the long and bloody seven months from Buna to Salamaua.

MacArthur points out that this has been accomplished with "forces ALWAYS LESS than those available to the enemy."

GENERAL Arnold, head of the U. S. army air force, speaking in Seattle at the opening of a drive for 9,000 new workers for Boeing to build more Flying Fortresses, says:

"U. S. and British air forces saved the allied troops from ANNIHILATION at Salerno. To do it, we had to scrape together every possible plane from every possible source in the Mediterranean area.

"It nearly wasn't enough. The task would have been easier with more planes; it COULDN'T HAVE BEEN DONE WITH LESS."

ARNOLD adds that the fighting in Italy is just a curtain-raiser.

"The big battles (in Europe), he says, "are yet to be joined, and when they are joined it will be the army with the extra material that will conquer."

THERE'S a new point of minor interest.

Germany land "in strength" on the island of Coo in the Dodecanese group just off the Turkish coast in the Aegean sea and capture several points in stubborn fighting with the British garrison.

The Germans already hold Rhodes, in the Dodecanese group. Don't forget the Aegean entirely. Nothing has happened there yet but these recurring battles for islands indicate that something MAY HAPPEN there sooner or later.

FOR days, we've been getting fuzzy rumors about a separate peace between the Germans and the Russians. Most of these rumors seem to come from the Balkans, and it is practically certain that they're planted by the Germans, who are trying to stir up suspicion and ill-will between us and the British, on one side, and the Russians, on the other.

AS long as we and the British and the Russians stick together, the Germans haven't a chance in the world to win the war and they have very little chance indeed to win the better peace that's about all they have left to fight for.

But if they split the Russians off from us and the British and get the three of us to quarreling in advance over the spoils that will remain to be divided after Germany is licked, they'd have accomplished something worth while from their standpoint.

LIFE WITHOUT A NEWSPAPER

EDITORIAL

By Charles V. Stanton

HOW would you like to live in a community that had no newspaper? Did you ever stop to think just how much the newspaper contributes to your daily life and the welfare of your town. You doubtless are like the majority of persons who accept your newspaper as a matter of course. You grab because there is "no news," but you make an awful fuss if the carrier boy is a few minutes late or if, as happens so often without apparent reason, you are missed entirely. We like to have people complain when they miss their newspaper. We know then that the paper is appreciated.

But life would be much more dreary, wouldn't it, if you were unable to obtain a newspaper?

You would hear reports of accidents, accounts of crimes, news of industrial or business development only by word of mouth. We know by sad experience that such reports would come to you in a most distorted fashion. You would have no way of sorting the truth from the imaginary or exaggerated. You would have none of the news of the comings and goings of your friends and acquaintances. Your schools and churches would suffer because of inability to impart information of their activities and meetings. Societies, clubs, lodges and organizations would have a much more difficult time maintaining interest. News of weddings, births and deaths might reach you or might not. You would never be sure of the information you received.

Back fence gossip would be a poor substitute for your daily newspaper.

The invention of printing marked the end of the Dark Ages. The facilities for collection and dissemination of news have paced the progress of civilization. Our industrial life attained maturity through the "Golden Age of Advertising."

Modern merchandising has been developed through the advertising columns of newspapers. Without advertising to stimulate rapid turnover and volume sales, retail outlets would be badly handicapped. Many merchants fail to avail themselves of the opportunity for increased business offered by newspapers and they also fail to realize the obligation they owe the newspapers for the very existence of their business, for it is the power of newspaper advertising that has created and maintained modern retail methods. Without advertising we would still be back in the days of the general store and the open cracker barrel.

A newspaper can build or disrupt a community. It can promote harmony and cooperation, or it can stimulate factionalism, suspicion and strife. As has been shown by the pornographic German press, owned and controlled by degenerate dictators, it can destroy the moral fibre of a nation, or, on the other hand, it can be a powerful influence for righteousness.

The power of the press is almost unlimited. In reckless, careless or acquisitive control the newspaper can be a dangerous weapon. That is one reason the slogan of National Newspaper Week is "A Free Press and a Free People—An Unbeatable Team."

U. S. May Have to Go Into Rubber Making--Jeffers

OMAHA, Oct. 6 (AP)—The government may find it necessary to "go into the manufacture of tires and rubber goods generally" to avert "unnecessary interference" and "continual bickering and keeling" of the rubber program, former Rubber Administrator William M. Jeffers believes.

Jeffers disclosed his views in reply to a telegram from the Philadelphia Record, which cited a news story from Akron, O., containing warnings from five rubber company executives that immediate steps must be taken to avoid a threatened collapse of rubber transport.

The newspaper asked that "in view of these facts hadn't you better return to your job as rubber director, and stick to the job until it is done right?"

Jeffers reiterated his resignation declaration that "the big job covered by the recommendations in the Baruch report is done," and asserted that some of the rubber companies "are devoting too much of their manpower and facilities to other than making tires for military or civilian use."

