Farm WAR NEWS

MORE OILMEAL DUE

Oregon has been given an allocation of oilmeal from the 20 per cent of the total output that processors are required to set aside for distribution at the direction of the War Food administration. The state AAA committee has placed orders for 1,200 tons of soybean meal for January delivery.

DAIRY PAYMENTS UPPED

The dairy feed adjustment program has been extended for one month, and payments on January production will be made at increased rates. In western Oregon, the rate for whole milk has been upped 5 cents to 50 cents a hundred weight; the rate for butterfat upped one cent to 6 cents a pound.

These rates apply to milk and butterfat produced in January. Payments for November-December production, now being made by the county AAA committee, will be at the original rates.

EGG PRICES

If the restricted purchase programs recently put into effect fail to bolster egg prices, WFR may expand its purchasing to cover all of the 50 central egg markets in the country. However, FDA officials believe that the market will be steadied at the support price by recent developments, which include inauguration of buying programs in the Northeastern and Southeastern states and the resumption of egg drying operations in five mid-western plants.

Egg production, of course, is heading into its normal peak season. FDA estimates three record-breaking production months for March, April and May, with each month topping 20 million cases.

TRUCK CERTIFICATES

The county farm transportation committee reminds farm truck owners that ODT certificates of war necessity, required to permit operation of trucks on public highways, did not expire

December 31. Farmers should not apply for renewals because the certificates bear no expiration date and remain in effect until amended, suspended, cancelled or revoked.

CONSERVE CONTAINERS

The War Food administration is formulating plans for an extensive campaign to urge farmers to conserve containers. The supply of sacks, crates, boxes and other containers used by farmers is seriously short, and materials for replacements inadequate.

We appreciate your co-operation. We're giving you the best service we can under existing wartime conditions. UMPQUA DAIRY PRODUCTS. Back the attack—Buy War Bonds
