that to enforce the law should not have a raise," Harvey said. Mrs. Poole met with success, however. Harvey's was the only dissenting vote. Harvey later made the same objection to a Clackamas county salary bill, with the same result. The bills now go to the senate.

Salary Boosts Sought—Three bills to increase salaries of state elective officers were introduced today by the house committee on administration and reorganization. The governor, who now gets $7500 a year, would be boosted to $9000. The present and proposed salaries for other officials follow: Supreme court justices, $7500 to $8000; secretary of state and state treasurer, $5400 to $6000; attorney general, $5000 to $5750; labor commissioner and state superintendent of public instruction, $4000 to $5000.

Rep. Brady, Portland democrat, introduced a bill today to give the state public utilities commission authority to regulate pension systems of utilities. A bill to let school boards contract for liability insurance, and to let them enter contracts for medical and hospital benefits for school athletes was introduced in the house today by Rep. Wilson, St. Helens democrat. A bill by Sen. Lamport, Salem, to compel fireproofing of circuses and other tents used for public gatherings was passed by the senate today and sent to the house. Lamport said the bill is the outgrowth of the Ringling Brothers circus fire at Hartford, Conn., last summer, and that it is similar to a law recently enacted in Connecticut and several other states.

To Clear Tax Muddle—The community property tax muddle was solved by the senate judiciary committee, which reported out three bills, which probably will be before the senate tomorrow. The muddle was created when the United States supreme court ruled that the Oklahoma optional community property law, after which Oregon's 1943 act was patterned, could not be used to let husbands and wives split their incomes for federal tax purposes.

The three bills would repeal the 1943 law, prevent gift taxes from being levied against property which a husband transferred to his wife under the law, and allow the 1251 couples who went under the law to get back under the old system. PUD Scrap Renewed—The public ownership vs. private ownership fight came into the open at a senate utilities committee hearing on a bill by Senator Chessman, Astoria, to prevent peoples' utility districts from serving outside their boundaries without consent of the new customers. State farm groups and PUD's claimed the bill would cripple the PUD movement, while Senator Chessman said the bill "merely provides for democratic processes."

The senate's judiciary committee sent the civil rights bill to the floor without recommendation. It would set penalties for discrimination against negroes in public places. The bill to tax aviation gasoline five cents a gallon appeared dead after the house committee on motor vehicles and aeronautics heard the attorney general's office say it is unconstitutional. Other witnesses said it would jeopardize federal funds for Oregon. The employers bill to reduce unemployment compensation taxes was introduced today. Payroll taxes now range from 1 to 4 per cent, while the proposed taxes would be from 1 of 1 per cent to 2.7 per cent, with stable industries still to get lower rates than those which have high labor turnover.

Bootleg Ban Passed—The senate passed and sent to the house three bills to halt operation of bootleg and unlicensed bars to confirm the liquor commission's right to ration liquor in war time. A memorial asking President Roosevelt to return the country to standard time, and thus set the clocks back an hour, was introduced.
