

Seals to Battle Rainiers in Finals Of League Playoff

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21—(AP)—It's San Francisco versus Seattle in the finals of the playoff of the Pacific Coast League. That was decided yesterday as San Francisco's Seals, overcoming a two-game lead by Portland, won their fourth straight contest from the Beavers to capture the semi-finals series.

Seattle, winner of the 1941 and 1942 playoffs, clubbed the Los Angeles Angels, 1943 champions, out of the scramble for extra money with four consecutive victories.

Officials of the two finalists arranged to play the entire series here on this schedule: Single games Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, and a doubleheader Sunday. If necessary, another twin bill will be staged next Monday.

San Francisco came close to losing its final game with Portland but succeeded in topping the Beavers, 6 to 5, in a baseball thriller. The trouble started in the eighth inning when Epperly, Seals pitcher, blew up with a 6 to 0 lead. Southpaw Seals took over after three runs had scored. He walked the first batter to fill the bases. Third Baseman Dawes doubled to drive in two more runs. Righthander Joyce, replacing Seals, intentionally walked one batter and forced the next one to ground out to end the rally.

Seattle and San Francisco will share a $7500 playoff stake. The winner gets $5000, and the loser, $2500. Los Angeles and Portland each received $1250 as semi-finalists. The Angels also picked up an additional $2500 as the pennant winner.

Slaughter of Japanese At Lost Bases Heavy

such a retreat, now have contacted these fugitives. And allied soldiers moving behind them from Lae also have caught up with them.

Today's communique told of effective air raids on enemy air installations at Finschhafen, only 60 miles up the Huon peninsula from Lae, at Cape Gloucester, across Dampier strait on New Britain, 120 miles from Lae, and of extensive fighter activity in the north New Britain coastal area of Kimbe bay, roughly half way along the route to the choicest target on that island—the big air and shipping stronghold of Rabaul. Australian-maned Beau-fighters poured 20,000 rounds of ammunition into an airbase, supply dumps, anti-aircraft positions and surface craft Sunday at Kimbe bay. This is perhaps the first time these fighters have appeared in such an effective role in this area.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21—(AP)—Japanese planes raiding American positions on Guadalcanal in the Solomons caused slight damage and minor casualties, the navy reported today. The raid, the third in a week upon Guadalcanal, apparently was of the nuisance variety and probably was carried out by bombing planes on a reconnaissance mission.

It was announced that a special meeting may be required in the near future to pass upon a pending application for a connection to the city sewer system for a proposed public housing project contemplated on a site outside the city limits.

George W. Burt, Poultryman of Happy Valley, Dies

George W. Burt, 67, one of Douglas county's leading poultrymen, died at Mercy hospital Monday following a short illness.

Born at Pompey Hill, New York, June 2, 1876, he was taken to England as an infant, but the family returned to New York when he was two years of age. His mother died when he was eight years of age and his father passed away a year later. He was reared as a son in the Lando Robinson home, and at the age of 17 years moved to California.

He came to Oregon in 1907 and settled at Happy Valley, where he started the first commercial poultry flock in the Roseburg area and one of the first in the county. He pioneered in the organization of the poultry industry and was a charter member of the Pacific Cooperative Poultry Producers association.

In recent years he had operated the Happy Valley hatchery, the largest exclusive White Leghorn commercial hatchery in southern Oregon.

He was a member of the Baptist church and of the I. O. O. F. and Rebekah lodges.

Surviving are the widow, Margaret Burt; a daughter, Agnes B. Wilcox, Oakland, Ore.; two sons, Sgt. William K. Burt, Army air forces, Coffeyville, Kan., and Merritt P. Burt, Roseburg; two grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Dwight Carley, Manlius, N. Y., and two brothers, John Burt, Payetteville, N. Y., and Harry Burt, Syracuse, N. Y.

Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. M. H. Roach at the Roseburg Undertaking company parlors at 2 p. m. Friday and will be concluded by the Odd Fellows lodge at the I. O. O. F. cemetery.

Stalin and the prime minister himself.

The allies are prepared to place large armies in Italy and to deploy a weighty and active fighting front against the enemy on whatever line he chooses, to resist and to maintain against him with increasing weight and vigor if need to through the fall and winter.

A French army of 300,000 to 500,000 is being steadily organized and the battleship Richieu will soon take its place in the French fleet.

Speaking of the prospect of a Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conference, the prime minister said:

"No meeting during this war could carry with it so much significance for the future of the world as a meeting between the heads of the three governments for without close, cordial and lasting association between soviet Russia and their great allies, we might find ourselves at the end of the war only to have entered upon a period of deepening confusion."

"Bringing" Charge Denied — The prime minister spoke out sharply against those who had accused the allied leadership of bungling in Italy.

The date on which the Italian invasion had originally been planned, he told the house, was Sept. 15, but it was moved up "as the result of decisions taken before the fall of Mussolini, and what has taken place in any case would have happened in Italy at the earliest possible moment."

"The Italian surrender was a windfall," he said, "but it had nothing to do with the date of harvesting the orchard."

Churchill's calm description of the minute and exact planning that had gone into the Italian campaign—it was an answer to critics in the same forum where he had met and mastered so many previous criticisms—presented the picture of an allied hand in Italy far handier than had been previously known.

