MILDRED DILLING TO BE HEARD IN CONCERT

Members of the Community Concert association will have the privilege of hearing the world's greatest harpist, Mildred Dilling, in concert at the junior high school at 8:15 the evening of Feb. 1.

When Artists Films in Hollywood had the idea of a series of 24 shorts featuring the great musicians of the time, there could be no doubt of her selection as a harpist. Jose Iturbi made his short illustrating the piano at the same time on another stage and the Coolidge quartet also recorded their art nearby.

While in Hollywood, Miss Dilling fell right into her routine and gave Harpo Marx a lesson a day—an invariable custom whenever the two chance to be in the same place. When their paths do not cross for an exceptionally long time, Harpo rings up her studio and takes his lesson by long distance telephone.

Next door to Miss Dilling's residence in Hollywood, lived Deanna Durbin. The actress was so charmed by Miss Dilling's playing that she began taking harp lessons from her. Miss Dilling played at a shower given for Deanna's sister's baby, choosing as an appropriate number, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" which Deanna had sung at her sister's wedding. Deanna asked her to play again, and so Miss Dilling gave the baby a toy, "The Music Box," one of her favorite selections as an after-piece.

Mr. and Mrs. John Larkin gave a dinner for Miss Dilling and there she met, among others, Judith Anderson, Vivien Leigh, and her husband, Laurence Olivier. Miss Dilling brought her little Irish harp, and almost before one could say "glissando"—let alone play one—Mr. Olivier was picking out melodies on the harp while Miss Dilling wove a deft bass to them. When the Oliviers returned to England, although they were not allowed much luggage, what they did take included a full set of Dilling records. Miss Leigh, writing from London under the German bombings, said that to listen to their serene loveliness seemed like memories of another world.

Another Hollywood personality whom Miss Dilling met was Alec Templeton, the blind pianist. Mr. Templeton has long been a Dilling admirer, and when her record of Rousseau piece "Pastoral Variations on an Old Noel" came out, he played it for four hours, until he could play it himself. When Miss Dilling was invited to play for Templeton's marriage to Juliet Valani, with this in mind, she selected the "Pastoral Variations." This was Hollywood's most musical wedding in many a day, for not only did Miss Dilling play, but Richard Bonelli and Pat O'Malley sang.

FORD NEWS

from LOCKWOOD MOTORS

Ford Wartime Production

Enough steel to make two battleships is produced every month by the open hearth furnaces at the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company.

Forty-five hundred tons of coal—enough to fill 120 railroad cars—are used daily in the coke ovens at the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company.

The main powerhouse at the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company is the largest single unit of its kind in the world. Its power output of 4,000,000 kilowatts a day would be ample for the domestic needs of a city of 750,000 population.

Three thousand tons of coke is produced each day at the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company. This is enough to heat 428 homes for a year.

Ninety thousand pounds of ammonium sulphate—enough to fertilize 225 acres of farmland—is produced each day in the by-products plant of the Ford Motor Company at Dearborn.

Fifty-four million cubic feet of coke oven gas are produced daily, for its own consumption, by the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company. That is enough to supply Detroit and its suburbs for 12 hours, and is in addition to similar quantities of blast furnace gas produced.

A single day's output of the modern glass plant operated by the Ford Motor Company in Dearborn can produce enough glass to supply the needs of 1,000 moderately sized home dwelling units.

The Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company produces 28,000 gallons of tar a day. This is used as a supplemental fuel in furnaces and boilers, greatly reducing the company's consumption of commercial fuel oil.

Sixty million pounds of high pressure steam—enough to heat 350,000 average sized homes—is produced daily at the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company.

The industrial needs of the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company require 245 million gallons of water a year. Water is pumped from the Detroit river to the Rouge plant through a 16 foot pipe—at the rate of 6,000,000 gallons an hour. Total gallons consumed by the Rouge plant equals that of Baltimore, Cleveland and San Francisco combined.
