WHY WE ARE FOR CORDON

By Charles V. Stantos

THERE are many good reasons, we believe, why United States Senator Guy Cordon of Roseburg should be selected by the voters of Oregon in preference to his most worthy and able opponent, Charles A. Sprague, former governor of Oregon.

With two men, each possessing necessary qualifications for the office, as rival candidates, voters must inquire carefully into the lesser matters which make one more suitable for the position than the other.

We, therefore, desire to present ten reasons why we believe Guy Cordon to be preferable in the current contest:

1. He is on the job.
 Cordon already is serving as United States senator. Governor Earl Snell, after canvassing a large field of well qualified men, selected Guy Cordon as the man most able to carry on the work of the late Senator Charles L. McNary. Cordon has justified the confidence imposed in him by the governor by the manner in which he has gone about completion of work initiated by McNary as well as by service already given in new projects.

2. He holds excellent committee appointments.
 Senator Cordon stepped into all of Senator McNary's committee appointments except that of agriculture. McNary's seniority gave him important committee posts. Many of these probably would be lost should Sprague be nominated and elected, but will be retained if Cordon is the choice of Oregon voters.

3. Cordon is aggressive.
 Cordon has an exceptional ability to get along with other men a good mixer—an important qualification for a man in the office to which he aspires.

4. He knows Washington.
 For 15 years Cordon has been frequently in the national capital. He is familiar with its agencies and with the men who head departments. It would take many months for a new man in the office to become equally well acquainted.

5. He worked with McNary.
 As an agent for Oregon and other western states, Cordon had occasion to spend much time with Senator McNary. The relationship was more than simply business. The two men were close personal friends. Cordon enjoyed McNary's confidence and assisted in many matters outside the issues upon which he was primarily in Washington. Being thoroughly acquainted with McNary's policies, he is better able to follow the same pattern.

6. He has legal training.
 A knowledge of legal procedure is valuable, particularly in determining constitutionality of laws, finding "jokers" and loopholes in legislation and, especially, in conducting investigations in committee.

7. Cordon is a veteran.
 The next few months will see a great deal of legislation affecting the welfare of men returning from the battle fronts. As a veteran of the first World War, and with a son now serving with the army air forces, Cordon will have the deepest sympathy and understanding of the veteran's problem. His ability in this field is based on his experience as the first adjutant and service officer of the Roseburg post of the American Legion and later as commander of the Oregon state department.

8. He has no commitments.
 Cordon represents no particular group or interests. He has made no pledges, has received no endorsements which require repayment in special privilege.

9. He is an authority on taxation.
 Through experience as county assessor, district attorney, and legal counsel to the Association of Oregon counties, Cordon has given special study to matters of taxation. He was engaged by Governor Snell as adviser on tax problems at the last session of the state legislature. Taxation will be one of the major issues of all sessions of congress in the next few years. His chief work has been to protect states and counties against unfair tax loads imposed by acquisition of lands by the federal government, without provision for annual payments in lieu of taxation.

10. Cordon knows Oregon problems.
 Probably no man in Oregon has a wider knowledge of the state's problems and needs than has Cordon. His service as adviser to the county courts has brought him in close touch with the intimate issues in every section of the state, while, at the same time he is familiar with the larger picture of the western states as a whole.

The above are only ten of the reasons why we believe Guy Cordon is deserving of the nomination. We could recite many more. Each in itself, in our opinion, is sufficient to justify his selection by the voters of Oregon.

State Press Comment

THE U. S. SENATE RACE

(Medford Mail Tribune.)
 In the coming primary, the republicans will have to choose between two of the most desirable and highly qualified candidates for the U. S. senate who have ever entered the party lists in Oregon.

But balancing the many virtues of one against the other—canceling them out as it were—we have reached the conviction that the best interests of this state would be served by the selection of Guy Cordon, and for one main reason, L. C.

HIS GREATER ABILITY TO GET RESULTS AND GET ALONG WITH MEN.

