Russian guns are within range of Kiev.

THE immediate future depends on Russian strength and German weakness. In recent days there have been signs of a German rout. There have been no signs of Russian weakness.

KEEP your eye fixed on the Russian fighting. It holds great possibilities. We can only guess as to what may happen in the next few months—or weeks.

SUMNER WELLS resigns as U.
S. assistant secretary of state —for reasons that do not need to be entered into here. (They have never been told, but have been surmised.)

He is replaced by Edward R.
Stettinius, an American BUSI-NESS man. Admiral Standley, present U. S. ambassador to Moscow, is expected to resign soon, and is expected to be replaced by W. Averell Harriman, another business man.

Both Stettinius and Harriman have been active and efficient in getting American aid to Russia in her epochal struggle. Both are believed to stand well in Moscow.

THESE changes, which are obviously dictated by our desire to stand well in the eyes of Russia (which is Stalin), indicate Washington's firm belief that Russia is the BIG FACTOR in the war from here on in Europe and in whatever may FOLLOW THE WAR.

THERE is still heavy fighting in Italy. Recent dispatches describe it as "ferocious." The Germans in the Naples area are resisting stubbornly. They have been resisting stubbornly from the start of the fighting.

Against bitter enemy resistance, it is announced that in 24 days of fighting we have pushed one-sixth of the way up Italy.

THE most significant news from Italy is that the Germans are abandoning Foggia, on the Adriatic side.

At Foggia, there is one important airport and 12 satellite

A TITLE THAT INTRIGUES

EDITORIAL

By Charles V. Stanton

"HERE Comes the Navy—Out of the Woods!"

You perhaps were as intrigued as we were by that title which appeared on an advertisement by the Ingham Lumber company and the Roseburg Lumber company in the News-Review a few days ago.

"Literally thousands of naval craft are framed, planked and decked of WOOD—fighting craft like the famous PTs—mine sweepers that LEAD sea-borne invasion fleets—sub chasers—floating dry docks!" the advertisement pointed out.

"More wood is desperately needed. There's a shortage of sawlogs. This shortage can slow up our navy and army 'round the world," it was declared in appealing for a speed-up of production.

That title, "Here Comes the Navy—Out of the Woods," compels thought. We know that wood is being used for ships.
We know too that one of the most successful planes in this war, the Mosquito, is constructed of wood. Wood is one of the most essential materials of this war. Its pulp is used in explosives. We face a paper shortage because wood pulp is not being produced in sufficient quantities for all needs. Materials shipped overseas are crated in wood and the lumber is seized to provide innumerable comforts for our ingenious soldiers.

A booklet, "Wood at War," written by Rear Admiral C. H.
Woodward, tells more of the fascinating facts of the part wood is playing in this war and is offered free of charge to all persons requesting it by dropping a card to the News-Review. It is a booklet worth reading, for it will impress more firmly upon our minds the need of protecting this great resource which is so abundant in Douglas county.

Compare the title of the advertisement with these words written by Herbert Grey of the Medford Mail Tribune on behalf of the Keep Oregon Green association:

"When fire fighters were forced to battle a series of blazes deliberately set in the forests near Glendale last week, the imminent danger of this form of sabotage was forcefully brought to public attention. The last few days have increased the fire hazard in the woods and recent showers have not materially lessened the threat. Temperatures are up, humidity is down and Oregon people must be alert to the need for the utmost caution right now. Records show that some of the state's most destructive forest fires have occurred AFTER the fall rains and even after snow has fallen. Untold damage might be caused at this time by the firebug, the saboteur or the loyal American who is careless. An irresponsible act by a patriotic citizen can be as costly to the war effort as the treachery of the worst brand of saboteur."

A person who would damage a war vessel either by deliberate sabotage or through an act of negligence would be severely punished. Yet the nefarious practice of the firebug in southern Oregon forests has actually been condoned by many people in past years. As we come to a greater realization of the value of our timber resources, we are becoming less tolerant of the incendiaries.

The picture of our navy materializing from our forests should serve to erase the last trace of quiescence.

fields. That is to say, it is a great air base. Foggia is about 600 miles from the Rumanian oil fields, which are now the Germans' principal oil supply.

Once we are established there, constant pounding of these oil fields may be expected.

Ex-Riverside Resident Aiding War Program

Mrs. James E. Quigley, former resident of Riverside, was the subject of an interesting article appearing recently in a newspaper at Denver, where she is now making her home.

Mrs. Quigley's husband is a prisoner of war, having been captured at Wake Island, where he was serving as a construction engineer at the time that Pacific outpost was taken by the Japanese.

Since that time Mrs. Quigley has been working in a Denver ordinance plant, has given five blood donations to the Red Cross and has been a leader in war relief activities, maintaining at the same time a home for her five children.

DIAL LOG

By SUSAN

Back in the days of radio's infancy—back in the era of crystal sets—one of the first comedians on the air waves was a gentleman by the name of Henry Burbig—and the same gentleman will appear tonight as a guest contestant on Take A Card. We were also interested to know that another contestant, Mrs. Constance Gibson, whose husband is a mere brigadier-general, is working in the Sperry Gyroscope factory. Perhaps you've guessed that this is one show we always try to hear—but we do enjoy it it's light and lots of fun. Thursday's program has all your old favorites scheduled. And we hope you've noticed the change of time for the Johnson Family—now being aired at 4:15 p. m.
Your Date With Fort Lewis at 7:30 in the evening and then for a full hour from 8 until 9 you'll get the American Forum of the Air. This week's debate is loaded with dynamite, so should make good listening. Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., and Reverend F. Cole will take the affirmative and William S. Jack and J.
Raymond Walsh will argue agin.
The subject, Why a National Service Law? In other words, Should Labor be Drafted? Following the Forum you get a full hour of news from 9 to 10. While we're on the subject of news we hope you aren't overlooking the full and exclusive coverage of state and local news that you get every week day on 1490. It's a special feature to keep you in touch with the times and so we hope you aren't missing it.

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

Rome was already on the way to her downfall and St.
Paul knew it. He warned her of her impending destruction and in his letter pointed her to the way of salvation. He offered her a gospel that he knew was adequate for national redemption, but Rome was in no frame of mind to heed him, for she had lost her sense of mission. "Where there is no vision," say the wise men, "the people perish."
That was true of Rome, just as it is true of people and nations today. H. G. Wells in The Research Magnificent tells of a young man who saw life as a succession of days that became steadily more crowded with ignoble and trivial occupations. Then suddenly he reached out his arms in the darkness and prayed aloud, "O God, give me back my visions." After 410 A. D.
Rome kept crying to an unsympathetic world, "Give me back my visions." Had she followed the way of Christ, she never would have lost them. Let us pray God that in these perilous days our own country may never make the same mistake. Only those who put their trust in God are unafraid. Paul told the Romans, "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation to every man that believeth." It is our hope for today, men.

Third Instalment Of Oregon Taxes Due Oct. 15

SALEM, Ore., Sept. 29 (AP)— The third state income tax instalment is due October 15, the state tax commission warned today.

Only about 4,000 taxpayers—those who make quarterly payments—will make payments on that date.

There are more than 200,000 state income taxpayers, but only those 4,000 take advantage of the 1943 law permitting quarterly payments.

Because they know their

Have a Coca-Cola = Welcome, Short-Snorter

...or how to bring folks closer together

When short-snorters (trans-ocean flyers) meet and compare their autographed dollar bills, the invitation Have a "Coke" is fairly sure to follow.
In three short words people strike the spark of comradeship. From the family fireside to far-flung fronts, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become a symbol of those who see things in a friendly light.
