ship there's a lot of official hush-hush on the theory that we shouldn't admit that the Balkan guerrillas are fighting each other.

THERE'S nothing startling new from Italy. We drive the Germans from some high ground and a canal. The Germans flood the Pontine marshes, southeast of Rome, to hamper our tank operations.

PRESENT fighting in Italy isn't very important in the whole war picture.

ON the home front, we read that operation of Chicago's old handbooks (devices for gambling on the ponies) has been stopped. Virgil W. Peterson, operating director of Chicago's crime commission, says:

"I've never seen gambling places here shut up as tight as they are today."

Never mind, Mr. Peterson.
They WON'T BE SHUT LONG.
They never are in Chicago.

(KNOWING Chicago, we may be reasonably certain that POLITICAL rather than genuine moral considerations are back of the shut down.)

POLITICAL note:
WHISKIE aligns himself MORE DEFINITELY with the Republican party by campaigning actively for Edge, G. O. P. candidate in Democratic-hoss-ridden New Jersey.

He says in a speech:
"Statesmen of the Democratic party have practiced appeasement with the forces of reaction all over the earth, and at home their actions belie their advocacy of freedom and liberalism."

KEEP an eye on Whiskie. He's an intellectual REBEL—and the Republican party needs rebels to drag it out of its complacent smugness and GIVE IT NEW IDEALS.

Washington was a rebel.
Lincoln was a rebel. Italian Garibaldi and South American Bolívar were rebels.

In every great crisis, the world NEEDS SINCERE REBELS.

Navy Seeks Recruits for Ship Repair Service

Ratings in the navy's construction battalions (Seabees) have been closed. It is announced by Chief Specialist W. E. Bell of the Eugene navy recruiting substation.

However, the navy still is looking for men with skilled trades for enlistment into a new naval reserve branch, the S. R. U., a ship repair unit—and petty officer ratings from third class to chief are available in many skilled trades, according to the recruiter.

Men between 38 and 50 1/2, inclusive, may volunteer, but those between 38 and 47, inclusive, will volunteer for induction through their selective service boards, the recruiter explains.

Applicants who are enlisted will be given a short indoctrination course and then sent outside the continental limits of the United States for duty.

SOLDIERS IN GINGHAM

EDITORIAL

By Charles V. Stanton

REAMS are being written today of the part being played by the WAVES, the WACS, the SPARS and other women's auxiliaries to the armed services. Women have been given privileges and opportunities never before enjoyed by the fair sex in being able to participate side-by-side with the best of the country's manhood in action against the enemy. Many women today occupy advanced positions where they can hear the sound of battle. Some are actually in exposed positions.
The casualty lists include the names of heroic women who fell victims to enemy bombs and bullets. We thrill to the sight of these women in their natty uniforms.

On the production front women are serving in shipyards, factories and in essential services. Without their whole-hearted acceptance of patriotic duty our war effort would have bogged down months ago.

But there is another group of women just as essential to the war program who receive little praise. They wear no uniforms. They do not dress in overalls, nor wear welders' masks. Their garb is that of the housewife, for it is in the home that they serve their country.

How important their contribution has become was impressed upon us by Rod Finney, executive secretary of the Oregon State Salvage committee, who was a visitor in the News-Review office a few days ago.

Oregon women, for instance, are furnishing from 124,000 to 128,000 pounds of used fats to the war effort every month.
Oregon is in 7th place in the nation on the basis of pounds of used fats collected per occupied dwelling. The first month fat collections were made—the total was 28,000 pounds. The volume has been growing steadily, but it has not yet reached the goal of 195,000 pounds per month.

"The government is not asking for usable fats," Finney said.
"But it wants every ounce of grease which cannot be used for cooking or essential purposes at home. Many women do not stop to think about the waste of a teaspoonful of fat. The quantity is too small to be considered of importance. Yet multiply that teaspoonful by several hundred and you would have material enough to provide a good many pounds of the glycerin we need so badly."

The Oregon Salvage committee, Finney told us, is very proud of the record Oregon housewives have made. It is the committee's desire and purpose, however, that Oregon become the No. 1 state instead of being 7th on the list.

The committee also is urging continued help of Oregon housewives in the salvage of tin cans.

The shortage of tin is becoming critical. Collections are under way in the larger centers of population to meet immediate needs. Within the next few weeks the entire country will be combed for the purpose of salvaging every tin can that can be found.

Douglas county housewives are urged to keep saving cans.
The county committee is at work on plans for gathering in all available tin. Instructions regarding the collection procedure will be issued soon.

In the meantime the women who are serving their country at home are urged to not only continue their efforts but to increase them, if possible. The service rendered, even though it seems small, is strictly essential. The army of "soldiers in gingham" is a vital part of our world-wide warfare.

Bible Student to Speak At Dusenberry Home

R. A. Krebs, Bible student and lecturer, will speak Friday at 8 p. m. and Saturday at 2:30 p. m. on Bible prophecy, at the home of J. R. Dusenberry in Riverside. The topic announced is

"Was Man Created to Live or Die." The Dusenberry home, where the meeting is held, is located two blocks south from the end of the road which turns west from the Pacific highway at the Watzig hatchery. The public is invited to attend the meetings.
No charges will be made and no collections will be taken.

OLD FASHIONED WAY DENVER—Dr. Bob Jones, an evangelist who believes he has a practical solution for juvenile delinquency, says:
"Those books that are being sold to parents telling them how to train their children would do the most good—if they were used flat side up."

SPARS

Women's Reserve of the United States Coast Guard

WOMEN have, through the glorious history of this nation, played a gallant role, standing shoulder to shoulder with fighting men in every hour of crisis. It is true today, just as it was in the days of Molly Pitcher. But here is a NEW call for women—an urgent one that needs immediate response. The trained men of the U. S. Coast Guard are now at battle stations—manning the smaller boats in island-to-island fighting, guarding convoys, serving in coastal patrols. Their former vital administrative, technical and clerical shjobs MUST be filled AT ONCE by women. It is a clear call to duty!

This Is SPAR WEEK In Roseburg!

CHEROKEE SEILER, representing the Woman's Reserve of the Coast Guard will be at the Umpqua Valley chamber of commerce office in Roseburg THIS WEEK to interview young women willing to serve their nation in this grave emergency. The qualifications are not difficult to meet. The service is highly interesting. The need is great. If the war continues into next year—which seems a certainty—many more SPARS will be needed for positions of trust and responsibility. Will you be one of them?
