He will be stationed after his leave at Mather field, Sacramento, Calif., for further training.

programs. We'd hate to give you a bum steer. One thing we know for sure—the Torn Mix show starts next Monday at 5:30, following right on Superman's heels, so be on the lookout for him kids, this is going to be a swell half hour from now on.

Torches Used to Free Driver of Wrecked Truck

PORTLAND, June 1—(AP)—Oren Clark, Vanport City, was pinned inside the cab of his truck for over an hour when the truck and trailer crashed across a city dock and over a 10-foot bank to the edge of the Willamette river. He was released by workmen who cut the top of the cab off with acetylene torches yesterday. Both of his legs were crushed, but hospital attendants said he will recover.

TEA WEEK

Bringing you your favorite brands of the world's finest tea, at worthwhile savings. No better teas packed.

Anybody can brew a "GOOD" cup of tea

Place one level teaspoonful of tea for each cup into a earthenware or china pot which has been heated with a little hot water. Pour vigorously boiling water over the leaves. Allow it to brew for a full five minutes. Then pour off the liquor and discard the leaves. Sugar and milk or cream should be placed in the cup in that order before the tea is poured. The extra spoonful of tea "for the pot" can be saved as a wartime economy. With careful use one pound of tea will usually make 175-200 cups.

For iced tea the brew should be stronger to allow for the additional water from melting ice.

DIAL LOG

BY SUSAN.

Vacations are grand—but they certainly throw you for a loss when it comes to getting back to work. Here it is Thursday and we're not straightened around yet. Anyway, it's the night for Cisco Kid, the old rascal, 7:30, and Here Comes the Band at 8. Annie doesn't live here any more on Music You Remember at 8:30, but we'll hope that she will be back again before long. In the meantime you'll be getting some mighty fine music from KRNR's greatly augmented transcription library. Just at a guess, if you have some special favorites, that you'd like to hear, we'll bet that they would play them for you. On Friday we'd like to urge you to be sure to listen to Music for Remembrance at 1:30—that's a most enjoyable half-hour for us, and we'd like to have you share our pleasure. Friday night at 6:30 brings you Double or Nothing with your favorite quiz show honoring the famed Todd Shipyard Sitch "In Itch girls (doesn't that have an intriguing sound?) At 8:15 there's Recital Hall of the Air, presented by the pupils of Mrs. Clyde Beard this week. We'll list the guest artists tomorrow.

There seem to be quite a few program changes—shifts in time, new programs, and so on coming up in the next week, but we'll have to admit that we got lost and so we'll just have to call them to your attention as and when Mrs. B. lists them on the

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

Within a flag-draped glass showcase in the state house of Hartford, Conn., is an old weather-worn stone slab, upon which is engraved a memorial tribute to Israel Putnam, an officer in the American Revolution. Part of the inscription is no longer legible, but the following words stand out clearly: "He dared to lead where others dared to follow." Brave, strong men ever dare to lead in every field of human endeavor. They have the ability to go ahead, regardless of cost or sacrifice, leading the way for the less daring to follow. The apostle Peter could not run as fast as his companion, but when he reached the tomb of Jesus he went in, and the other disciple followed him. In this, as at other times, Peter was the daring leader. He was the first to enter the empty tomb and prove that it was empty. Because he dared to lead, others dared to follow, and the story of the resurrection was spread far and near. The British Air Force has a splendid motto: "Per Ardua ad Astra," which translated meant, "through adversity to the stars." Long years ago, God promised Joshua He would be with him. "Be strong and of good courage". Thank God, we have men who dare to stand for the things that are right. Amen.
