MRS. A. G. HENNINGER IS CHAIRMAN OF WOMEN'S DIVISION OF POLIO DRIVE

The fight against infantile paralysis is drawn to special public attention at this time each year. However, there is a group of women in this community who are waging a year-around battle against the dreaded disease.

In Douglas county these home-front soldierettes are led by Mrs. A. G. Henninger, Roseburg, chairman of the women's division in this county. Mrs. Ruth Williams, who has headquarters in Portland, is the regional representative for Oregon from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Mrs. Henninger and her staff of volunteer workers are carrying on a year-around fight against infantile paralysis in this area. Half of the money raised through the annual March of Dimes will stay in this section to provide the aid required by polio victims regardless of age, race, creed or color.

Last year the state of Oregon was second only to the District of Columbia in its per capita amount raised through the March of Dimes campaign. It is the hope of Mrs. Henninger that during the drive, Jan. 1 to 31, this city will better its last year's average and that Oregon will again lead the nation.

Douglas county's active women's division is ready if an outbreak of polio should strike here. By working with the health department and the local Parent-Teacher's association, the women of this community are prepared to give all possible aid to local medical and health authorities and provide funds, equipment and technicians wherever needed.

Mrs. Henninger and her committee work in cooperation with state and county rehabilitation agencies in assisting handicapped polios to become self-supporting.

Basil O'Connor, director of the National Foundation, New York, emphasized again that no victim of polio should go without care because of lack of funds. If the funds in the local chapter are exhausted, additional funds will be advanced by the foundation.

DIAL-LOG
By SUSAN

As far as we're concerned, the two brightest spots in Thursday night's program are Music You Remember at 6:30 and Wings Over the Nation at 9:30, which makes it a long time between drinks. We've been promising to do something about Thursday night for a long time now — and if you'll be patient for just a little while longer, we'll have some good entertainment for you. Friday's listening is much more to our taste. Although we're not strictly speaking, fight fans, we like Freedom of Opportunity. To our way of thinking that show is four-star family entertainment and especially fine for the younger generation. Double or Nothing at 6:30 comes from Cleveland this week, saluting the premiere of "Suspect" and having as special guests a group of Cleveland blood donors.

We haven't any advance information of the fight for Friday, but undoubtedly it will be a 10-round war. Double or Nothing there seems to be a shortage of heavyweights since Joe entered the army. We'll give you at least fifteen minutes of basketball from 9:15 to 9:30, more if there's a short fight, and we'll let you know about Saturday's game later. We're not climbing out on a limb again.

Farm Labor Plans For 1945 Forming

More women and children from Oregon towns and cities will be needed to harvest 1945 crops than were used this past year, farm labor assistants from 16 Oregon counties agreed recently at a conference at Oregon State college.

Because of the continued drain of young men from farms and a possible tightening up on the number of Mexicans that will be made available in Oregon, local communities will remain as the main source of seasonal farm workers, J. R. Beck, state farm labor supervisor in the extension service, pointed out.

He predicted even greater use of women, boys and girls from towns and cities will be necessary. Full utilization of returning war veterans who desire farm work was suggested by W. A. Schoenfeld, dean and director of agriculture, who pointed out that farm work offered many possibilities for these former servicemen. He emphasized the need, however, for individual attention to each veteran to assure placement in the proper job.

Army authorities have indicated that an increased number of prisoners of war will be available for agricultural work, it was reported.

Armstrong Gets Disputed Decision Over Slider
OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 18. — (AP) — Henry Armstrong, former holder of three boxing titles, last night came out of his first fight since September with a draw, but the fans thought that Chester Slider of Fresno, Calif., should have had the decision.

The Associated Press scoresheet gave Armstrong two rounds and Slider, a relatively unknown fighter, eight. But Referee Jimmy Evans called it even.

Armstrong went into the ring at 140, Slider at 146. The former featherweight, welterweight, and lightweight champion was a three-to-one favorite. He was out of condition, however, slow on his feet and off in his timing.
