what happens when an enemy is attacked where he is ALL SET,
 with finger on trigger.

Italy may be a fake play. There may be many other fake plays
 all around the rim of the fortress of Europe. A good quarterback probes and probes until he finds
 a weak spot, and then, if his team
 has what it takes, it GOES THROUGH.

In this Battle of Armageddon,
 we think our team has what it takes.

ABOVE all else, Eisenhower
 must fool the enemy, if he can.
 In order to fool the enemy, he must fool us at the same time.

You'll be wise if you draw no
 conclusions at this early stage.
 Just watch and wait and listen.

The battle will UNFOLD as time passes. It's that kind of battle.

It may be at least interesting
 that the first play comes in Italy.
 We ALREADY HAVE THE
 BEACHHEAD THERE.

Landing from the sea on a
 beach already held by the enemy
 has always been war's toughest problem.

THE Germans, obviously nervous, mutter in their beards
 about a COUNTER-INVASION
 of England, carried out by parachute and glider-borne troops.
 It sounds absurd. They're going to need all their troops and all their planes AT HOME.

But don't be surprised at ANY-THING. No one can say in advance what a cornered wolf will do or won't do.

TIMED to coincide with the opening of the new and awesome battle in Italy, the United States, Britain and Russia issue
 what amounts to an ultimatum to the German satellites (Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Finland)
 to get out of the war on Germany's side OR ELSE.

They are told that EVERY DAY
 they remain on the Nazi side
 "brings more disastrous consequences to them and more rigorous terms which will be imposed upon them."

It will be interesting (and probably informative) to watch what they do.

WE learn from the dispatches
 that Washington and London are agreed on control of conquered (if and when) German territories, but Russia is NOT YET in agreement.

That is international politics,
 looking forward to the world after the war and who will have the BIGGEST SAY in running it. It has nothing to do with the fighting.

The fighting will go on while
 the diplomats talk.

THE news from China grows
 graver.

The Japs have crossed the Yellow river, GETTING BEHIND
 the Chinese lines west of Loyang.
 They are using 1,000 trucks, along with tanks and armored cars. The Chinese are fighting back with rifles and not much ammunition.
 They have neither anti-tank guns

EVERYONE SHOULD VOTE

By Charles V. Stanton

Political observers are unanimous in predicting a very light vote at the primary election to be held Friday, May 19. It is regrettable that such an outlook could even be considered, much less be offered as a prediction, when we are so vitally concerned with a struggle to maintain our national existence. It is a sad commentary on the attitude of our people when observers can say with a measure of assurance that only a few will take the trouble to go to the polls and cast a ballot. It would seem that in times like these, with our nation in peril from enemies abroad and destructive elements at home, that the American people would be roused to a fervor which would result in record breaking balloting. It would seem that people would realize by now that bad politics can exist only when a minority of the qualified electors go to the polls. There can be no internal danger so long as a substantial majority of the voters express themselves by means of the ballot. But there is constantly increasing danger when a comparative few, including those interested in special privilege, hold the balance of power in the polling places.

With millions of our young men fighting to preserve our government, those of us at home ought to be equally interested in maintaining good government, and good government can be assured only when we have good citizens. The primary responsibility of good citizenship, under our constitutional form of government, is that of voting. Yet, despite these obvious truths, observers are telling us that the primary election vote will be exceptionally light.

Here in Douglas county we have two purposes to serve by turning out a large vote at the forthcoming election. First, we can prove to ourselves and to the world that we accept seriously the responsibility of citizenship. Second, by a large vote we would undoubtedly pile up a large majority for United States Senator Guy Cordon—a majority which, in view of the light vote anticipated elsewhere, might spell the difference between victory and defeat.

We believe the majority of Douglas county voters want to see Guy Cordon nominated and elected. We desire this as a matter of community pride as well as in the conviction that he is the best candidate seeking the office.