He did not insist upon having Mussolini handed over to us by force, he said, for the simple reason that it would have tipped off the Germans of Badoglio's plan to make peace at a moment when "the Italians were in the position of having still to appear as allies of Germany."

Too, his disclosure that precise measures had been taken to keep Mussolini in allied hands—measures extending to orders for the former premier's execution if necessary—suggested something far removed from the sentimental approach to the duce which some had accused the allies of making.

Premier Badoglio's government, Churchill explained, had made preparations to hold Mussolini but were not prepared against the one method Hitler attempted and brought off—"a heavy parachute descent at that particular point (Gran Sasso)."

"They had one card up their sleeves," he added calmly. "The carabinieri guards had orders to shoot Mussolini if any attempt was made to rescue him but they failed in their duty."

Churchill told commons that the Mediterranean campaign is not "a substitute for a direct attack across the channel on the Germans in France and the low countries"—that he has never regarded it as such.

"On the contrary," he said, "the opening of this new front in the Mediterranean was always intended to be an essential preliminary to the main attack upon Germany and her ring of subjugated and satellite states."

He disclosed, however, that he and President Roosevelt set Italy's elimination from the war as their principal objective when they met in Washington last May and added that no one "would have expected it to have been so rapidly achieved."

Saying that the almost total destruction of German war centers was continuing on a great scale, Churchill disclosed that the percentage of plane losses to the RAF in the first eight months of 1943 was less than the same period last year and that the morale of the crews was consequently higher.

He announced also that during the four months ending Sept. 18 not a single merchant vessel was lost by enemy action in the north Atlantic and that allied U-boats had not sunk one allied ship anywhere in the world during the first two weeks of September.

Churchill added, however, that German U-boats had become active again and that one convoy was being attacked at the present time.

Life Termer Gives Skin to Save Girl

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21—(AP)—"Gee, she's a swell kid." He kept repeating that, and grinning at the memory, when they led him back to eastern penitentiary—no longer Thomas J. Caulfield, who gave his skin to save a little girl's life, but number 5370, under life sentence for killing a policeman.

The girl, 15-year-old Judy Rosen, is doing well, they said at Mt. Sinal hospital, though it will be months before she recovers from the chest and arm burns that made a skin graft necessary.

She knew that when she told Caulfield yesterday that she missed her mother's cooking.

"Yes," the 33-year-old convict agreed, "there is no place like home."

They liked each other on sight. Later he gave her a clay modeling set and some toys bought with his earnings as a clerk in the prison hospital.

"Any little girl that has her grit and determination is all right with me," Caulfield declared as he climbed into the automobile that was to take him back to the prison where he spent 14 years.

tions have been under way in Great Britain and the Pacific. The Mediterranean success will release great naval forces for the war against Japan, he said, and this means advance planning for bases from which the ships can operate.

"We are similarly engaged in planning regarding other forces, particularly air," he said, "and it will probably interest you as much as it will discourage the Japanese to learn that our most difficult problem is to find sufficient bases from which to operate the vast forces which are to be poured into the Pacific for the rearrangement of the affairs of the son of heaven with his military clique. . . .

"But I would add that these matters are not the affair of a moment, the result of a campaign of propaganda, or of temporary enthusiasms or special interests.

"We must proceed in the most businesslike manner possible to make this war so terrible to the enemy, so overwhelming in character, that never again can a small group of dictators find a sufficient following to destroy the peaceful security of a civilized world."

"Use your stamps this week — avoid the last minute rush!"

Are We Square With Them?
NO! Not until we've settled our score with the Axis! And we've got plenty to pay back—in AMMUNITION that will shoot the Axis right into a state of unconditional surrender. Each one of us has to make up that pay check—in War Bonds. That means extra war bonds—not what we are already buying—but those plus EXTRA Bonds! Let's do it this month—this very day—let's dig up, scrape up, and enlist, every dollar we can and BUY BONDS! It's time to pay them back with interest!

WE HAD SOME OF THE NICEST ORANGES THIS MORNING. THEY LOOKED FINE, BUT THERE WAS HARDLY ANY JUICE IN THEM.

AND OF COURSE IT'S THE WEIGHT OF AN ORANGE THAT SHOWS HOW MUCH JUICE THERE IS IN IT. BIG LIGHTWEIGHT ORANGES SIMPLY HAVE MORE PULP AND LESS JUICE.

THAT SOUNDS LIKE THE WAY TO BUY ORANGES! THINK, ALL BUY SAFEWAY NEXT TIME.

THAT'S GOOD, I'VE GOT SOME YESTERDAY TOO, AND THEY WERE JUST HEAVY WITH JUICE! AT SAFEWAY, YOU KNOW, THEY SELL THEM BY WEIGHT.

SEE YOUR STUNNY WITH ME TOO—HARDLY ANY IN MY GUARS.

MY DEARS, BUT I DON'T GET TO THE GROCERIES TILL LATE YESTERDAY.

AND HE HAD ONLY ONE KIND OF ORANGES LEFT. THEY LOOKED NICE AND BIG AND A SWEET TASTE QUITE A LOT. I THOUGHT THEY'D BE JUICY.
