MAKING GOOD CITIZENS

By Charles V. Stanton

GOVERNOR EARL SNELL is studying a proposal for an intermediary penal institution for teenage first offenders. This proposal is not new. It has been offered on numerous occasions as a partial solution to our problem of juvenile delinquency.

Just because a boy or a girl steps off on the wrong foot is no reason why he or she should wear the criminal brand forever. Yet that frequently happens under our present system.

We all know that environment is one of the principal factors in a child's life. Thrown with bad companions, a child is easily led astray. But given the proper home life and parental training, plus the right kind of companionship, almost any boy or girl will grow into a good citizen.

When, under existing conditions, it becomes necessary for society to provide correction for a wayward youngster, he is placed in an "industrial" school, more generally known as a "reform" school. Just how the institution could apply the title "reform" is more than we can understand.

The offender is thrown in contact with the very worst of juvenile incorrigibles, learns new methods of crime and evasion of law, develops a hatred for authority, and is turned loose with far greater potential criminal abilities than before his incarceration.

Naturally, this is not true in every case, but is, we believe, the rule rather than the exception.

There are some reformations. These are usually youths with sufficient mental capacity and will power to absorb corrective teaching.

Juvenile delinquency, in most cases, is a sign of sub-normal mentality or an abnormal inferiority complex.

We recall a youth in one of our pre-war CCC camps. He was very small for his age. He had been in a great deal of trouble with the law in the large city in which he had made his home. He was allergic to camp authority and was one of the most difficult boys of the company in the matter of discipline.

We hope the governor, in planning correction for youthful offenders, will think seriously of the method of training developed by the Civilian Conservation Corps. We believe that hundreds of our young people can be saved from lives of crime by being placed in outdoor camps where they may be made to feel they are contributing something to society, and where their inferiority complexes, the underlying causes of their waywardness, can be transformed into a spirit of self-confidence.

ANGELINOS STRETCH COAST LEAGUE LEAD

(By the Associated Press) Los Angeles regained a two-game lead on the Coast league baseball teams last night by hammering out a 17 to 7 victory over second place San Francisco.

While the Angels were clouting 23 hits off three Seal pitchers, Oakland held third place by rallying in the ninth inning to defeat Hollywood, 8 to 5.

Portland moved into fourth position by defeating Seattle, 8 to 4. Dasso held Sacramento to three hits and struck out ten batters as San Diego blanked Sacramento, 1 to 0.

San Francisco's shellacking was aided by six errors. Two were out and the scored 5-11 when Oakland pushed over three runs in the ninth at Hollywood. The Stars' Brooks Holder dropped Manager Camille's fly to allow two of the runs to score.

Portland piled up a 7-0 lead and then checked a Seattle final-inning rally. Cohen pitched the distance for Portland, yielding 13 hits while his teammates collected 12.

NEWS OF OUR MEN...WOMEN IN UNIFORM

It has been reported that Jack Horn, who is stationed at Bowling Green, Ohio, attending naval officer's training school, has returned to his studies after illness of about 15 days.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Wilson of Riddle have received word from their son, Sergeant Bill Wilson, that he is out of the hospital and back with his outfit. He was wounded in the leg with shrapnel, June 9, on Biak Island. He also reports receiving two dozen Roseburg News-Review papers and 58 letters at one mail call.

Stationed at the Seattle port of embarkation in the transportation corps, Levi W. Ruhl of Roseburg has just been promoted from captain to major. Prior to his entry upon active duty, Major Ruhl was an accountant with the U. S. Army engineers.

Harry Fletcher, News-Review linotype operator, now a signalman in the U. S. Navy, is seeing plenty of combat action in the South Pacific, according to word received by friends. The ship on which he is serving is officially to the point-blank ranges made possible by the Japs' lack of air power.

In this operation, we see the old pioneer beginning to work.

IN the important islands that screen the Philippines, China and JAPAN, we are still killing Japs. We've killed 2800 on Guam in five days. There are a lot more to be killed before we can break through to our objective.

THE news from Argentina certainly doesn't sound good. We're getting started down there a Western Hemisphere version of the European struggle-for-power mess that above everything we ought to KEEP OUT of the Americas.

LEBANON, Ore., July 29—(AP)—Kirkpatrick Motor company officials today set at $10,000 fire damage to the company's garage building, equipment and four automobiles Thursday night.

Lester Russell, PHM 1-C, who has been stationed for the past two years at a naval station on Puget Sound, has been transferred to sea duty, and has left for the Pacific war zone, according to word received by his parents. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Russell and graduated from Roseburg high school and Albany college.

"Hush" Order Given in Clash With Argentina

WASHINGTON, July 29—(AP)—In an outgrowth of the Argentine affair, Agriculture department employees have been instructed to provide no information or comment to the press, the trade or to "other non-governmental officials" on negotiations of this country with foreign governments, except when specifically authorized.

