Senate-Approved Tax Study Plan Now up to House

SALEM, Ore., Feb. 7.—(AP)—The battle for votes over Governor Snell's requested study of the state's tax system shifted today to the house of representatives after the senate approved it 20 to 10.

The resolution by Senator McKenna, Portland republican, calls for a committee of 15 citizens to do the investigating in the next two years. The committee would have power to hire a firm of tax experts.

Two weeks ago the senate voted 22 to 8 against the measure. But by yesterday, the governor had gained 12 more votes.

McKenna denied the purpose of the investigation was to force a sales tax upon the people, a charge made by opponents of the resolution.

Opponents also said the $25,000 investigation would be wasted, that a firm of tax experts couldn't uncover anything that isn't known now.

McKenna said there are many facts about the tax system that are unknown, but the main thing he said would be accomplished is the discovery of whether new industries locate in neighboring states because of Oregon's taxes.

Driver Exams To Be Increased Here

Due to the large volume of applications for permits to operate motor vehicles, examinations will be conducted in Roseburg Feb. 14 and each succeeding Wednesday during February. Ward McReynolds announced today. The original February schedule omitted the Roseburg stop next Wednesday, but so many applications are pending that the examiner will visit the city as usual.

Mrs. C. B. Roberts Talks On Chile to Kiwanians

Members of the Roseburg Kiwanis club heard an interesting talk by Mrs. Charles B. Roberts at the regular Tuesday luncheon meeting. Mrs. Roberts described the country of Chile, where she made her home for two years. She told of the beauty of the mountains, lakes and valleys. Copper and nitrates are taken in large quantities in the northern sections, she told the Kiwanians, while agriculture, fruit raising and wineries are the principal industries of the central section. The lumbering industry is of great importance in the southern section. Nearly all industries, she said, are in the hands of monopolies, which maintain extensive modern equipment. There is a very small middle class of people, the majority of the residents are either wealthy or very poor.
