Mail Yule Parcels Early, Public Told

Early mailing of Christmas parcels will be necessary in order to assure delivery by Christmas day, L. L. Wimberly, Roseburg postmaster, reports. Shortages of manpower and transportation facilities, together with the large volume of war essential freight, makes speedy handling of Christmas parcels impossible, Wimberly says, and those who would assure delivery of gifts, particularly to out-of-state points, should mail as early as possible.

The postal department, he reports is urging that packages be mailed in November, with a "Do Not Open Until Christmas" label attached. In normal times, Wimberly says, the post office department employs more than 200,000 extra workers in the 43,000 post offices throughout the nation. It will not be possible this year to secure nearly that number, and many of those who are employed will be women, high school boys and girls, retired postal workers, etc., who cannot be expected to work the long hours and do the heavy work normally required.

Says Press Freedom Is Needed as War Barrier

6 good ways to use vegetables now available

Parsnip-Carrot Casserole—Put 2 cups each of peeled and sliced parsnips and carrots in alternate layers in a well-greased 2-qt. casserole. Sprinkle with 3 tbsps. flour, 1½ tps. salt, ½ tsp. pepper; add 2 cups milk; dot with 2 tbsps. butter or margarine. Bake in moderate oven (400° F.) about one hour or until tender and well browned. Serves 6.

Acorn (Danish) Squash, Baked Whole—Put whole squash in oven, and bake at moderate temperature (375° F.) about one hour or until done, depending on size. Cut in two just before serving, dab butter or margarine in each half, and sprinkle with a little brown sugar and salt mixed together, or with salt and pepper, and return to oven for a few minutes.

Or Stuffed—Stuff halved raw acorn (Danish) Squash with hash or Spanish rice or sausage mixture. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) about 50 minutes or until squash is tender.

Mashed Rutabagas (Yellow Turnips) and Potatoes—Pare and cut rutabagas lengthwise in halves or quarters, or dice them. Cook, covered, in just enough boiling water to keep them covered, until tender (about 20 to 30 minutes). Drain; season with salt and pepper, cream or milk, and butter or margarine. Mash and combine with equal amount of mashed potatoes.

Baked Pumpkin—(Incidentally, winter squash is interchangeable with pumpkin in this and many other dishes). Cut pumpkin into pieces suitable for serving. Remove seeds, but do not peel. Place in single layer in large shallow baking dish, and bake in moderate oven (400° F.) about one hour or until tender. Season with salt, pepper, sugar, and butter or margarine. Serve on shell, or scoop out, mash, season, and serve.

Rutabagas (Yellow Turnips) Au Gratin—Combine 4 cups of diced cooked rutabagas with 2 cups medium white sauce, adding 1 cup grated American cheese, and seasonings to taste. Place in well-greased casserole; sprinkle top with a little additional cheese; bake in hot oven (450° F.) about 20 minutes, or until cheese is melted and rutabagas are thoroughly heated.