There are other considerations—Cordon's energy and aggressiveness, his many years practical experience in Washington, his familiarity with all the ropes in that political maze and madhouse, his intimate knowledge of Southern Oregon problems. But they have been secondary, in reaching this conclusion, because many of these things could in time be acquired, but the key-note of the Cordon character CAN'T be.

A man either has it, or he hasn't. Guy Cordon HAS!
 And there is no guess work about this * * * It is not the product of any personal preferences or considerations whatsoever.

The present writer simply KNOWS this to be true because he has seen Guy Cordon at work, not only in this state but in Washington and the halls of congress. And anyone who cares to analyze and follow that record, step by step, simply cannot dispute the obvious fact. As U. S. senator, Guy Cordon would have what it takes, and what Oregon greatly needs in the upper house. The qualities that bring accomplishment.

And if Guy Cordon were in any sense deficient in those qualities of mind and character and vision that develop eventually into what is generally termed "STATESMANSHIP," we would

Beavers Crowding Seals For Lead Of Coast League

(By The Associated Press)
 The Portland Beavers climbed to within a game of the Coast Baseball league leadership last night by taking both ends of a doubleheader from Hollywood, 3-0 and 7-3.

The defeats ended an eight-game winning streak for Hollywood.

The Beavers bunched three runs in the first inning of the seven-inning opener to win behind Cohen's five-hit hurling. Liska gave up 12 hits in the finale but his mates collected a like number to give the veteran submariner his fifth straight win.

The San Francisco Seals, still on top of the heap, were idle at Seattle. They will play a doubleheader tonight.

Ceell added 11 men to his strikeout list to aid San Diego in taking a 3-2 win over Los Angeles.

Oakland won 3-2 from Sacramento. It was the third straight loss to Oakland for the call-dwelling Solons.

DIAL LOG

By SUSAN

We're a little confused about the six o'clock spot on Saturday night—we can't just be sure whether you'll hear Chicago Theatre of the Air or the Chicago Theatre of the Air Symphony hour. In either event Henry Weber directs the music and the Colonel will speak, but if it's the Theatre, you'll hear Marion Claire and if it's the Symphony you'll be hearing Tenor Richard Tucker in the vocals. But whichever you hear at 6, we're waiting until 8 because our money is on Al Jarvis' Downbeat Derby for good entertainment. It seems that Jarvis got his start in radio by out-screaming the other 311 applicants for the job of announcer in the radio stations in Burbank, California. This week he will interview Novelty Band Leader Louis Jordan, and the dark horse selection is Jo Stafford's recording of "You Grow Sweeter as the Years Go By" (it hasn't been released yet).

A lot of other recordings are scheduled for this week that sound mighty tasty, including our favorite Bing Crosby's "I'll Be Seeing You". That's about it for Saturday, but don't forget there's some good listening spots tonight too—Double or Nothing at 6:30, Eye Witness News at 8, Name That Song at 8:30 and, of course, Newspaper of the Air at 9.

Forest Managing Started by Board

The Oregon State Board of Forestry, at a meeting the first of the week, started work on a long-term plan of forest management. Fred A. Goff of Roseburg, board member, reported today. Mr. Goff is a member of the special committee named by the board to prepare a tentative program to be submitted for approval at a later meeting.

The program will be designed, Goff reported, to provide methods whereby logged off or burned over lands may be turned over to the state board for reforestation, with a provision for exchange on a grouping program which would permit the state board to centralize its holdings. Acquisition of land along highways to preserve scenic and recreational values also will be included.

stock feed. Only the starch is removed during distilling... the part recovered is a highly-priized concentrate containing valuable proteins, fats and carbohydrates. The distilling industry really has taken a leading part in the development of new cattle and poultry feed products from reprocessed grain... products rich in vitamins B₁ and B₂... so essential to satisfactory growth and production. And the recovery of grain will apply also to the making of whiskey when production is resumed."
