DAILY DEVOTIONS

OR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS God places within our lives talents to be used in His name. but many people bury those lalents and they become rusted through disuse. They never use those gifts which God has given them. St. Paul, in writgiven them. St. Paul, in writing to Timothy, his son in the gospel, encourages him to make use of the abilities he had for proclaiming the mes-sage of the gospel. The same word comes to us today. There are unexplored riches in every life but often it takes a crise to bring out our unrecognized capacities. Many people have the latent power of great pos-sibilities, but content them-selves with trifling tasks that need no great energy. It is your obligation to live your life at full capacity. Either use your gift of God, or you will lose it, and in that loss your fellow men as well as your-self will suffer. There is an element of the divine in you life. Your duty as well iife. Your duty as well as a responsibility, is to develop the flivine quality that God has giv-en you. Herein lies the opportunity to use your gift of God.
A buried talent is never a buried treasure. Talents become treasures through service.

OLD FASHIONED CELEBRATION HELD

CAMAS VALLEY - Since the citizens were urged to stay at home this Fourth of July, Camas Valley people, desiring to be pa-triotic, held an old-fashioned celebration. J. E. Brown was the instigator of the plan, with able as-sistance being rendered by Ed Joyce, Marsh Skaggs and Floyd Stoble. John Standley donated the use of his pasture for the race track and a strip of woods along the river for the picnic grounds Everyone was so generous when the hat was passed that there was plenty of ice cream for din-ner and cones for the entire afternoon. The women had a wonder ful dinner spread on the table ofter the morning races. The hat was passed again for prize mon-cy, enough to please all winners. Besides the horse racing there were foot races, greased pole climbs, boxing matches, horse shoe pitching, etc. The new com ers in the valley came out and joined in the fun and everyone had a chance to become better
