U. S. Cutters Smash Nazi Base Plan in Greenland

island, 800 miles from the North Pole.

These landing parties, in a pre-dawn attack, captured a Nazi radio and weather station with its three officers and nine enlisted men and large quantities of scientific and weather equipment.

Three Expeditions Sent Apparently, the navy said, three separate expeditions had been sent to Greenland by the Germans. One was captured by the cutter Northland commanded by Lt. Comdr. R. W. Butcher, Jamaica Plain, Mass., on Sept. 1, after a 70-mile chase through the ice floes. The chase ended in the scuttling of a German trawler when the Nazi craft was blacked by ice. Two explosions ripped through the enemy trawler and she sank.

The crew of eight officers, headed by a full commander, and 20 enlisted men left the craft in lifeboats and were taken prisoner. The cutter Storrs beat off a Nazi bombing attack while the Northland was pursuing the enemy trawler. A twin-motored bomber sped in on the Storrs, but just as it came within attack range it veered off, apparently unwilling to do battle with the little coastguard craft. Simultaneously with the navy announcement, the coastguard at Boston disclosed the arrival there of the Externsteine, saying it had been taken before the crew had a chance to set off demolition charges placed in the engine room.

Horatio Alger, Jr., lived again Wednesday night in the presentation by Abe Bean, toastmaster at the Roseburg Lions club first annual football banquet, held at the Knights of Pythias hall, honoring the members of his year's high school football squad.

Toastmaster Bean, after securing a scrap-book from the mother of Mel Ingram, high school football coach, astounded guests by outlining the athletic prowess of Ingram from his football career in grade and high school, to his captaincy of football and basketball teams at Gonzaga university; his baseball record as an outfielder with the Pittsburgh Pirates and his coaching career covering a period of seventeen years.

Coach Ingram, in response, pointed out that several members of his high school squad this year had never held a football and didn't know how to put on a football uniform prior to coming out for practice. "Natural football players are scarce," Mr. Ingram stated, "and every high school needs 'feeders' trained from the grade school up, to build a good team."

Responses Voiced. Bob Krell, captain of the Roseburg high school football team and Roy Knigge, center, expressed their appreciation for the backing given the team by the Lions club, and the hope that the banquet idea would be continued in future years.

Howard H. Turner, who officiated at three Roseburg high school games this year, complimented Bob Krell on his judgment as team captain and stated that the Roseburg players were the cleanest in the league.

Jeff Currier and Tunney Kennerly entertained with song and dance numbers and high school students and Lions club members responded with group singing.

As an added attraction Abe Bean introduced the stars of "This Is the Army," including: 1st Lt. Cyril H. Hebrank, Jr., of Baltimore, Md.; Sgt. David R. Jackson, Fort Benning, Ga.; Apoll A. Servia, of Jersey City, and Pvt. H. Meeks, of Fort Benning. Guests Are Listed.

der, Bill Benson, Bob Rockwell, Laurence Moore, Don Niblett, Lenlin Ramp, Bob Colley, Tom McCown, Fred Oberholzer, Edwin Harvey, Dick Nichols, Bob Feldcamp, Bill Marsters, Jeff Currier, Bob Horand, Tunney Kennerly, Bob Williams, Marty Ramp, Chas.
