Assign 4-F's, 18-37, to Essential Industry or Put Them into Army in Labor Units, Asst. War Secy. Urges

WASHINGTON, Mar. 29—(AP)—Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson told the house military committee today the time had arrived for 3,500,000 4-F's between the ages of 18 and 37 to be assigned to essential industry or to be inducted into the army in labor battalions.

"We face an actual danger," Patterson said as the committee continued its study of the manpower situation. "It seems quite plain that some method of controlling the utilization of 4-F's in essential war work more extensively than under existing practice would promote the winning of the war."

One method to utilize the 4-F's he explained, would be by enactment of national service legislation applicable to men between 18 and 37 who have been classified as physically disqualified to perform military service. He said assignment of such men to essential activities could be under control of a director of national service. "Another method would be by extension of the present selective service mechanism," he said. "The 4-F's in war activity or other essential activity would be given occupational deferments and would remain as before. The 4-F's not in war activity or other essential activity and found by the local boards to be qualified for such activity would be inducted and placed in the enlisted reserve."

As the need for additional workers in an essential activity became evident, he explained, the men assigned to the enlisted reserve would be directed by local boards to take employment in such activity, retaining their civilian status and receiving the wages and other ordinary incidents of civilian employment.

Men directed into essential employment and refusing to go, he declared, "would be called by the army to active military service and would be used in special labor units."