This instruction was given in a departmental memorandum signed by Secretary Wickard and War Food Administrator Marvin Jones.

The memorandum said that "injurious comments" attributed to an Agriculture department official with regard to recent negotiations for the importation of Argentine corn to help meet a grain shortage in this country had had embarrassing repercussions in the South American corn belt.

Rubber Heels Bettered But Price Top Stands

WASHINGTON, July 29—(AP)—Better grade material now being used in making rubber heels will not boost the selling price, the OPA said today. Prevailing ceilings, effective since last November, the OPA said, represent prices of higher quality heels as sold in March 1942.

The ruling maintains retail ceilings of repair stores as well as those of stores selling rubber heels for home repair.

Young's, Olympia Supply Capture Softball Games

DIAL LOG

The Young's Bay and Olympia Supply Co. teams were winners in softball games last night, Young's Bay defeating Roseburg Lumber 10 to 7 and Olympia Supply taking a 10 to 1 decision over Dunham's.

Both of the defeated teams were handicapped by absence of their regular pitchers and were playing with makeshift lineups.

Losee, 15-year old twirler for Young's Bay, turned in a good game, except for occasional wildness, permitting only six hits. He was called in to take over the pitching chores in an earlier game, when Young, regular twirler, suffered a neck injury.

Roseburg Lumber missed Blake, their regular heaver, and was forced to shift the lineup while Westbrook and Strode were used on the mound.

Young's Bay took a commanding lead in the first inning and was never headed, although Roseburg Lumber attempted a rally late in the contest.

Dunham's, lacking the services of Ellison, resorted to three pitchers, Ward, Domenico and Rice, but could not halt the Olympia Supply field day, although Ward held the Supply-men scoreless for three innings, but blew up in the fourth frame, when his arm grew tired under the unaccustomed chore.

"Prince of Pathos" at 6:00 tonight and Shady Valley Barn Dance at 7:30. There's a special guest on Downbeat Derby tonight that you'll want to hear—Gene Austin, pianist, composer and author of the famous ballad, "My Blue Heaven", will not only appear as guest but will do some real, live piano work—one of the first times the guest on this program has aired his talent direct instead of by transcription. Lots of other good music scheduled via transcriptions, too—such stuff as "Stormy Weather", "Long Ago and Far Away", "Sleepy Time Gal", and "Eager Beaver"—and that's only a small sample of the good tunes emcee Jarvis has chosen for you—so bend or lend an ear toward 1490—the time, as usual, is eight o'clock tonight. Tomorrow we have a very pleasant surprise for you come 8:30 in the evening—there's a new show starting—and here's where the good news comes in—it features Hoagy Carmichael. The title takes its name from the theme music "stardust" and will be known as Stardust Time. There's a special Wave show being broadcast on the 6:30 spot on Sunday evening—an anniversary party—and it will come from the naval base at Astoria, Oregon—the set-up sounds good here—and we'd like to call your attention to Human Adventure at 9:30, too. This week they present "Clausewitz on War"—we won't try to give you any of the details—but we're sure you'll enjoy it.

Frances Farmer, Jailed as "Vag," Awaits Father

ANTIOCH, Calif., July 29—(AP)—Frances Farmer voluntarily spent last night in city jail awaiting the arrival from Reno of her father, Attorney E. M. Farmer, of Seattle.

Police Chief Al Leroy said the former film actress, whom he arrested yesterday for "hanging around" Antioch for "three or four days," was docile and contented with her stay in jail. Leroy charged her under the vagrancy law with being penniless and without visible means of support.

When offered assistance Miss Farmer responded: "I want to be strong enough to fight myself."

She ignored scores of telephone calls offering aid from San Francisco, Hollywood and New York, jailers said.

At Reno, Police Chief Harry D. Fletcher disclosed Farmer reported his actress-daughter missing July 14. Miss Farmer had been taken to Reno for treatment after her release from Western State hospital of Steilacoom, Wash., where she had been pronounced "completely cured" of a mental illness.

Kahut Scores Win Over Leo Turner

PORTLAND, July 29—(AP)—After 14 rounds of off-and-on slugging, Joe Kahut, Woodburn, Ore., exploded a series of right hands to Leo (the Lion) Turner's jaw last night to floor the Portland Negro three times and retain his Oregon light heavyweight championship with a technical knockout win.

The two battlers previously had fought to a pair of draws.

Kahut, who built up a wide lead in the early going, outweighted Turner by 12½ pounds, 173 to 160½.

The two knockdowns prior to the final were for three counts. In preliminary contests Jimmy Hogan, 143, Seattle, and Eddie Well, 143, Portland, fought a six-round draw; Bobby Brock, 147, Woodburn, kayoed George Woods, 151, Portland, 2nd round; Dell Wisner, 188, Seattle, knocked out Harry Glover, 200, Cleveland, 1st round.
