Heroism Cited in Torpedo Sinking Of Liberty Ship

RICHMOND, Calif., Mar. 7.—(AP)—The Liberty ship Melville E. Stone, named for the former general manager of the Associated Press, has been sunk by torpedoes in the Caribbean sea, the War Shipping administration disclosed today. The date was not announced.

Sixteen lives were lost. Two torpedoes sank the craft. The Melville E. Stone was launched last July 24 at the permanent Metals corporation yard, one of the Henry J. Kaiser interests here.

Disclosure of the sinking, while the ship was carrying a cargo of strategic materials, was contained in a story of the heroism of its master, Capt. Lawrence J. Gallagher of Sacramento, Calif., and the radio operator, Peter A. Carrier, of Columbia, Mo., both of whom went down with the ship. The captain was lost, the WSA said, after directing abandonment efforts, refusing to take time to don a life preserver and after a line thrown to him from the only undamaged lifeboat fell short.

Carrier remained at his radio post to the last, flashing emergency signals. Survivors were rescued by a sub-chaser summoned by planes which responded to the radio call for help.

Sub-Zero Blast Chills Midwest

CHICAGO, Mar. 7.—(AP)—Heavy snows and sub-zero weather covered north sections of the central plains and Great Lakes regions today and continued cold weather was forecast for the coming 24 hours.

The mercury fell below zero in northern Montana and North Dakota and freezing temperatures, slightly below normal, reached as far south as Oklahoma City. Lowest reading was -11 at Havre, Mont.

A 5-inch snowfall deepened the snow blanket at Duluth, Minn., to 16 inches. It stretched westward to Grand Forks and Fargo, N. D., and south to northeastern Kansas, where 5 inches of snow fell.

In Minnesota snowfall ranged from three to 12 inches and a 40-mile-an-hour wind piled up drifts that blocked highway traffic in some areas, forced schools to close, and slowed trains. The heaviest snowfall was reported in the Crookston area, in the northwestern part of the state.

Myrtle Creek

MYRTLE CREEK—R. R. Ady suffered a dislocated shoulder as the result of a fall while helping to load lumber on a car at the Pieco mill last Friday.

Mrs. C. A. Strong, who has been working at Portland, and her son, Geoffrey, and his son, Robert, U. S. navy, who is home on furlough, all arrived from Portland Wednesday for a visit with Mr. Strong, who came home last week on sick leave from the defense plant where he has been working.

Mrs. Pauline Bounds receives numerous letters from her son, Jerry, who is radioman 2-c in the Canal Zone and likes his job.

The Ackert building on the corner of First and Main streets has been sold to Myles Jones, who will transform it into a modern apartment house. That means that Dr. Adams and Dr. Wilson will have to look for new quarters. Fortunately Dr. Adams has room in his new building for his office. They also plan to add another ward to the hospital, as they find that seven beds are not enough.

The planning board at the school house is getting ready to map out a pattern for four more much needed rooms on the school building before school opens next fall.

"Jonsey"—Jones is reported to be gaining substantially lately. He has been ill for some time.

Fresh Obstacle Perils Accord on Service Vote Bill

WASHINGTON, Mar. 7.—(AP)—A division within the ranks of federal war ballot supporters today presented a new obstacle to final conference agreement on a vote bill for the armed services.

Chairman Worley (D-Tex.) of the house elections committee termed the newly-revised measure "discriminatory," and Chairman Green (D-E. L.) of the senate conferees expressed "grave doubt" as to its merits.

But, from Representative Bonner (D. N. C.), came the assertion that nearly four weeks of senate-house argument had brought "more than it looked like we could get when the conferees started."

"I believe an overwhelmingly greater number of soldiers will have an opportunity to vote than is now provided," Bonner said. The bill was revised yesterday to permit absentee federal ballot voting by armed force people stationed in this country if their states have made no provision for absentee voting and their governors certify by July 15 that the use of federal ballots is acceptable to the states.

This is primarily for the benefit of military citizens of New Mexico and Kentucky, which now lack adequate absentee voting laws.

A previously-adopted provision called for a federal ballot for use overseas only, and Worley contended the latest revision "discriminates between men overseas and at home and between soldier citizens of different states."

The announcement of the forthcoming conferences, in which American plans to build a pipeline across Saudi Arabia, will be a prime subject, was made jointly in Washington and London.

Polygamy Charge Faces 20 Persons

SALT LAKE CITY, Mar. 7.—(AP)—A federal grand jury has indicted 20 persons in 10 true bills involving government attorneys said today, alleged polygamist practices.

Seven indictments charged Mann act violations, one the use of United States mail in sending alleged obscene matter, one conspiracy and the 10th charged violation of the Lindbergh kidnaping law.

In connection with the federal indictments handed down yesterday, the state government went into action against persons suspected of polygamy, filing charges of illegal cohabitation against 10 individuals and conspiracy against public morals against 30.

John S. Boyden, assistant U. S. district attorney, said the indictments involving alleged obscene matter and conspiracy were based on circulation of a publication called "Truth."

Included among the defendants in the state cases were twelve women, they were accused of conspiracy to "advocate, promote, encourage, urge, teach, counsel, advise and practice polygamous or plural marriage."
