High Octane Gas for B-29 Tokyo Raiders

Reflecting the highlights and shadows of night war production, these Hortonaphere storage tanks, part of the new $20,000,000 Defense Plant Corporation refinery operated by Standard of California near San Francisco, hold huge quantities of 100 octane gas destined for Saipan-based B-29 Tokyo raiders and other Pacific aerial operations. The refinery is one of world's largest high octane producers with capacity of several thousands of barrels daily.

American Victims of Brutal Nazi Massacre

Tight-lipped furious Yanks check identification of these bodies of American soldiers, killed by their Nazi captors in cold blood after they had been captured. Before Germans turned their machine guns on the defenseless men, they first stripped them of their cigarettes and all valuable possessions. Only a handful of the men left to die in the Belgian snow escaped to tell the fiendish story. Photo by Harold Seligman, NEA-Acme photographer for War Picture Post.

Disabled Veterans May Drive

Promise that servicemen who have lost their legs will not be deprived of the convenience and pleasure of auto driving is seen in the fact that the two veterans in the photo above have just won driver's licenses in Georgia. S/Sgt John F. Lancaster of Auggilla, Miss (at wheel), and Cpl. Thomas Swann, right, of Ophelia, Va., learned to drive with artificial limbs at Lawson General Hospital, Atlanta. At left is Sgt E. D. Mink, Georgia State Patrol, who supervised their successful road tests.

JAP LAND MIGHT

Yanks and their allies have whittled down the Jap fleet to the point where the Pacific is almost totally an Allied lake. In the air, the enemy is somewhat better off, but we maintain aerial superiority in current combat theatres. However, Japan has plenty of manpower on hand, as chart above shows, which will make for tough fighting if and when we land on the Chinese coast.
