vacation to the coast.

Mrs. Underwood is visiting relatives in Oakland for ten days.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wertz of Toledo and Ben Huntington, Jr. of Marshfield spent the weekend visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Huntington.

NEWS OF OUR MEN—WOMEN IN UNIFORM

Pfc Roy M. Levins, son of Mrs. Elizabeth E. Levins, Drain, has been wounded in action in the North African war theater, according to an announcement by the War department.

Pvt. Frederick Carpenter, son of Mrs. Arthur Midland, West Roseburg, has arrived safely in England, according to word received by his mother. Before entering the service, Carpenter was employed in the Royd Bruton shop in Roseburg.

According to word received here, Jack Pershing Bathrick, son of Mrs. R. L. Bathrick of this city, has been advanced in rank to first lieutenant at Camp Robinson, Arkansas. His wife, nee Kathryn Busenbark, daughter of Judge and Mrs. D. N. Busenbark, of Roseburg, is in Arkansas with him.

Merl A. Mulholland, now stationed at the United States naval construction training center, Camp Peary, Williamsburg, Virginia, writes his wife, Lila Mulholland, employee of the local J. C. Penney store, that while Virginia is a very pretty state, he misses North Umpqua steelhead fishing and the deer season. He is now engaged as a special weapon instructor.

American Japs To Face Added Test

HONOLULU, Sept. 14—(AP)—Surrender of Italy will intensify United Nations blows against Japan and pose additional problems of conduct for Americans of Japanese descent in Hawaii, says Lt. Col. Charles A. Selby, an army Hawaiian department staff officer.

He referred, he said in an address to a group of Japanese-Americans, to a reticence on their part toward saying anything derogatory about Emperor Hirohito.

"Too often Americans of Japanese ancestry in this community are silent on this subject," he declared. "If they expect to be accepted as Americans then let them adopt the earthy, refreshing American trait of cussing the enemy, frequently and unmistakably."

He advised "when our bombs are making a shambles of Tokyo, Osaka and other Japanese cities" that Japanese-Americans "act like Americans in every way."

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

"Deep Nerves"—that's what Dan O'Neill calls the jumpy way some folks react to the strain of wartime living.

Not that Dan blames 'em. When you work 12 hours a day and travel in crowded busses—live in trailers and put up with inconveniences—it's only natural to get tense and irritable.

"Folks must learn to relax," says Dan, "and take it easy."

And Dan thinks he has the formula. Soon as he's through at the shop he comes straight home, picks out the comfortable chair and acquires himself a tall, cool glass of beer.

Then he sips it—slowly and appreciatively—like good beer should be enjoyed.

And by the time that glass of beer is gone, Dan says his disposition is as good as new... and the day's work seems well worth tackling again tomorrow.

It's a real effective formula. I know; I've tried it!
