GETTING back to the talk session, General Arnold, head of our air forces, says:

"With our bombers increasing in number every day, and in conjunction with the British, we expect to give Germany 24-hour bombing service from 360 degrees" (meaning all around the circle.)

He adds:

"If our bombers keep going to Germany, it won't take long. There won't be much fight left when the time for invasion comes."

GENERAL ARNOLD is talking to the GERMANS. When our Washington leaders talk to US, whom they suspect of being much too confident, they take the line that it will be a LONG TIME and that there will be a LOT of fight left in the Germans when the time for invasion comes.)

ALL of which leads us, in the most natural way, to DISBELIEVE EVERYTHING that ANYBODY says.

LONDON, taking the hopeful line, says the fighting in Russia has proved that the Germans LACK RESERVES, adding that the Russian army now clearly outnumbers the ENTIRE German army of five to seven million men.

FIGHTING Admiral Halsey, back from the Pacific for a few days, contributes a good crack. He says: "When American troops get to where Tokyo NOW STANDS, there will be a little celebration where Tokyo WAS."

He adds that our boys are better in every way than the Jap and are proving it every day.

IT is "disclosed" that we (and the British) now have a twin-engine ROCKET-propelled fighter about ready for quantity production. It is expected to be fast—maybe as much as 500 mph.

Maybe even more. Somewhere over 400 mph is supposed to be the top limit for propeller planes, and so the rocket-driven type is being developed in order to get more speed.

Approximately 65,000 student nurses must be recruited within the next six months to meet minimum requirement of the armed forces.

THE C. I. O. CONVENTION

EDITORIAL

By Charles V. Stanton

WE were privileged for three days to attend the convention of the Oregon State Indutrial council in Roseburg. We were greatly impressed by this convention, despite the fact we were able to spend only a little time in the convention hall.

Accustomed to meetings at which delegates and visitors spend a good deal of time in entertainment, recreation and horseplay, with an occasional showing of rowdyism, we could not help but be impressed with the conduct of the delegates to the state C. I. O. gathering.

Except for the fact one saw on the streets a number of strange men and women wearing badges, and that hotels and restaurants were crowded, there was little to indicate a convention was in progress.

No hotel lobby groups were harmonizing "Sweet Adeline." No mirrors were tossed out of hotel windows, no bags of water dropped on the heads of passersby, no noisy night parties. It was not the kind of a convention we have been familiar with in the past.

Most interesting was the conduct of the business sessions. The convention hall demonstrated the old town meeting in its best tradition. Any person was privileged to stand on his own two feet and speak his piece. Direct action was manifest from beginning to end. There was little use of formal, diplomatic language. When a delegate had something to say, he said it without flourishes and without any chance for his words to contain double meanings. His statements were unequivocal and to the point. If he had a criticism to make, there was no mistaking the subject of his criticism nor the reason for it. There were differences of opinions, and arguments waged hot and virulent. But little bitterness or rancour was in evidence, and despite the heated words which might fly any minute, the opposing speakers might be seen a few minutes later collaborating on another issue on which they were in perfect harmony.

Ernest Baker, president and presiding officer, made it a point to see that any delegate or visitor who desired to speak before the convention had an opportunity to be heard on any subject. Yet, in conducting the business affairs, he could be blunt and forthright in keeping the discussion confined to the issues before the meeting. It was one of the most democratic sessions of its kind we have ever had the pleasure of attending. Although we, personally, could not agree with some of the viewpoints expressed by individuals and, at times, by the convention as a whole, yet the demonstration of a group of men and women attacking important problems in a vigorous, forthright and democratic spirit was an encouraging sight.

We observed also the apparent sincerity with which the convention approached major problems. Some of the speakers were intemperate in statements and at times bordered on the radical, yet they were given polite hearing and complete freedom of expression. But those speakers who discussed major issues of politics, economics, production, and other problems, and who presented an authoritative view, were given the closest attention and appreciative applause.

