I SAW

By PAUL JENKINS

LEVITY FACT RANT taking his ease at a camp high in the Cascades. Replete with a breakfast of fish, friend potatoes, bacon and eggs commensurate with his fancied requirements, was at peace with the world. Chipmunks questing for crumbs about the nearby breakfast table disturbed him not, and the drumming of a distant grouse only added to the pleasurable feeling of contentment induced by the knowledge of a deed well done, a day well begun. He'd eat his fill.

We had intended sleeping in the cabin you see in the photograph above but discovered this ambition was shared by entirely too many mosquitoes, who swarmed in and took possession as soon as the door was opened. We stuck it out one night but after each of us had been rolled unceremoniously to the floor a few times by these obstreperous bedfellows and our respective epidemics had become as warty from their bites as the hide of a hubbard squash, we gave up in disgust. Fortunately we had a small tent with us, which was equipped with netting and in it thenceforward we slept in comfort.

The mosquitoes were pretty bad but not unbearable. Usually throughout each day enough breeze was present about our camp to keep their ranks dissipated, but as evening came on the breeze died and by the same token the insects came to life. They were vicious and supremely vindictive. We'd been in camp only a few minutes when Reizenstein threw a stick of firewood at one which had come lunging out of the brush and broke its leg. It's comrades rescued it before Louie could get the rifle and complete the job, but they never forgot the episode, nor forgave it, while we stayed there.

We caught enough fish each day for our needs—more than that, for that matter. We had to give some away to a visiting geological survey man and his wife who dropped in on us one evening. Both of us balloted when we left and discovered we were unanimous in not wishing for any more fish to eat until at least this time next year. The river, only 100 feet from our camp, furnished our fishing grounds and we did well enough with an absolute minimum of effort, which pleased us both. Neither of us is of the type which enjoys putting out even five cents worth of effort more than any occasion demands. Leave that for the young fellows, is our creed. Leave 'em something, we argue, aside from the national debt.

Caribous Defeat Lumberman In Tight Ball Game

The Sutherlin Caribous defeated the Roseburg Lumber company in a tight softball game Sunday afternoon at Finlay field, as the two teams met to play off a postponed game.

Sutherlin got off to a good start with two runs in the first inning as the result of a walk, one hit, and a wild throw to the plate, attempting to catch he runner on a fast infield play.

Neither team was again able to score until the fifth inning, when the Lumbermen pushed one run across the plate on two hits, one a double by McFarland.

Roberts, Sutherlin catcher, drew a pass to start the sixth inning, when Rutherford touched his bat, and reached second and third on wild pitches, scoring on Marden's long fly to center field.

A desperate seventh-inning rally by the Lumbermen was cut off with one run, leaving two men on bases, following a walk and two hits.

Summary:
Suth. Caribous 200 001 0 3 1 1

MOTHERS: THE FLETCHER'S CASTORIA NOW ON SALE IS SAFEGUARDED THREE WAYS!

Look for the Serial Control Number on each bottle

EVERY BOTTLE of Fletcher's Castoria—now on sale at your drug-gist's—bears a Serial Control Number.

This number is plainly visible through a "window" in the new package. It is your guarantee that Fletcher's Castoria is safeguarded by three different kinds of rigid tests . . . chemical, bacteriological, and biological.

Here's how you can easily identify the new package:

The Green Band... Around each package is a brilliant green band. This band quickly identifies the triple-tested Fletcher's Castoria now on sale.

The Serial Control Number... The Serial Control Number is on the bottle label. You can see it through a "window" in the outside carton.

We think that this visible evidence of quality and reliability... the Serial Control Number on each bottle... will be welcomed by millions of mothers who have long used Fletcher's Castoria as the ideal laxative for children.

And we think that millions of mothers will be glad to know that Fletcher's Castoria—the laxative made especially for children—is now on sale at their druggists'.

For this is the original and genuine Fletcher's Castoria...the laxative that's mild and gentle, yet effective... the laxative that's pleasant-tasting, so you don't have to "force" your child to take it.

Ask for Fletcher's Castoria the next time your child needs a laxative.

Note: Until sufficient stocks can be made available, your druggist may not have enough Fletcher's Castoria on hand to meet all demands. If he happens to be out of stock when you ask for Fletcher's Castoria, please be patient. He will have it for you shortly.
