BANS INFLATED PURCHASES
Tenant purchase loans by the Farm Security Administration will not be made in those areas where farm land values soar beyond the range of sound long-term investments. Administrator Frank Hancock has announced. Due to inflated prices for farms, loans under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant act have already been withdrawn in some sections. This action was taken so that the program which enables tenants to become owners would protect applicants from acquiring land debts which would ruin them later on.
