Is trying to smash the Russian crossings, but the reds say they've got their heavy material and large numbers of men across.

As a sidelight on how they've done it, Russian fishermen and farmers are praised highly for their help in establishing the Dnieper bridgeheads. One is cited for making 14 boat trips in a single night, carrying troops and supplies.

CLARK is still stalled at the rain-swollen Volturno. He is using his medium, light and fighter bombers as FLYING ARTILLERY against the German gun positions on the north bank.

WE'RE told that Wake was attacked by the greatest aircraft carrier task force ever assembled.

The Jap planes on the island were hopelessly outnumbered and outfought. As soon as they got into the air, they were knocked down. Jap air reinforcements coming from the Marshall islands in "dribble" formations of three, six and eight planes each were knocked out of the air as soon as they arrived or saw what they were up against and fled.

WE still don't know why Wake was so heavily attacked, or whether we landed ground forces, but can guess today that we may have been during the Jap navy based at Truk to come out and fight—an invitation that was apparently declined.

RECENT dispatches note sharply rising air activity against the Japs in Burma. The monsoon rains there are about over, and Mountbatten, the new commander, is on the ground.

Things MIGHT begin to happen in Burma ANY time.

THE hot spot in the news out there in the West is the cutting of gas coupons to three gallons.

It is probable that coming intensification of the war in the Pacific, with resulting enormous increase in demand on California oil supplies, is the reason.

THE public, which long since lost faith in the statements of our Washington civilian leaders, is unfortunately cynical and suspicious about the whole gasoline business.

Oddly enough, if CHURCHILL were to tell us it's necessary and wise we'd believe him.

THE RESTAURANT HEADACHE

EDITORIAL

By Charles V. Stanton

THE restaurant situation in Roseburg is causing headaches for the operators, ration board and customers. The fault does not lie with the restaurant owner or the ration board, but results from the lack of flexibility of OPA regulations and the effort to run everything from Washington without permitting district boards to use common horse sense in meeting purely local conditions.

L. V. Hammock, chairman of the Roseburg rationing board, together with the members of the food panel, has been devoting a great many hours to the problem, but, despite the best efforts of board members, all of the city's eating houses are having a great deal of difficulty. One has closed indefinitely and others are planning to do the same.

Every Roseburg restaurant has had an exceptional growth in business in recent months due to the area's industrial expansion. Business increases are taken into consideration in issuing ration points, but points are issued for two-month intervals and allotments are based on the business of the preceding period. During that interval the operator has accumulated a point indebtedness. As his business continues to grow he gets further into debt on points until he finally has to close his doors until he can start afresh. His closing throws an extra burden on the other places of business which perforce must follow his example.

The Roseburg ration board has been most lenient in loaning points to restaurants, but as these are deducted from the next allotment, the cycle of indebtedness simply gets worse.

The only practical method (not covered by OPA regulations) is to chart the upward trend of restaurant business, increasing point allotments in advance. When business reaches a maximum level the existing system might operate satisfactorily.

A new order from OPA is that meals served during the next two months must not exceed .93 of a ration point per meal for meats and fats.

Just out of curiosity we went to a Roseburg meat market and had the meat cutter trim out one ration point's worth of round steak. It measured three and one-half inches in length, one and one-half inches in width and one-half inch in thickness. Steaks normally shrink at least one-third in the frying process. Consequently the .93 of a point limitation means a piece of meat which would just fit snugly into the bowl of a tablespoon. Isn't that a swell meal for a hungry logger?

A steak order in a restaurant probably would utilize 15 or more ration points. Thus for every steak order served the operator must sell 15 or more orders of unrationed or low point foods. He is endeavoring to accomplish this through the use of seafoods, poultry and vegetable plates.

But ceiling prices enter into the picture. Take oysters as an example. Oysters sell on the Roseburg market for $1.20 per quart. There are from 14 to 16 oysters in the quart and four constitute one serving. The standard rule in the restaurant business is that doubling the cost of the main item of food on the order takes care of the soup, salad, vegetables, bread, butter, drink, service and overhead, excluding profit. Therefore, if the restaurant pays $1.20 per quart for oysters, it must receive $2.40 back in sales in order to break even. To make a profit the charge must be higher. With four servings available from the quart, the charge would necessarily be in excess of 60 cents per serving. But for the period in which ceiling prices were set the majority of Roseburg restaurants were serving oysters for 50 cents. They cannot now advance the price without being in violation of OPA regulations.

Mr. Hammock is well aware of these conditions and he is endeavoring to work on behalf of the restaurant operators to secure sanction for higher prices where he feels the eating houses are equitably entitled to charge more. He has held meetings where a mutual understanding of problems could be obtained. Local restaurant operators, he reports, have been most cooperative.

If the board had the power to make adjustments to meet local conditions, a satisfactory arrangement probably could be developed. But as long as control is centered in Washington, the headaches probably will continue.

federal crop reporting board says milk output for October so far is about 3% under the same period a year ago. Milk sales are already being limited in metropolitan areas by a system of dealer quotas, and War Food administration officials say that if this quota system doesn't do the job, civilian rationing of milk and milk products will be necessary this winter.

