

Sunday at the Churches

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

Lord Moulton in an address delivered a number of years ago, used this striking phrase: "Obedience to the unenforceable." It was his thought that character was to be measured by certain inner standards, which no one can force upon us, and yet to which we are true. Here we have an insight into the nature of true greatness. It is found in that quality of life which is governed not by standards of mediocrity but by inner standards of excellence. Great art, great religion all rest back upon self-imposed standards of excellence. Someone has said that a person's character can be judged by what he would do if he knew he would never be found out. It is in possessing inner standards of excellence that we come to own our own souls. To give to the commonplace tasks our highest ability to seek the best in ourselves and in others to strive for a higher quality of life, that is true artistry in living. The great man is he who in the midst of the crowd keeps with sweetness the independence of solitude. Amen.
