do both.

OUR interest in this new development in the Burma fighting lies in the fact that if the Japs SHOULD take Imphal and drive on from there to cut our only supply route into China it might result in knocking the Chinese out of the war.

That is why we are so concerned about it.

MOSCOW dispatches relate that a red army is striking south from Tarnopol in its "white-hot hour of victory" in a FULL-SCALE smash to throw the Germans back through Czernowitz (Cernauti, perhaps, on your map) to the Carpathian barrier.

Unless checked very soon, this Russian army striking swiftly down from the north will effect a junction somewhere in the neighborhood of Czernowitz (Cernauti) with another Russian army coming in from the east and the combined red forces will then presumably strike southward along the base of the Carpathians into the heart of Rumania.

It is at least interesting, and probably significant, that the Rumanian oil fields at Ploesti are on the EXPOSED side of the Carpathian mountain barrier.

IT is easy to sense in the dispatches the heightening tension in England. Churchill visits the American armies gathering and training there for the greatest military adventure of all time—the proposed invasion of Europe across the channel.

When this mighty venture will be launched isn't known to us. Its exact hour may not be known even to our high command, for obviously we shall attempt to strike at the moment that is MOST FAVORABLE TO US.

It is reasonable to assume that the most favorable time for us to attack in the west will be when the Russians have the Germans so fully engaged in the east that Hitler will be unable to spare ANY additional forces to oppose our landings on his western coast.

It isn't hard to understand why the tension rises in England as the Russians swing increasingly into action on the eastern front.

(WE can't assume, of course, NOW. We outsiders don't know when the all-out Russian assault will come. We don't know the size of the forces they have assembled for it. Their present drive into Rumania, however powerful it may seem to us from our reading of the dispatches, may be only a preliminary skirmish when compared with the REAL THING. We can only read and guess.)

THE air war in western Germany rises steadily in fury. The British strike with a thou-

PARALYSIS FUND NEEDS AID

By Charles V. Stanton.

DESPITE contributions amounting to almost twice as much as in previous years, the Douglas County Infantile Paralysis fund probably will need assistance from the National Foundation before the end of the year.

Subscriptions from the March of Dimes campaign totaled $2,346.07. The county is required to share receipts with the National Foundation, leaving $1,173.03 in the local treasury representing receipts from the drive.

In addition to the money received from voluntary contributions by Douglas county residents, the committee was allotted $449.30 from the March of Dimes conducted by the motion picture theaters in a nation-wide campaign.

The board has authorized payment of bills amounting to $883.75, covering the cost of relief given recently to victims of the infantile paralysis epidemic, and has contracted further care for patients, obligating the fund to monthly payments in excess of $100.

It is anticipated further calls will be made upon the fund, particularly in view of the fact that health authorities are predicting another epidemic, while some of the victims of the recent attack by the disease may need aid in securing appliances or treatment.

During and since the recent epidemic, the committee has financed the services of specialists, has paid for operatives to conduct massage and exercise on regular schedule and has taken other steps to aid those suffering any degree of paralysis.

Assistance was given patients at Reedsport, Drain and Curtin. Two will require continued care for many months. It may be seen from the report given by the chairman that there is little prospect of a surplus to meet any emergencies which may arise.

We are giving you this report in an effort to aid the county committee in building up its reserve fund to the point where it will have a few hundred dollars to meet a possible emergency. We believe there are individuals and organizations in Douglas county who would like to help in adding to this fund.

Political observers here said that if he enters the race it probably will be for the seat now held by Guy Gordon of Roseburg under interim appointment to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator McNary.

THE battle of Cassino—the German version of Verdun and Stalingrad combined—swings back and forth. Recent dispatches report German gains in the bloody fought for village.

When this mighty venture will be launched isn't known to us. Its exact hour may not be known even to our high command, for obviously we shall attempt to strike at the moment that is MOST FAVORABLE TO US.

McCarran Warns NLRB Congress Won't be Driven

WASHINGTON, Mar. 28—(AP)—The National Labor Relations board had a warning today that congress would not be "kicked around" and that an order against "membership raids" by unions will not be lifted.

McCarran said he had heard the NLRB was advocating lifting a prohibition under which it is prevented from holding employee elections in plants where union contracts have been in existence as long as three months.