THIS writer, who doesn't and can't know all the facts and may therefore be wrong in his conclusions, has a notion that multiplying restrictions and red tape, even more than food and labor shortages, have been instrumental in DISCOURAGING and disheartening dairymen and causing them to dispose of their cows and go into some other line of effort.

DON'T, however, take too much stock in this opinion. THE TRUTH, in these days, is so HARD TO GET AT that it's difficult to form an opinion in which one can have complete confidence.

The truth is obscured by so many politicians of one sort and another who are muddying the waters for their OWN purposes.

Farm Production in Oregon, 1944, Planned

PORTLAND, Oct. 15 (AP)—Agricultural production for Oregon in the coming year was planned today by farm group representatives in a session called by the War Food Administration.

Gordon C. Laughlin, former Astoria resident now with the Food Distribution Administration in Washington, D. C., predicted the nation's nutrition in 1944 would improve over past years.

Earl H. Nikkel, information specialist, said this year's production broke crop records for the past seven years.

Other speakers said 75 per cent of next year's crops will go to civilians, 13 per cent to the armed forces, 10 per cent to lend-lease and 2 per cent to specialist requirements.

War Heroes Will Tell Experiences At Meeting Here

Roseburg residents will have an opportunity Friday, Oct. 22, to hear two war heroes tell of their battle experiences, when Technical Sergeant Robert L. Sheehan and Private Gilbert W. Kelley appear here under sponsorship of Local 7307, International Woodworkers of America, at the Eagles hall. Sergeant Sheehan of Boston, Mass., serving in the army air forces, was shot down in combat in the Guadalcanal area, spent fifteen days on a rubber raft and spent considerable time with friendly natives before being rescued. Private Kelley of Portland, Oregon, experienced the Pearl Harbor incident and was in the first wave of troops on Guadalcanal.

The two heroes will be accompanied by Captain Harry D. Williams, who will speak briefly on the subject of uses of lumber in the war effort and will show two motion pictures, "Prelude to War" and "Shock Troops."

The meeting is particularly for all lumberworkers, their families and friends, and is open to all interested persons.

How about dialing 1490 right now if, by chance, you're not tuned in already? We've hate to have you miss the 8:30 show coming from Grants Pass—It's Eyes to the Sky—remember? Lots of you will know Betty Byrd who is to appear in the show, so start listening in right now. Armchair strategists of the gridiron will have a field day on Saturday because at 11:45 you'll get a 15-minute appetizer on the Notre Dame-Wisconsin game; then another hour of it between 1:15 and 2:15. At 2:15 we switch out to the Pacific coast and take you to the U. C. L. A.-Cal. game and there we stay until the last signal is called. It may be that you'll only get 15 minutes of California Melodies as a result, but lots of good music will be coming your way at 6 when Chicago Theatre of the Air takes over. This week they are producing "Bittersweet"—Noel Coward's famous operetta—and you'll hear "I'll See You Again," "Zigener," "Forever More"—just to mention a few of the songs we know best. Mighty good listening, eh? Then there's a mighty nice set-up for Saturday eve too—so you won't mind staying home and just listening quietly to the good entertainment you'll be getting on 1490.

Consolidation of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies, which was effective October 7, will mean more efficient communications service for Roseburg people, it was stated today by Arnold Davis, local Western Union manager. Both the Western Union and Postal offices are being continued without change at the present time, Davis said, although all telegraph offices are now under the same management and messages are handled over a unified system. Accounts payable and receivable are handled through Western Union.

A successor will be appointed by the Governor.

Spaulding has participated in several prominent criminal cases, including the prosecution of Albert E. Roser, former Oregon AFL teamster head who was charged with arson; and Richard Layton, charged with the first degree murder of Ruth Hildebrand. Both were convicted.

PRISONERS' SONG

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. As a reward for subscribing $100,297 in war bonds, 10 times their goal, San Quentin prisoners will be allowed to name a bomber.

High in popularity are "Bars and Stripes," "Rock Buster," "Duffy's Tavern" and "Yegg Lays."

The current favorite is "Bad Check"—which always returns.

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

No one likes to lose anything of value; instinct is against it. Jesus was always impressing upon the minds of his followers that higher things must be gained by the renunciation of the lower. There are two ways of considering life. One is to look upon it as a field for adventure and exploitation. The other is to look upon it as a grain field, with hard soil to be broken up, dry places to be irrigated, swamps to be drained, seeds to be planted, and weeds to be uprooted, so that when the harvest comes, life may be rich indeed. Cultivation of life's field takes time, effort and energy, but this is the loss that pays in the end. The great heroes of the world have not considered loss. They have endured the cross that they might reach the goal. Faith in Christ leads us to surrender our life for His sake. We shall find the fuller life in Christ by giving up our own. The love of Christ constraineth us. "We live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved us and gave Himself for us." He that loseth his life shall find it. "I gave my life for thee, thou mightest ransom me, and my precious blood I shed that thou mightest be quickened from the dead. I gave my life for thee, what hast thou given to me?" Amen.