We may not at all times agree with the attitude of organized labor. We are certain to find, when groups are organized for their own particular welfare, an intolerance of other groups and classes. Nevertheless as long as men and women imbued with the patriotism demonstrated in the C. I. O. convention here get together and, with full exercise of democratic privileges, freely discuss the varied opinions they hold, there is ample assurance that this country cannot go too far wrong for any great period of time.

OUT OUR WAY — By J. R. Williams

NEWS OF OUR MEN AND WOMEN IN UNIFORM

Private Marcus W. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Brown, Camas Valley, has completed his training at Camp Callan, San Diego, Calif., and has been transferred to Camp Horn, Arizona, where he is taking special training with a military police platoon.

Cadet Fred H. Engle, son of Mrs. E. M. Engle, Melrose Rt., Roseburg, has completed basic flying instruction at Marana army air field, Tucson, Ariz., and is being assigned to advanced flying. Prior to entering military service, he attended Lookingglass high school. He was employed with the Douglas Aircraft Co., Santa Monica, Calif., for several months.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Shoemaker have received word from their son, Robert, that he has arrived safely overseas and is now stationed in New Guinea. Bob was graduated last spring from Roseburg senior high school.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Holmquist of Melrose have received word that their son, Bob, has been graduated from University of Illinois at Urbana, and has been transferred to Norfolk, Va. to have an eight weeks training course in diesel engineering. He studied diesel engineering at the university and has been advanced from fireman second class to fireman first class. He has been notified of his assignment to a destroyer escort at the completion of his studies.

Marcus Wells, former Roseburg senior high school star athlete, has been awarded the purple heart, according to word received by his mother, Mrs. Martha Wells, of Roseburg. He was wounded in action, but has returned to his former company at the request of his officers. He is located in the South Pacific area and he requests that his friends write to him at his old address.

Edward W. Jackson hopes to get back to the United States, "all in one piece," he writes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Jackson of Roseburg, reporting that his unit was being withdrawn from combat after three months of hard fighting. Jackson, who served through the Tunisian campaign, has been with the Fifth army in Italy, and reports that the Italian fighting has been much harder than the Tunisian drive. His letter, written Dec. 6, reported that the men were very tired and were being sent back to a rest camp and might be returned to the United States.

Cougar Hoopsters Down Oregon State, 45 to 41

PULLMAN, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Washington's two entries in the Northern division Coast conference basketball race remained the only undefeated schools today following Washington State college's 45-41 defeat of Oregon State college last night.

The Cougars rallied from a 24-14 deficit to knock over a Beaver quintet which had opened the conference season with a double triumph over Idaho.

Fred Lee, O. S. C. forward, topped the individual scoring with 12 points, followed closely by his teammate, Captain Bernard McGrath, with 11. Lager led the evenly divided Cougar scoring with 8 points, one more than was marked up by five of his teammates.

The two teams will meet again tonight in the concluding game of Oregon State's lone four-game road trip of the season.

Ex-Eugene Man Slain by Mother Of Courted Girl

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 8—(AP)—Leonard Morgan, 30-year-old book salesman formerly of Eugene, Ore., was shot and killed today and police quoted Mrs. Myrtle Meserve, 58, in whose apartment the shooting occurred, as saying she fired to protect her crippled daughter from Morgan's importunities that she marry him.

Det. Lt. H. R. Johnson said Mrs. Meserve told him she returned home last night to find Morgan standing over the bed of her daughter, Valerie, 31, urging their marriage. After quarreling with him until 5 o'clock this morning, the officer reported Mrs. Meserve said, she got her revolver and shot Morgan, a roomer in her apartment, when he started for a bureau drawer where she knew he kept a pistol.

Miss Meserve has been paralyzed since she suffered a gymnasium accident three years ago, her mother said, and has been able to walk for only a month.

