

For "action BEYOND THE CALL OF DUTY"

The Distinguished Service medal . . . won on X Battlefield for "action beyond the call of duty" . . . which means a soldier didn't just do his job—he did a little more than that—a little more that might have cost his life or meant a permanent disability. Every day hundreds of American fighting men are doing more than their job . . . facing more hazards than are required of them that this world may know a speedier victory and enjoy an early peace.

Would you as a civilian be entitled to a medal for "action beyond the call of duty?" Can you honestly say, "I am doing more than my job here on the home front!" Living according to wartime standards and necessities, putting 10% of your earnings into War Bonds is "doing your job" . . . but buying those extra $100 War Bonds in this War Loan constitutes that "something more" that will bring victory closer. Match the efforts of our valiant soldiers—buy not just one extra bond . . . but make a worthwhile sacrifice . . . buy more than your share this time.

BUY MORE WAR BONDS THAN EVER BEFORE.
