Big 4 Conference Secrecy Rapped by Senator Bridges

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Senator Bridges (R-N. H.) cautioned in the senate today against the secrecy imposed on the Dunbarton-Oaks security conference and said congress will "not stand for the double talk" surrounding United States proposals for an international peace organization.

From what has been learned of the United States proposal, he said, a projected assembly representing all nations "will be a debating society with no power save to discuss and advise" and "all power will be in the hands of the big four."

Under it, he continued, the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China will have permanent members on the council, while all the other nations will have only seven "and the big four will have a veto on anything proposed and will have in its possession whatever force is authorized to enforce the decrees of the league."

Bridges' speech came after Senator George (D-Ga.) had suggested that general sessions of the Dunbarton Oaks conference be open to the press.

Roosevelt Cited
Bridges said President Roosevelt's statement to the conference delegates that "the four of us have to be friends, conferring all the time" confirmed suspicions that the big four "intends to dominate and that they will decide the peace provisions and policies of the world."

Saying this is not only the basis for "big power politics," Bridges added that the president's use of the personal pronoun "us" raised the question whether "big ruler politics" also was involved under the domination of Roosevelt, Churchill, Stalin and Chiang Kai-Shek.

Referring again to the reported United States plan, Bridges said he objected to Secretary of State Hull asserting "that this government has no intention to set up an organization in which these four big powers will run the world."

"If this plan is necessary, let us understand it and debate it for whatever it is," he added, "but it is an insult to our intelligence to tell us that it is not a plan under which we and our three great allies will dominate the world."

Democrats Worried
At one point Bridges interrupted his prepared address to demand more order. Looking toward the democratic side, he declared:

"Apparently some senators don't want to listen to plain talk about the Dunbarton Oaks conference—but they will get plenty of it in the next few months."

After Bridges completed his speech, Senator Hill (D-Ala.), acting democratic floor leader, said the republican appeared to be prejudging the conference.

"It is very evident," said Hill, "that the senator (Bridges) is disturbed by rumors. He should reserve his criticism until he sees what the conference does."
