POET'S CORNER

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC

(By Private First Class Duane N. Coble.)

Somewhere in the Pacific where the sun is like a curse, And each day is followed by another slightly worse— Where the coral dust blows thicker than the shifty desert sands, And a white man yearns and wishes for the greener fairer land—

Somewhere in the Pacific where a girl is never seen, Where the sky is never cloudy and the grass is always green—

Where the oceans mightily pound, Where there isn't any liquor, and the beer is never cheap, Somewhere in the Pacific, where the nights are made for love,

Where the moon is like a searchlight and the southern cross above, Sparkles like a diamond on a balmy tropic night,

'Tis a shameless waste of beauty, where there's not a girl in sight, Somewhere in the Pacific, where the mail is always late

And a Christmas card in April is considered up-to-date, Where we never have a pay-day and we never get a cent

But we never miss the money, cause we'd never get it spent, Somewhere in the Pacific where the ants and chiggers play

And a hundred fresh mosquitoes explore the ones you slay, So take me back to Oregon, let me hear the mission bells

For this God-forsaken outpost, is a substitute for hell.
