*What Vitamins
Should I Buy?*
The vitamins most commonly lacking in the diet are A, B, C, D and E. No other vitamins have been officially recognized as useful in a general diet supplement.
The United States Food and Drug Administration has issued regulations officially defining the minimum daily requirements of these vitamins as follows:—except Nicotin, which will be discussed later:
A. 5,000 I.U. (400 U.S.P. units)
B. 10 milligrams (4 mg.)
C. 60 milligrams (3 mg.)
D. 400 I.U. (10 U.S.P. units)
E. 15 milligrams (3 mg.)
Under normal bodily conditions one may need much larger quantities of these vitamins or may need certain other vitamins. Each person should consult a physician and follow his directions.
(As defined by the United States Pharmacopeia)
1 One milligram (mg.) equals 1,000 micrograms (mc.)
2 Nicotin is supplied by the National Research Council.
Nicotin is to be supplied by the National Research Council.

These "Squibb" vitamin products are recommended for the prevention of vitamin deficiency. They supply the full minimum daily requirements of the vitamins they contain.
