THE WASTE OF NEWSPRINT

EDITORIAL

By Charles V. Stanton

OUR temper is threatening to get the best of us today and the longer we go the madder we get, so perhaps the best thing to do is get the complaint off our chest before we do something drastic. Of course, postal laws prevent us from using the kind of language we are thinking right now and we are badly handicapped in getting our real feelings down on paper because of the necessity of being circumspect with our words.

But we have before us an Associated Press news item from New York announcing that "a further reduction in permitted consumption of newsprint paper was possible for November and December of this year. Such an additional slash would be on the heels of a 5 to 10 per cent cut which went into effect Oct. 1, paying down the amount of paper available to newspapers to a basis of 90 per cent of tonnage used for 1941 net paid circulation."

Newspapers are being forced to cut newsprint consumption in the face of very large increases in circulation.

That is not such a serious matter. Newspapers are glad, we know, to cooperate in any necessary saving. But it seems to us that before newspapers, which are vitally essential to the welfare and morale of the people and to the continued public cooperation in the war effort, are forced to radical reductions in newsprint consumption, something should be done to stop the wasting of thousands of tons of print paper by the Washington bureau.

We just had a look at a mass of material which arrived at the local civilian defense headquarters. The material was devoted to "The Fire Guard Program." The principal item was a booklet of 107 pages of mimeograph paper printed by the multigraph process.

Not more than 20 per cent of the space in that booklet was utilized. Some pages contained only TWO words, while few had more than a dozen words. Practically all of the pages were printed on one side only.

Then there were 18 instruction manuals (122 pages), 150 copies of "The Story of the Fire Guard" (16 pages) and 45 posters, "War Against Fire."

That was the packet which came to the Roseburg civilian defense center. There is a civilian defense unit in practically every major city of the United States, so you can see that "The Fire Guard Program" utilized a good many tons of paper. Not all of this paper, of course, was newsprint, but the factories which made it could have been producing newsprint if not required to turn out the poster stock, the mimeograph paper and the other types used in this program.

The program covered nothing that has not already been thoroughly organized by the civilian defense units. Its value, so far as we could observe, was nil. In fact, at local civilian defense headquarters the stuff was thrown on the scrap heap, except for some samples which were taken to be forwarded to our Congressman.

While newspapers are diligently striving to keep down their consumption of paper stock, Washington bureaus are allowed to run wild in the publication of posters, pamphlets, booklets, propaganda, and other material which not only forces more labor on an already overworked postal department, but clutters up offices and fills wastepaper baskets.

In our opinion, if 90 per cent of the propaganda writers in Washington were laid end to end it would be a darned good thing.

but there can be no doubt that to our navy the war in the Pacific is a REAL war, even now while Washington has all its attention concentrated on licking Hitler.

What is happening on Cos, which has the best airfields, is still obscure. The Germans claim to have everything under control there, but Cairo says the British garrison is still fighting.

Why did the Germans, whose hands are fairly busy elsewhere, boom suddenly into these islands.

Your map will suggest that they THINK we may take a notion to invade the Balkans by way of Saloniki and are getting set for it.

The center of the Dnieper front in Russia is comparatively quiet, but Berlin reports that Russian forces are "deploying in strength" around Lake Ilmen, in the far north, and along the Sea of Azov in the south.

This suggests that the Russians may be getting ready for what the military experts call turning the enemy's flank and in foot ball language is termed an end run.

The Chinese get back into the news with a statement that the Japs are moving four divisions (some 60,000 men) from Manchuria into adjacent China. They say the Japs are moving to prevent our side from getting within bombing distance of Tokyo across the China sea.

King, top admiral of ALL the fleet; Nimitz, admiral commanding in the Pacific, and Halsey, the tough fighting admiral who has been causing the Japs so much grief in the South Pacific, are reported to be meeting in Hawaii.

What they are talking about is of course a military secret.

Cooperation in Postwar Planning Urged on Clubs

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 7 (AP)—The Oregon postwar readjustment and development commission can achieve its objectives only with the full cooperation of business and service clubs, George K. Aiken, state budget director and commission secretary, told the commission at a meeting here today.

"This is a job requiring the assistance of everyone, such as made the drive for war bonds a success," Aiken said.

"The people must be made conscious of the prospect of a heavy unemployment load and realize that this can only be minimized by unity of purpose and action."

"Every businessman must ask himself what he plans doing in the post-war era and how many people he can and will employ. There are certain counties and municipalities already addressing themselves to this problem, but there is much to be done. The service organizations, such as chambers of commerce, and Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, can be of immense value if they will point up the postwar issues among their business associates and stir them into action."

John W. Kelly, director of the commission, gave a report on how several counties already are taking steps to minimize post-war unemployment.

His summary of the counties includes: Lane county expects 1500 residents to return from war work, Baker county 1500, Douglas 200, Klamath 2000 and Josephine 2,500.

Nearly all counties, Kelly said, have plans for postwar road and public works projects.

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

The church is still living and growing out of the flammings, however, tiny and obscure, of its membership over the earth. God can and will repair the failure of a new humanity. A good many of our investments in what were thought to be permanencies have been liquidated in the past few years. The power of the Christian spirit is the only universal left thing world remnants together. Today, in every country where Christ has been preached there are Christians still standing, across the chasms of race, of nationality, of biology, of economic death struggle, of race and fear, of war, the church of Christ has not been torn apart and will not be. And no-where every country there's staunch and continuing Christian fellowship. The power of Christ's love and brotherhood is the common base and ground upon which we can hope to build the new order we must have, if our children are to live. Where politics and diplomacy and carrels and armaments have failed to make relations lasting and investments permanent, the spirit of Christ has succeeded. Investments in his spirit is the world mission of the church. Amen.

New Members Welcomed

By SUSAN

So many good shows are listed for Saturday and Sunday and so many changes of time made here and there that we couldn't possibly list all of them in the Best Bets column, so we'd suggest that you read the program more carefully than usual this weekend so your favorite spots won't slip by when you don't know it. There's no World Series baseball on Saturday, of course, but there's a half-hour of the Army vs. Temple game on the air at 11:30. And, if we understood the set-up correctly, this will be the last Saturday morning show of Stop, Look & Listen at 10:30. Eyes Afloat is going off the air also. The cancellation of these shows is due, of course, to the new army order affecting the filter centers and observation posts. There's another football game on the air at 1:15 - Spokane Air Service vs. Washington - but we don't know much about it.

Saturday night will mark the opening of the winter season of Chicago Theatre of the Air at 6. They've chosen Jerome Kern's "Roberta" for their first opera - and even the Colonel can't spoil such a lovely thing as this. Remember "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," "The Touch of Your Hand" and all the rest of the tunes? Marion Claire and Thom as L. Thomas are costared - so don't forget to mark down 6 o'clock on Saturday evening as a "must listen spot" on 1990. You'll find quite a few changes of time on Sunday, one new program that's super, and the first of the World Series games to be broadcast from St. Louis will be on the air at 11:15. We'll try to give you more dope on the schedule changes tomorrow.

Battle Heroism Wins Medal for Oregon Flier

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Major Bruce Prosser, 28, marine corps flyer from McMinnville, Ore., has been awarded the air medal for attacking a Japanese cruiser and three destroyers single-handedly.

The action took place September 11, 1942, in the Solomon area when Prosser became separated from the rest of his group during a night bombing mission. Continuing the search, he sighted the enemy warships. Due to low clouds he began his attack from below 2500 feet and was forced to face terrific anti-aircraft fire.

At the time he received the medal, Prosser was a captain. He is a graduate of Linfield college at McMinnville.
