POET'S CORNER

THE NATIVE WILD OREGON AZALEA

By ANNE APPLIGATE KRUSE
There were, beside the stream, and in that shaded nook, azaleas;

Serene in a pasture, grazed by cow and sheep,
Untended and, to the traveler, unseen.

Behind the crowding maples, oaks and hazelbrush, that overhung the road, rose gently the hillside, the abode of chipmunk and meadow-lark.

From the wood, down this slope, the spring branch wandered, to where the wild azalea her treasures squandered.

The only trace to the passerby was a fragrance rare, wind-borne and shy, that seemed a part of the murmur low on mossy rocks in the brook below.

And from this hillside, now becoming ashen in the sun, this marvel could be seen.
On tall shrubs, heavily green, foamed those blossoms.

They were white, I think, faint blush, and striped in deeper pink or lemon with saffron throat;

With frilled and ruffled edges, and upon each stamen a fairy boat to carry matchless odors to lure the tollsome bee from lazy droning to ecstasy.

It would seem as if the Master Painter, bent in a creative mood to invent some perfect thing, had dipped a brush in colors of the first faint flush of dawn, a sunset ray, and used some fragments of the snowy cloud on which to lay those magic shades from nature's store—

And to leave them there forevermore.

Churchill Hints At Close of War This Summer

LONDON, June 19—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, in a speech delivered at the Mexican embassy four days ago and permitted to be published only today, said the months of this summer may "bring full success to the cause of freedom."

He said that invasion of Normandy was a great tactical surprise to the Germans who did not know it was coming until they saw the ships and "it may be that events will occur in the next few months which will show us whether we are soon to be released of the curse which has been laid upon us by the Germans."

The invasion was launched "in full accord" with the Russians and the decisions reached at Tehran, he added, "and although the execution of the plans adopted there is far from being complete, it is being steadily unrolled, and the months of this summer may by the victories of this allied campaign bring full success to the cause of freedom."

Touching on political aspects of the war, the prime minister said efforts were being made "to achieve permanent cooperation and to build up an organization which after this war will strengthen the bonds between all our nations and will succeed in preserving peace."

"We look forward to the future in which the rights of small nations will be upheld and protected and in which the strong will use their power under the law for the protection of the weak."

Whether the Germans are defeated "this year or next, the British and American peoples will never falter or withdraw their hands from the task which they have undertaken," he declared. "Together with our allies we will go on to the end, and the end will be the more terrible for our foes the longer their struggle continues and the longer this war is protracted."

Referring to the inconvenience caused the diplomatic corps by restrictions on communications to preserve secrecy Churchill said, "The lives of a million men may be engaged now on both sides" of the present struggles in France.

Elephants Subject to Many Ills

Superlatives were evolved to apply to elephants, for elephants run to superlatives in size, habits, reactions, talent, stamina, capacity, endurance, cunning, and a child-like flair for absorbing ailments.

These rough, rugged, ready beasts share honors with a variety of other animal acts and an all-new assemblage of human talent on the program of the Clyde Beatty and Russell Bros. combined circus coming to Roseburg for one performance, the night of Thursday, June 22.

Elephants' ills are many—colds, indigestion, bunions, ingrown toenails, colic, sore throats, and eye trouble. However, contrary to claims of many "bull" men, the great hulking creatures do not come down with mumps.

The stiff, black hair of an elephant is like fine wire to the touch. Boss elephant men shave them often with an acetylene blow torch, and finding this process soothing, the pachyderms welcome it.

The bottom of an elephant's foot is a big soft, spongy pad. Gravel, cobblestones, and concrete cause bunions, blisters, cracks, infections, and callouses requiring almost constant attention. A sharp draw-knife is used to pare the callouses. For infections, the feet are washed, one at a time, in an oversized washtub containing an antiseptic solution.

Asiatic elephants have five toes per foot. African elephants have but four. The toe-nails, each about the size of a clam shell, must be trimmed and filed every three months to prevent ingrowing. An elephant's nail file is a carpenter's rasp, and it is also used for a body massage, to remove dead skin from the animal's thick hide.

county are somewhat later this year. Gardens seem to be coming along nicely with good stands of all garden crops with the exception of corn.

A joint meeting of the Brockway livestock and garden clubs was held at the home of Mrs. Dale Zeller Saturday evening. Eight members were in attendance. Bill Weir presided over both meetings in the absence of the president, Dick Nichols. Both clubs are continuing their work through the summer months and all members are entering their livestock and garden projects in the foods production contest.

Coming events for the week are regular meetings of the Melrose Livestock club Monday, a meeting of the two Sutherland garden clubs and picnic Thursday afternoon at Sutherland, and a livestock club tour and meeting of the sheep club, led by Mr. A. A. Jacoby of Lookingglass, Thursday evening.

Fair Employment Plan Branded As Communist Club

WASHINGTON, June 19—(AP)—Asserting Sidney Hillman "is just as much a communist as Stalin himself," Senator Eastland (D-Miss) told the senate today that the chairman of the CIO political action committee "is the driving force" behind the fair employment practices committee.

"We are much closer to a dictatorship by the communist-CIO than the people of this country realize," the Mississippian declared.

Opposing a $500,000 appropriation for the FEPC, Eastland charged that its purpose is to "deprive management of control of business" by a course of "intimidation and coercion."

Congressional approval of creation of the committee, Eastland said, would mean that "we no longer have a constitutional government but a dictatorship in name and in fact."

Efforts of southern senators to kill the agency, which president Roosevelt created by executive order to handle racial discrimination disputes, threatened congressional hopes of wading through a heap of major legislation by Friday night and recessing through the political convention. Substantial republican support lining up with southern democrats on the FEPC issue was the complicating factor.

The FEPC was established under President Roosevelt's war powers, he said, but the supreme court has held that these powers are "purely military," and can be exercised only in commanding the army and navy.

"I take it," interrupted Senator Holman (R-Ore), "that you think there is a limit on the war powers of the President."

"All right, that's encouraging," said Holman.

"ARE YOU MY DADDY?"

"YES, sonny boy, I'm your daddy—the daddy you don't remember because you were just a few months old when I left for war."

War is heartless, little man. It doesn't give much heed to family ties. But, along with millions of other men and women in uniform, your dad is doing everything he can to keep another war from starting when you're grown up and have children of your own.

It's more than good Americanism to invest in War Bonds... it's good business. Let's buy more Bonds than we planned, now during the 5th War Loan Drive... and let's keep on doing so!

5th WAR LOAN DRIVE

NEXT TIME TRY THE TRAIN

This time, BUY MORE THAN BEFORE

The biggest phase of the war is on—the most important phase of the war is on—the most expensive phase of the war is on. To pay for it...

the 5th War Loan Drive is on

Your job—the job of every American who isn't in uniform—is to buy twice as many bonds as you did in the last drive. And before you say "I can't afford it", ask yourself this:

Which is easier—buy an extra bond here at home or give your life abroad? Remember, men are dying each minute you stop to make up your mind whether to buy that extra bond. So don't wait. Do your job right away.

And one thing more—please don't travel unless it's absolutely necessary. Buy an extra bond instead.
