WOMEN'S STUDY CLUB HAS DELIGHTFUL MEETING
YONCALLA.—One of the outstanding meetings of the year of the Yoncalla Women's Study club, was held Thursday afternoon at the beautiful new home of Mrs. John Kruse. The Kruse home has just been remodeled and repainted. The theme of the meeting was "Pioneer Day", also guest day. Mrs. Kruse assisted by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Fred Kruse, were both dressed in pioneer dresses and graciously met the guests at the door. Mrs. Bainbridge of English Settlement and Mrs. Zenger were also dressed in pioneer dresses. A delicious two course luncheon was enjoyed, followed by the program and regular meeting. Roll call was answered to by each lady giving short talks on "Early American Fashions," reminiscing on pioneer days. One of the outstanding responses was made by Mrs. Lamberson, a guest, whose parents, and also her husband's parents were among those early settlers, who so gallantly crossed the plains, and settled in Our Beautiful Oregon. Mr. Lamberson's parents came west, going around the Horn and up the coast. Mrs. Kruse was presented with a beautiful mirror from the members of the club for her new home.

OPA Faces Hard Task To Fill Reedsport Post

REEDSPORT—The district supervisor of the OPA has been busily engaged in Reedsport this week interviewing business men and others with a view to an appointment of a new chairman of the local rationing board to fill the place of John Unger, who recently resigned after continuous service since the board was organized four years ago. It is reported that the supervisor has met with continuous rebuff and also that Mr. Unger has not yet been informed from the Portland headquarters whether his resignation has been accepted.

In the meantime Mr. Unger, who is a member of the city council, has been selected by that body as the president for the ensuing year, which is considered by many as a vote of confidence in his integrity, which it is claimed was questioned when he submitted his resignation as chairman of the local war price and rationing body.