DIAL LOG

By SUSAN

President Roosevelt speaks tonight at 6:00 o'clock—sorry we couldn't let you know about it sooner. We understand that he will give a resume of his message to congress, which will be read by some one else, but the president will be speaking directly to you. Immediately after the president's speech, Annaloris will present Music You Remember—and for the rest of the evening it's Eye Witness News at 8; Chuck & Jack at 8:15, and Sinfonietta at 8:30. Roseburg High will be back on the air Wednesday morning at 10:30 and there's a special broadcast of a ship launching at 1 in the afternoon and, of course, you won't forget that it's Halls of Montezuma at 4:30. Soldiers With Wings—6:30—has Charles Laughton and Janet Blair as Hollywood guest stars. We're still disappointed because Langford didn't sing our song last week, and what's worse we aren't making much progress with Welcome Inn on the deal either. Bulldog Drummond goes to the circus and finds the human cannon ball, the snake charmer and the ring master murdered in quick succession. Sounds like lots of gore come 8:30, so don't miss it.

Strike of Northwest Foundrymen Is Ended

SEATTLE, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Striking foundrymen today returned to work at Everett and Seattle, and the plants were again operating normally, pending final action by the regional War Labor board on wage demands. The board had announced last week that if the Thursday walkout ended today, the board would act by Wednesday.

Leslie Butler, Former Highway Official, Dies

HOOD RIVER, Ore., Jan. 10—(AP)—Leslie Butler, longtime banker and merchant of Hood River and The Dalles, died Saturday at the age of 96. He was a member of Oregon's first highway commission. He also was a life member of the board of directors of the Oregon State Tuberculosis asociation and of the Children's Farm home at Corvallis.

A son and three daughters survive.

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

The birthday of a nation must be held sacred by all true citizens of that country. If a nation is to survive, it must be a land "whose God is the Lord," a land in which free men are reared. Our nation points with pride to the great achievements of our history, and to crises through which we have passed triumphantly because our country has produced strong and enduring manhood. Our people hope for the future lies in this fact. Today we do not point to our material might, as we think in terms of our nation we do not point to our material might. We are thinking in terms of something more worthy than wealth. We point to those men who have loved liberty and justice, and who have been willing to lay down their lives for those things. It is fitting that we should thank God that He has given us the opportunity to hold aloft the light of truth, liberty and justice that all people may have equal chance for "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," and may understand with us the sacred meaning of America. "God bless America, land that I love, stand beside her and guide her, through the night with a light from above." Amen.

Nesbitt, construction expert and northwest division field manager for Safeway Stores Inc., who died at his home yesterday, was in charge of construction of many large buildings in western Oregon, including the U. National Head of Eagles to Visit Roseburg Aerie

Roseburg aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles has scheduled an important meeting Feb. 1. The principal speaker will be the Eagles' thirty-two-year-old national president, Robert W. Hansen, of Milwaukee, Wis. Members of neighboring Eagle lodges have been invited to attend the meeting. It will be the first time in five years the aerie has been visited by a national president.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles, the largest national fraternity in the country, has been acclaimed for its contribution to the war effort, declared George A. Frew, secretary. "Joseph H. Liston, special assistant to War Production Board Chairman Donald Nelson, stated recently: 'Eagles have engaged in many successful crusades in the past—for mothers' pensions, for old age and social security benefits, and other valuable purposes. Your 750,000 members are one of the most powerful forces we have in this county for winning the war. You know how to work together—how to get results!'"

Railway Wage Dispute Conference Postponed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—(AP)—A special presidential board appointed to recommend a solution of the railroad wage dispute involving the fifteen non-operating unions postponed its hearing today until Thursday because of the absence from the city of the unions' chief counsel, Donald Richberg.

The unions have contended they are entitled to a review of their overtime demands exclusive of any other consideration, but they have not been able to learn from the administration whether the board is empowered also to consider the graduated increases of 4 to 10 cents which it recommended last November. They contend that they have accepted the 4 to 10 cents and those increases are no longer at issue.
