by this time how important railroads are in war. It is probable that the central offices of the Nazi government have long since been moved away, but no one can look at the spiderweb of railroads centering at Berlin without knowing that the city's destruction is a terrible blow to the German cause.

THERE are rumors in Belgrade (Yugoslav capital) that we and the British are making landings and establishing beachheads on the islands off the Dalmatian coast on the eastern shore of the Adriatic.

They're merely rumors—wholly unconfirmed.

But for weeks Tito and his Partisans have been waging growing effective war in the INTERIOR of Yugoslavia, working steadily OUTWARD toward the Adriatic.

If Tito has FOLLOWED OUT the interior of Yugoslavia to the point where we can land on the Adriatic coast and break through the thin rim of German resistance to join the Partisans, it would mean that we would be a long way on the road to invasion of the Balkans by the back door.

SUCCESSFUL invasion of the Balkans by the back door would be likely to shake Yugoslavia, Rumania, Bulgaria and maybe Hungary off the Nazi tree.

That's why these rumors are so interesting. They may not be true, but they are certainly not improbable.

GAINS of territory in eastern Europe are interesting, and, of course, important, but the BIG thing to watch for is a break in the morale of the German armies, with ensuing disorderly rout.

IN the Pacific, we make another landing at Saldor, in New Guinea—our third within three weeks.

Saldor is 55 miles southeast of Madang, on the northern New Guinea coast. Its capture means that we're going after Madang soon. Inch by inch, we're driving the Jap back from the outer rim of his new empire.

It has been a slow process, but at least we've demonstrated our ability to make progress against the Jap while putting the bulk of our strength into licking Hitler.

COOPERATION KANSAS CITY—Here's how Bill Petersen, night club manager, is meeting the hired help problem:

His father is doorman, that hat check girl is his divorced wife; his present wife supervises the dining tables where two daughters by his first wife are waitresses. They all get along congenially and there are two more daughters and a son by the first wife who can work when they become of age.

A HOME FRONT PACT

EDITORIAL

By Charles V. Stanton

WE have been hearing a great deal lately of the Moscow pact, the Cairo pact, the Tehran pact and other declarations which have had their part in the war of nerves, the actual military operations and the outlines of a peacetime organization.

Recently in San Francisco there was concluded a "Home Front Pact" which is deserving of more than passing consideration. It is a pact signed by representatives of four of the nation's outstanding organizations, the United States Chamber of Commerce, The American Legion, Kiwanis International and Rotary International.

It is based upon the premise that "our four organizations and all others representing labor, agriculture, business, industry, the arts, and the professions, should work vigorously together in the prosecution of this war to a speedy and successful conclusion and in the development of a firm foundation for the peace that is to follow."

Outlined as four principal objectives are:

"1. Enthusiastic cooperation in all activities which will help to bring the war to a speedy and successful conclusion.

"2. The assuming of a specific responsibility in the reconstruction period, to the end that we can help to create a world economy which will be free from the evils of tyranny, slavery and oppression, and to maintain personal liberty, to plan, work and live without fear of exploitation from any source.

"3. To work together in the development of plans in each community which will bridge the period of reconversion from a wartime to a peacetime basis—to the end that the individual may be assured of opportunities in the work he desires.

"4. To work for an orderly but certain demobilization of wartime controls at the close of hostilities in order to foster and strengthen the system of free enterprise."

Signers of the pact express the belief that the loyalty and ability of the members of their respective organizations will make possible the promotions of the objectives above stated.

But they realize the principles outlined cannot be activated without effort. The pact, therefore, outlines four major and specific activities designed to accomplish the purposes proposed. These activities are:

"1. The development of sound fiscal policies which will permit men to build reasonable but adequate reserves for the promotion of legitimate business and industry as a service to society, thereby aiding in the development of new frontiers for individual opportunity and which will promote high living standards.

"2. An equitable plan for the care, rehabilitation and employment of service men and women.

"3. A program of education which will develop an intelligent and interested citizenry—fully appreciative of the privileges granted by a free democracy, but truly aware of the individual responsibilities entailed therein.

"4. Training of youth in the ideals and responsibilities of citizenship and developing in them an understanding and appreciation of the opportunities in free enterprise."

The subscribing organizations invite cooperation of other groups striving for similar objectives.

Pacts are a good deal like New Year's resolutions. They show good intentions but frequently they are broken or forgotten in the stress of changing conditions or through lack of continued attention.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce, American Legion, Kiwanis and Rotary have outlined some mighty fine policies which are vital to the continued welfare of the home front. It is to be hoped that the pact receives the cooperation it so justly deserves.

Wife of Soldier Saved by Judge in Eviction Effort

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—In what was reported the first case of its kind in this area, Supreme Court Justice John E. McGeehan denied yesterday a landlord's plea for eviction of a soldier's wife who expects a baby soon.

The 594 Tenth Avenue corporation sought to dispossess Mrs. Eve Schatzberg from her 1 1/2-room apartment in the Bronx.

Mrs. Schatzberg's husband, Rudolph, was inducted into the army last July 4 and is now stationed at Fort Meade, Md. Her lease expired August 10, she said, and the landlord refused to renew it.

After Municipal Court Judge Christopher C. McGrath refused to dispossess Mrs. Schatzberg from her $36-a-month abode, counsel for the landlord asked Justice McGeehan to compel Judge McGrath to take such action.

