and a great highway leading straight west to the German capital, has been chosen by the Russian high command as THE PLACE.

HERE THE WEST bank of the Oder is LGW and the east bank high, enabling the Russian artillery to shoot down and eliminating the hazard of a high bank to be climbed by the assault forces after they get across. Zhukov now holds 50 miles of the east bank, a safely wide enough base for his assault wedge.

ON the western front, we and the British are punching with RISING POWER.

There is reference again in the dispatches to the significance of our capture of the control dams at the head of the Roer. One guesses from what is said that the Germans had hoped to hold these dams against the zero hour when we attack in full force on the lower Roer, then OPEN their gates and send a wall of water swirling down to overwhelm us.

READING the dispatches, one gains unavoidably the impression that Eisenhower is poised and ready, WAITING FOR THE SIGNAL.

A HEAD of us and the British is the Rhine—a far tougher water barrier than the Oder. Military "observers" in Washington are speculating that we may jump it with airborne troops.

(We have an airborne ARMY which we tried to use decisively at Arnhem but failed of success because our supporting ground troops couldn't get up in time. If we try it again, we'll move heaven and earth to get them there in time.

(If we can speculate about an airborne crossing of the Rhine, so can the Germans. They'll move heaven and earth to break it up—as they did at Arnhem.)

THE stage is set. The players are in their places. The audience (EVERYBODY in the world) is tense with excitement and grim anticipation. The curtain is ABOUT TO GO UP.

OUR "limited offensive" in Italy seems stopped. The Germans aren't pulling out.

At this tense moment, here is some idle guessing: Northern Italy is CLOSE to the Berchtesgaden area of the Alps where the nazis are supposed to be preparing their last-man stand. If they really are planning such a stand, northern Italy would HAVE to be held.

IN the Pacific, Manila is in the final throes of a typical Jap suicide stand. Jap demolition squads work until shot down—their purpose to damage the city as much as possible before they die. Our planes drop 204 tons of

THE BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

By Charles V. Stanton

PERHAPS not everyone realizes what a great world asset has developed from the Boy Scout movement, reports Kenneth A. Wells, district Scout executive, to whom we are indebted for the information which follows, concerning the Scout movement.

The problems that will face the democratic nations in a postwar world will not be merely economic. They will be psychological as well. Whole countries will have to develop new habits of thinking and foster a spirit of cooperation with each other based on mutual tolerance and respect.

Around the world the Scout movement for more than three decades has proved to be an effective means of building understanding and good will among youth. Before the war the world Scout membership numbered more than three millions. More than seventy lands had Boy Scouts, all with the same program. Their regularly scheduled world jamborees, or camps, brought together every four years from 25,000 to 50,000 boys from all over the world. The international friendships formed by those boys have spread in ever widening circles.

Both Mussolini and Hitler feared the power of Scouting and abolished the Scout organizations in their countries in favor of their own heel-clicking, hate-fostering youth programs. In the invaded countries they have persecuted Scouts with special vindictiveness. But Scouts met in secret and kept in touch with each other through the International Scout Bureau in London. They are prepared to take up where they left off as each country is liberated.

Now the Boy Scouts of America, in observing their 35th anniversary, from Feb. 8 to 14, take the theme, "Scouts of the World—Brothers Together." The principles engendered by the Boy Scout program have the chance to be one of the strong links in bringing about and maintaining universal world peace.

President Roosevelt recognizes this potential peace influence in a message directed to the Scouts on the occasion of their anniversary.

"It is the youth of the world," he said, "who must share and maintain the peace now being purchased so dearly on the battlefronts."

He expresses the conviction that "Boy Scouts and Cubs, as well as senior groups, through their mutual understanding, mutual appreciation and mutual respect, will be among the leaders in the promotion of comradeship among the democratic peoples of the earth."

In his message to the 1,800,000 members of the Boy Scouts of America, of which he is honorary president, and an active leader for 23 years, President Roosevelt said the theme of this year's observance, "Scouts of the World—Brothers Together," gave him great personal satisfaction.

"At the time of our national jamboree in 1937," the President said, "I was happy to note the many Scouts from across the seas who came to camp with the Boy Scouts of America to learn more of our way of life. At the World Scout Jamboree, Scouts from freedom-loving nations lived together, found common interests and ideals, and formed friendships of lasting value to themselves and others."

"Now the Boy Scouts of America come forward with a positive program for emphasizing the world brotherhood of Scouting."

"Friendship is a basis of our Scout ideals and a part of our Scout law. Let us live by it and strengthen it!

"God bless you all!"

And to that prayer we breathe a heartfelt "Amen."

bombs on Corregidor—the biggest land yet. A typical jungle fight, where the death-loving Japs are at their best, is raging on Bataan.

GENERAL WEDEMAYER (who succeeded Stilwell in our China command) says Manila fell quicker than the little yellow men expected. He adds that they're now rushing to complete a deep defense belt in eastern China to meet our expected landing on the south China coast. Among other things, they're squeezing out our advance air bases in south China. As the battle of Europe nears its possible end, the battle of Asia begins to shape up.

THERE'S a thrilling little note in the Pacific war news—thrilling because it indicates BRAINS AND DARING on our side. Australian mine-laying planes BOTTLE UP a Jap fleet in a Dutch East Indies harbor by the process of SOWING MINES all around it from the air. The bottled-up fleet is said in today's dispatches to consist of four battleships, an aircraft carrier, six cruisers and "many" destroyers. That's quite a fleet in itself. If it can be KEPT TRAPPED behind the circle of mines sown by the Australians it will be a great achievement.

If it works, we'll have out-thought the Jap again—doing something he didn't expect us to do.

A lively boxing card is in prospect for the High school smoker to be staged at the Roseburg armory Feb. 14, Roy Sunderland, boxing coach, reported today. The card will include a battle royal between fifth and sixth grade contestants, eleven boxing bouts and a wrestling bout, the latter to be presented by Joe Scallon, 170 pounds, and Art Pollard, 168 pounds.

Dawn Lillard, 161, is seeking a match, Sunderland reports, but has been unable to find an opponent in his weight class.

Plans are being made for an inter-school match with Springfield. Tentative plans call for the Springfield team to come to Roseburg March 2 to meet the best of the Roseburg boxers as shown by the forthcoming card. The Roseburg team, in turn, will go to Springfield March 9. The entire arrangement is tentative and details are still to be arranged.

Axemen of Eugene Mow Down R. H. S. Hoopsters, 52-22

The Eugene High school Axmen carved out a 52 to 22 victory over the Roseburg Indians at Eugene last night to take revenge for the scare thrown into them in their recent appearance at Roseburg, when they eked out a victory by only two points in the last few minutes of play.

Last night's game appeared like it might be a repeat performance during the first period, but as the second frame got under way there was no further question as to the ultimate outcome. Eugene won the first quarter 17 to 12, but by half-time had pushed the score up to 28 to 14. But it was in the fourth quarter that the Axemen really displayed the style which has made them the undisputed champions of the district, as they ran up 14 points while holding the Indians to one lone free throw.

The Indians meet Coquille on the Roseburg court tonight. Unable to win in their own league, they have been doing quite well in facing opponents from other divisions, and would be in the top bracket in the Coos county district. Two games are on tap next week. Reedsport will play at Roseburg Tuesday night, and the Indians will go to Junction City Friday night. The final game of the season will be played at Roseburg Feb. 20 against University High of Eugene.
