LESSON LEARNED CHICAGO—Two gunmen attempted to rob a bowling alley but were thwarted when Jacob Tsiar, a night watchman, started yelling. He continued to yell as one of the men beat him on the head with a lead pipe.

But, it was no use. They finally fled without loot.

At a second bowling alley, police said the same robbers trusted up a night watchman, stole $884, 50 cartons of cigarettes and a quantity of whiskey.

PRIVATE NAVY YARD NEW YORK—A navy yard employee admitted in U. S. district court to stealing $4,000 worth of government tools and materials from the yard.

The worker, the FBI said, not only had more of certain items at his home than the navy yard had but also had some articles the yard lacks and can't buy because of shortages.

The man's excuse: "I just like to take things home."