Counsel for the landlord argued Mrs. Schatzberg was entitled to no special consideration as a soldier's wife since access to the apartment had been sought since last June before her husband was inducted.

Judge McGrath himself came into the supreme court chamber to plead to Justice McGeehan on the woman's behalf.

"Aside from the legal angle," said McGrath, "I appeal to you not to make me dip my pen into the blood of American soldiers and put this soldier's wife and unborn child on the street."

War Changing Outlook Of Troops, Eleanor Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt says the war is changing service men's outlook and that civilians, in preparing for their return home, should learn to understand them.

"Boys of 18 or 19 have seen death so often," she told the Columbia University Institute of Arts and Sciences last night. "They believe life is very cheap. They have learned what organized force will do and have lost their regard for human life."

Mrs. Roosevelt said the treachery of the enemy had caused American fighting men to lose their belief in "the fair and square thing," and that trustfulness was "gone, from the top admiral down to the youngest private."

"It is very important," she said, "for all of us to make an effort to understand all these boys are going through."

Must be the results of a cold in the head—but we're feeling awful low and life's a hussk—you know; anyway we can't seem to think of anything very interesting to pass on to you tonight. Most of the publicity coming in lately has concerned personalities and—well, would you be interested to know that Boake Carter has a bum knee as the result of three crashes over Scotland while he was a member of the R. A. F. during the last war? Or that Fulton Lewis, Jr. (who was in an awful tizzy on Monday) will cast his first vote this fall. Seems that he's just established a residence out of the D. C. for the first time and so is eligible to vote now. Or that Commander Scott has just received his final papers and is now a citizen of the U. S. Or that Engineer Young has a horrible time trying to ad lib on the Dusty Record program at 3:15 each day, since most of the tunes were written before she saw the light o'day? Oh well, don't mind us—it's just the cold. Anyway we'll perk up when Julia Sanderson brings Let's Be Charming on the air Thursday a. m. We like her (and the show). And after 6:30 tonight, when we hear Soldiers With Wings (with Frances Langford), we'll be right back in the groove again. As a matter of fact, come to think of it, a tonic of Gracie Fields at 6:15 each night is just what the doctor ordered. Be seen' you.

vote for him myself," Holman said here. "I hold powerful positions in the senate and have exercised them for the benefit not only of Oregon but for the entire country. Up to the last two years I have held more committee appointments having to do with the progress of the war than any other senator west of the rocky mountains." Wayne L. Morse, member of the War Labor board and dean of the University of Oregon law school; Palmer Hoyt, retiring director of the Office of War Information's domestic branch and publisher of the Portland Oregonian, and Merle Chessman, Astoria publisher, have been mentioned as Holman's possible opponents for the republican nomination.

Boy Scouts Lose One Member In Battle With Snow

SEATTLE, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Seven Seattle Boy Scouts and their two leaders today unfolded a tale of two days' struggle against a snowstorm in the Snoqualmie pass area which claimed the life of a 13-year-old companion.

Victim of the storm was James Bronner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emory C. Bronner.

The youths left Seattle Saturday morning in a truck with their scoutmaster, Eardley Hawks, and Perry Vogus, for a camping spot in the middle fork of the Snoqualmie river. They planned to return Sunday evening.

They started hiking after finding the road washed out at a point they believed only a short distance from their cabin destination. About seven miles from the truck in a blinding snowstorm the Bronner boy stumbled and fell exhausted. Three of the boys stayed with him while Hawks attempted to lead the others back to the truck. They found an abandoned civilian conservation corps camp where the boys stayed while Hawks returned to the truck for blankets and food.

When Hawks again reached the boys staying with the Bronner boy, the youth had died.

Earl Kalk and William G. Torney, fathers of two of the boys, began a search Monday morning when the party did not return as planned. They found six of the boys in the C. C. cabin. Later Torney found Hawks, Vogus and Ray Shinsel, 16, carrying the Bronner boy's body along an icy trail.

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

Make Room for Christ.

There was no room in the inn. It was crowded with guests, every space was occupied. Wealth, wisdom, distinction were represented. Leaders from many parts of the world jostled one another, but there was no room for the Divine Child. The same condition prevails today. Warring interests, conflicting social and political programs, clashing opinions compete for our attention. Meanwhile the Christ Child waits for a welcome. He is the answer to all our questions, the solution of all our problems. No other interpretation of the meaning of life and destiny is quite as satisfactory or sound as that of Jesus. No other standards of conduct and duty correspond so certainly with what we know we ought to be. No other idea of our relations to one another in society is so nearly identical with what we dream of as the new and better world order. The spirit of Christmas is the embodiment of what God is and what man ought to be. "Thou didst leave thy throne and thy kingly crown, When Thou camest to earth for me; But in Bethlehem's home there was found no room For Thy holy nativity, O come to my heart, Lord Jesus. There is room in my heart for Thee." Amen

Repair Line—William H. Bailey, Earl T. Duncan, Luke L. Patterson, assisted by residents of the South Deer Creek area, spent Tuesday making repairs on the telephone line. Several fallen poles were replaced.

Have a Coca-Cola = Let's be friendly. Image of a child with a Coca-Cola can on their head and a globe with the Coca-Cola logo. Text: ...a way to win a welcome wherever you go. Where you find democracy, you find the feeling of friendliness, of give-and-take—the spirit of neighborliness. It's made up of little things that mark a way of life: sports, fair play, movies, comics and swing music. A simple phrase like Have a "Coke" turns strangers into friends, the same in both hemispheres.
