DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

In all fields of life we need a consciousness of our objectives. "Quo Vadis" (Whither Goest Thou) is not just the title of a novel. To know whither we are going is an aching need. Philosophy, chemistry, agriculture may be absorbing fields of service, but they should be only avenues of approach that leads us to God. Ritual is a help to worship, but we must realize that it is only a means and not an end. The reality of God presupposes the reality of sin. We can find God only after we have been convinced of sin. To make worldly pleasure our dominating purpose is to lose a vision of God; to pursue selfish desires serves as a horrible example of what man in the mass will come to if he persistently refuses to recognize and serve God. Some day man will come to see that all his own ingenuity, philanthropy, and international concordats are but sound and fury, signifying nothing. Without God dominant, we devise only vanities. Earth gets its price for what earth gives us. It is "they that trust in the Lord shall renew their strength. They shall mount up like wings of eagles, they shall run and not be weary, they shall walk and not faint verily." God is our refuge and strength. Amen.