Delivery of Cans For Salvage Asked Of Residents Here

Residents of Roseburg and vicinity having an accumulation of cans for salvage are requested by Fred A. Goff, county salvage chairman, to deliver the cans, if possible, either to the Pepsi-Cola Bottling company plant at the Douglas Ice and Storage company building, or the Coca Cola Bottling company plant in the Roseburg Dairy and Soda Works building. E. T. Unrath, Coca Cola agent, and Albert Micelli, local Pepsi-Cola distributor, who are handling the shipping of cans for tin salvage, are preparing to make up a carload shipment. Goff stated, and will have space for a considerable amount of tin.

At the present time, however, there are no facilities for collection and residents are asked to cooperate by delivering their accumulations to the respective shipping agencies.

Plans will be worked out at a later date, Goff said, for collections through the schools, but the organizational work cannot be done at this time.

He also announced that no campaign for heavy metals is contemplated in Oregon and Washington during the balance of this year, due to the fact that both states made such a remarkable record in the first salvage drive that stock piles still contain a considerable amount of scrap. All scrap metal should be saved, however, Goff said, as it is expected there will be a campaign at some future date.

Grangers Will Plan Membership Drive

A grange membership campaign will be planned at a meeting of Douglas County Pomona grange with Riverside grange on October 16, Fred A. Goff, county deputy, reported today. The meeting will be held at the Riverside grange hall at 8 p. m., and all grange members attending are requested to bring sandwiches and cookies. Pomona grange will furnish coffee.

A joint letter has been sent by W. O. Patterson, master of Pomona grange, and Mr. Goff to all subordinate granges, urging particularly the attendance of all masters, lecturers and secretaries.

It is particularly desired, Goff said, to bring into grange membership as many of the new residents of the county as can qualify. Plans also will be made for continuance of the grange agricultural program.

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

St. Paul when writing to the Romans said, "We glory in tribulations." Tragedy is used by some as an excuse for self-pity and brooding littleness. There are other souls who leave defeated and hopeless and yet to still others it has added strength and depth to lives already rich in spiritual experience. The marks of many tragedies in St. Paul's body assures us that his spirit had mounted up through pain and suffering like so many steps into a sort of high calm and an almost superhuman understanding. There is an old Russian proverb which reads, "The hammer shatters glass but forges steel." Some tragedy may break the shallow, self-centered brittle spirit. But that same catastrophe may strengthen and reshape the soul whose strength is in the Lord. Whose metal has been softened to pliability by the warm glow of a Christ-like compassion for other sufferers. Truth is not to be distilled from life by those who shrink from its flames. "When through fiery trials thy pathway shall lie, my grace all sufficient shall be thy supply. The flame shall not hurt thee. I only design thy dress to consume, and thy gold to refine." Thus we may glory in tribulation. Amen.

DIAL LOG

By SUSAN

We're in the throes of house-cleaning down here at KRNR and most of the advance publicity on tonight and tomorrow's shows has been lost in the shuffle. Ah, well, no one is paying much attention nowadays to anything except the World Series, so why not dial 1490 when you Rise and Shine at 6:45 in the morning and just don't bother it all day. Of course, if you don't get up that early you can tune in any time the spirit moves you, but we hope all you ladies aren't forgetting the Pegeen Fitzgerald is back with us at 8:55—and we especially hope you aren't missing Esther Geddes when she brings you Top of the Morning at 9:30. As to tonight's shows, we remember that there was to be a specially interesting guest contestant on Take A Card at 8, but for the life of us we can't remember who it is. Also, from that grab-bag we call our mind, we produce the following scraps of information: Private McMichael, formerly a member of the Merry Maes of radio fame, is now heard on Soldiers With Wings—that's the one you get tonight at 6:30, and Fulton Lewis Jr., is Jimmy Scribner's Johnson Family at 4:15, most ardent fan—never misses a broadcast. Thursday, besides the ball games, you get Junior Jamoree at 5; Music You Remember at 6:30; Your Date With Fort Lewis at 7:30 and American Forum of the Air at 8. Incidentally, this is the last night you'll get the Forum on Thursday night—where it will move and whether we'll still be getting it still rest in the laps of the gods.

Apple Ceiling Prices Given Boost by OPA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—An increase of approximately 34 cents on a 45-pound package over the ceiling tentatively announced in September will be provided by new apple ceiling prices signed by War Food Administrator Marvin Jones, Rep. Holmes (R. Wash.) said last night.

He said the basic price to the growers for 45-pound packages, for October delivery, had been set at $2.59, f. o. b. country shipping points, with a corresponding adjustment per pound according to package weight.

Also approved, he said, was a 17-cent markup to the grower for each month apples are in storage during the shipping season.

Cigarette Shortage Faced, Federal Warning

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—Americans are facing a cigarette shortage, the Commerce department said today.
