stroyed the airfields before leaving, but our side says they didn't.

With Foggia and its airfields lost, the Germans seem to have struck immediately at the Italian-held Greek island of Corfu and the seaport of Split—both just across the Adriatic from Italy.

They claim to have overpowered the Italian troops on Corfu and to have taken Split—presumably from Yugoslav guerrillas who are supposed to have taken it shortly after the Italian surrender.

(With Foggia gone, they realize that the Balkan side of the Adriatic is vulnerable to us, and move to strengthen it all they can.)

In the South Pacific (where we're still fighting only a token war while we concentrate on Hitler) MacArthur's Australians are going after the Jap seaport base of Madang, on the island's north coast.

They're moving up the relatively broad Markham valley, which leads off to the northwest from Lae. It was in this valley that troops were recently landed by air transport. The plan appears to be to move up the Markham to a point south of Madang and then cross the mountains.
 (Consult your map if you want to understand the situation.)

The overall purpose is to clear the Japs from New Guinea.
 When Madang is taken, we'll move on to Wewak, 200 miles to the west.

CHURCHILL tells 6,000 assembled British women that Britain's job is to maintain its present war effort through the next two years—"through the fifth year of the war or the sixth year, if need be," he tells them.

He doesn't say NOT to hope for the best. He's merely announcing Britain's wise purpose to PREPARE FOR THE WORST.

BESIDES, there is Britain's firm commitment, in words whose meaning is unmistakable, to stay with us until the Japs are licked.

MEANWHILE, in Portland, Benjamin Kiser, of Spokane, a guest of Reed college, drops a thought-provoking remark.

He says:
 "Unless there is a JUST peace, no international police force, however large, will be able to maintain post-war freedom."

THE peace treaties that follow hard-fought wars are APT to be bad.

The Congress of Vienna, that met to make peace after the Napoleonic wars, was TERRIBLE.
 About all the titled politicians who composed its influential membership could think of was to put back the moronic Bourbon dynasty on the throne of France.

What the common people of Europe had really been fighting for all through the bloody Napoleonic war was to GET RID OF moronic kings.

GRANT'S terms to Lee at Appomattox (including his "tell your men to take their horses home with them and go to plowing corn and cotton") were wise and tolerant—given one fighting man to another.

But the Northern POLITI-CIANS stepped in and set up the carpet-baggers to rob the beaten South and the bitter hatreds that were aroused by the carpet-bag-gers lasted nearly three-quarters of a century.

 ing men had fought the last

IT'S A GREAT VICTORY

EDITORIAL

By Charles V. Stanton

WE are nearing the last hours of the Third War Loan drive.
 Although sales made during the balance of this week probably will be counted in the quotas, Douglas county expects to go over the top tonight.

It has been a good campaign. Here in Douglas county we have, we believe, a good feeling, not only in having achieved a victory in bond sales, but because we have had an opportunity to pay personal tribute to our valiant men and women in the various branches of military service.

Not only have individual buyers dedicated bonds to their relatives and friends in service, but businesses and organizations are buying advertising space to pay special tribute to employees.

We are assuming that tonight's sales will complete our quota.
 We have not yet reached the mark but we have confidence that the goal will be attained. But more bond purchases are needed. We must be sure. It would be pitiful to fall only a few thousand dollars short.

Retail stores are open in Roseburg until 8 o'clock tonight.
 In addition there will be a big auction sale at Cass and Jackson streets, where you can obtain some very scarce articles.

Let's make sure of victory. Buy another bond if you can possibly do so.

Comics and Classifieds

PERHAPS you have been a little confused lately trying to chase your favorite comic strip character through the pages of the News-Review. Certainly we have been bewildered by the mass of classified advertising business which is threatening to chase, Freckles, Alley Oop and Red Ryder completely off the page.

Existing conditions have resulted in a phenomenal growth of classified advertising in newspapers throughout the nation. The shortage of goods on the market makes the classified columns of the newspaper the ideal place in which to sell, exchange or buy merchandise or secure services not obtainable through normal channels.

The classified advertising department of the News-Review is one of the busiest in the office. Hundreds of people are finding it a most satisfactory means of establishing contacts at little cost.

But because demands for space on the classified page are increasing so rapidly, we have been forced to switch our comic strips to other pages wherever room may be available.

If the present rate of expansion continues, we will soon be forced to introduce another classified advertisement section, which will enable us to get back to a routine. At present, however, we are just in that betwixt and between stage where you can expect most anything to happen.

Being limited on newsprint, we must use every possible means of keeping paper consumption to a minimum. Therefore you are finding crowded columns in your newspaper and a conservation of space that is unusual.

So if Alley Oop lands in the middle of the society section don't be surprised. Certainly he won't after the adventures he has been having.

And while we are talking about the News-Review, don't forget the annual bargain rate offer—a full year's subscription at a discount of $1 or more—starts Oct. 9 for two weeks.

world war, made what we now know to have been a poor job of the peace.

MORAL:
 Let's be as wise and as careful as we have the brains to be in choosing the men we send to make OUR SHARE of the peace that will follow this war.

FORT RILEY, Kas.—What is the fastest selling commodity at the army post exchange at Fort Riley?

You're wrong.
 Foot powder tops the list of the modern cavalryman's purchases.

The amount sold in a year weighs more than two tons—not including the output at four free dispensaries.

Negro's Last Wish Met; Two Bands at Funeral

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 30.—(AP) —The white friends of Sam Sparks granted his life-long wish to be buried with two bands.

The 71-year-old negro of Gretna died Sunday and an extra band was engaged from New Orleans to join his funeral procession yesterday.

Sparks' record showed he had buried in grand style 91 members of his club, the Wolves Aid and Pleasure club. Wearing his high beaver hat and long-tail Prince Albert coats, Sparks always marched ahead of the band as it played a slow funeral dirge en route.

"What I wants when I dies, white folks," Sam often said, "is to be the onliest negro in Gretna ever to be buried with two bands."

The Wolves, in order for Sam's funeral procession to pass the bar and restaurant where he worked, added several blocks to the route.

Deadline Cited on Yule Parcels For Overseas Troops

Relatives and friends of service men were reminded today that the last day for mailing Christmas packages overseas is Oct. 15.

Maximum weight allowed for any one package is five pounds. It must not be more than 15 inches long or more than 36 inches in combined length and girth. Each parcel must be clearly labeled "Christmas gift parcel". This mark must not resemble postage stamp or official mark of any kind.

The importance of a complete address, printed clearly with a substance that will not mar, smudge or run, was stressed. Every address should include the full name of the soldier, his rank, and his army serial number on the first line. The name of the organization with which he is serving should be on the second line. His army post office number should be on the third line. The postmaster through which the package is routed should be on the fourth line.

For example: Pvt. John Francis Doe, ASN 89006554, Co. B, 739th Inf., APO 6642, c/o Postmaster, San Francisco Calif.

Army mail service officials urge that a strong packing box be used. If the package contains various small items, each of these must be wrapped separately, so that no danger to the contents or to the handlers may occur.

Postage must be fully prepaid—that is, from the post office where mailed to the port of embarkation post office in care of which packages are addressed.