Political observers are forecasting that the outcome of the Cordon-Sprague contest will be determined by the vote in Multnomah county. That prediction, however, could easily be upset by a large Cordon majority in Douglas county, providing the vote elsewhere is at all close.

Douglas county has 6,664 republican voters qualified for the primary election May 19. If all of these votes could be cast, with a very substantial number favoring Cordon, the preponderance in a close election might furnish the deciding factor.

But we are not urging a large vote simply to elect one candidate, regardless of how sincerely we hope for Cordon's retention in office. Rather it is our firm conviction that every citizen, under the constitution of the United States, owes it as much to his nation to participate in the conduct of government, casting his ballot on election day, as he does to bear arms in the nation's defense or to give his allegiance to the flag.

Personally we find it depressing to think that the general attitude toward responsibility has reached a point where predictions can be made in advance of election day that only a small minority of the qualified electors will exercise the privilege guaranteed them.

not heavy armament. As a matter of fact, they haven't much
 but their bare hands.

Among other objectives, the Japs seem bent on clearing the Chinese out of the great food-producing plains of Honan.
 China's situation is so desperate
 that FOOD is her NO. 1 NEED.

Injured Musician Tootles Awheel

A Badly injured foot proved no material hindrance to Dick Cejka, bass player in the Glendale school band, who covered the line of march in Saturday's Community and Pet parade while seated in a wheel chair. When Cejka injured his ankle Friday, when the straps of his baseball shoes caused him to stumble and fall on a concrete sidewalk, members of the Glendale band had visions of their trip to Roseburg being called off, as Cejka was the only member able to play the bass horn.

The Roseburg Lions club, however, came to the rescue and provided a wheel chair. Cejka took his place in formation and a group of Glendale girls, accompanying the band to Roseburg, took turns in pushing the wheel chair along the line of march while Cejka boomed out the bass afterbeats to the band's stirring marches.

 A quick reminder right here—tonight is the time your State and Local News moves to 7 o'clock and Lowell Thomas makes his initial broadcast over Mutual at the 7:15 spot. We know you are going to enjoy him because he's been leading the field for years. No one else in the game can touch him when it comes to background and experience. We feel that we are especially fortunate to have him with us just at the time when we're expecting big news to break momentarily. Be sure to listen in tonight. For the rest of tonight's shows—it's Chuck and the Bunkhouse Boys at 8 o'clock and Point Sublime at 8:30. We had to miss both of them last week—and we definitely don't like that. Of course, we missed Sherlock, too, and that's bad, although sometimes he leaves you a little tense and not quite in the mood to turn out the lights. This week's story sounds good and gory: a man is stabbed to death in a Turkish bath, and once again the giant minds of crime detection, Moriarty and Holmes, clash. Holmes wins the decision but Moriarty, as usual, eludes the minions of the law. Tonight's broadcast is entitled "The Adventure of the Missing Bloodstains", so get set for a spine-chilling 30 minutes come 10 o'clock tonight.

For Tuesday, don't forget it's the morning for Organ Chimes at 11:15, and also the day for "Welcome Inn" at 2 in the afternoon. And, once again—for tonight—don't forget that Lowell Thomas will be heard at 7:15.

IF YOU WISH TO AVOID ACCIDENTS, ILLNESS AND DEATH:

- Keep away from automobiles. 35,000 were killed and 1,300,000 were injured in automobiles last year.
- Don't go home. Home accidents accounted for 33,000 deaths and 4,850,000 injuries last year.
- Give up sports, recreations and vacations. Outdoor accidents account for 15,000 deaths and 1,800,000 injuries annually.
- Keep away from the office, store or shop. Occupational accidents cause 17,000 deaths and 1,400,000 injuries yearly.
- Don't travel. 4,000 are killed and 200,000 are injured in accidents that happen to people who use trains or steamships. Beyond all this, millions more contract illnesses and thousands die as a result. So remain permanently in bed—wear a mask—and don't breathe while anyone else is in the room.
