to escape through the tight ring of our naval power.)

Five of the seven ships were sunk or damaged and the others were driven into Alderney, smallest of the Channel islands just off the tip of the Cherbourg peninsula.

The Germans still hold these islands.

THE trapped Germans tried similarly to escape from Sevastopol after the Russians had isolated it by land and surrounded it by sea.

Istanbul reports that HUNDREDS of German corpses are beginning to drift out of the Black sea into the Bosphorus.

SUCH are the fruits of world conquest. Swollen bodies floating in the sea. The bones of the best and bravest scattered afar over the world.

And history tells us that nobody ever conquered the world and made it stick. It's an unbeatable game—like trying to get rich by playing slot machines.

WORLD conquest is a DISEASE like the rabies.

SOMEDAY the quiet, industrious, reasonable, thinking people of the world will become wise enough to realize that world conquerors are like rabid dogs—a menace to be destroyed on sight.

THEY are SO EASILY recognizable.

Alexander, Caesar, Genghis Khan, Napoleon, Wilhelm the Kaiser, Tojo, Hitler—the whole crew of them has followed a pattern that history has clearly identified for us.

If we saw a dog in our neighborhood going rabid, we'd KILL IT. The signs of world conquest rabies are as PLAIN IN ADVANCE as the signs of dog rabies.

But the world, KNOWING what was coming, has never yet had the common sense to ACT IN TIME and kill the rabid dog.

So it pays the penalty of bloody corpses of the flower of its youth rotting on the battlefields of world wars.

THE Russians are storming Vitebsk, on the eastern front, in earnest, advancing seven to nine miles on a 16-mile front.

Moscow says: "The German trenches and battlefields are littered with Hitlerite corpses, smashed equipment and material."

This is the Russians' second big offensive. The Finn drive still rolls on.

YOU'VE probably been watching them and WAITING TO SEE. The Russian baiters among us keep us suspicious. But somehow the Russians always seem to perform.

FREE ADVICE ON STRIKES

By Charles V. Stanton.

ALWAYS forward with advice, and full of bright ideas, we desire to offer a suggestion to Uncle Sam with regard to a most serious situation.

There is impending a strike of sawmill workers and loggers because of the refusal of the War Labor board to grant desired wage increases. If such action occurs, it may become necessary for the federal government to take over the industry, even to the point of using troops.

Now comes the idea! Why not train Wacs and Waves to do guard duty and let them move in instead of army regulars? If we know our loggers, it wouldn't take long to get them back on the job.

But, actually, this strike threat is too serious for jest. We hope the labor leaders, who have it in their hands to control the men engaged in the industry, will think seriously before they permit such action to occur.

There is talk among workers that this will not be a strike in the orthodox manner. Instead, they propose to quit the industry and apply for work in shipyards and other war occupations where the wage scale is higher than in mills and woods.

It is the disparity in wages that forms the bone of contention. Men engaged in the woods industry charge that, in many other essential occupations, laborers of even less skill are receiving considerably better wages and are not working under the pressure placed upon logging woods and mills to maintain a high rate of production.

Actually, such plan is pure subterfuge, but no more so, in fact, than the tactics used by the War Labor board in evading court discipline in the Montgomery Ward seizure. Tergiversation in times such as these should not be treated lightly, whether by an agency of the federal government or by labor unions.

Military authorities are publicly proclaiming that wood and wood products now form the most critical of war material needs. Realizing their importance in the war effort, the men engaged in the timber industry feel they are entitled to at least equal consideration in the matter of wages with workers in other occupations essential to the war effort.

But just as their cause may be, we cannot condone a strike or any cessation or curtailment of production effort at this time. The fact that wood is so vitally needed and means so much to the continued victorious prosecution of the war removes any possible justification for retaliatory measures which would retard the full flow of war materials.

Throughout more than a hundred years Russia has never wanted WHAT WE WANT. Trouble is most apt to rise between people who want the same things.

ROCKET bombs fall on England in BIGGER BATCHES than ever, but at less frequent intervals. Incendiary robots have been added to the explosive ones. We still batter the Calais rocket coast by day and by night with our bombs.

LETTERS to the Editor

RENTAL CHARGES IN ROSEBURG DEFENDED

EDITOR NEWS-REVIEW: If the O. P. A. wants to investigate rentals, why don't they start in Washington, D. C.? My daughter lives in Washington in a small house that accommodates three families. She rents two tiny rooms on the second floor. They are not modern, but she pays $50 per month and is glad to get the rooms at that.

The best modern three-room apartment at the Northside apartments in Roseburg never did rent for $50 a month and doesn't now.

If those who are complaining would go out of Roseburg to some of the other towns, they would learn that their rentals are not too high but too low.

Get a load of them republicans grabbin' up all the ether! My wagger at 3 to 1 odds—30 cents to a dime—is that all the stuff on Bricker was a build-up to keep the convention a hot issue and that Dewey will walk off with it on the first ballot.

Well, lesse... about programs for tonight and Wednesday... uh... say, pal, just look over the program column, willya? We got more space used up now than the law or the News-Review allows.
